REPUBLICANS AND DEMOCRATS CLAIM VICTORY TUESDAY

WILL TEST NEW DEAL

Fletcher Says G. O. P. Will Retain Strength In Upper House

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—(AP)—In their semi-final clash of the political campaign, both the Democratic and Republican national chairman tonight avowed confidence in the outcome Tuesday.

"Substantial gains in the senate" were predicated by James A. Farley for the New Deal. Henry P. Fletcher said Republican strength there would be retained.

As for the house, Farley said "we will hold our present membership (309) and possibly make some gains."

"Republican representation in the house (114) will be increased from 60 to 70 members," Fletcher countered. "I should not be surprised if our gains were much larger."

The 33 gubernatorial contests were not touched on by Farley; but Fletcher predicted G. O. P. state tickets would "win in all normally Republican states and we will elect governors in several states which are now Democratic."

While his statement conformed to pre-election tradition in drawing party distinctions, Farley's was unique in that it contained neither the word "Democrat" nor "Republican." The question, as put by him, is between the "New Deal" and the "old order."

Not so with Senator James Hamilton Lewis, chairman of the Democratic senatorial committee.

"I am convinced of the success of our party," said he, predicting a two-thirds senate majority or a gain of at least four seats to make it 64.

He used the words "a Democratic victory."

It all contributed to the discussion aroused by President Roosevelt's remarks yesterday that were interpreted as inviting the electorate to vote for individual candidacies, rather than straight party tickets. Arriving at Hyde Park today, by the way, he made clear that he would vote there Tuesday for Senator Copeland as well as Governor Lehman.

This was to dispel a contrary impression gained by some from the omission of Copeland's name in the White House statement endorsing Lehman. When asked about Copeland, Mr. Roosevelt had remarked it would be amazing to know how often he had voted for Republicans.

Last minute reports to the president on the outlook named Maryland, West Virginia, Missouri, New Jersey, Indiana and Ohio as most likely to return Democrats for senate seats now Republican. Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Connectitcut and possibly Vermont were placed next in order.

None of these were conceded by the Republicans, who were looking to Wyoming and Nevada for their best chances to overturn senate Democrats.

FORMER POLICE CHIEF INDICTED

2 Other Officials Accused Of Perjury In Probe Of Massacre

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Eugene C. Reppert, director of police at the time of the union station slayings of four officers and their prisoner, was indicted tonight with two other police officials for perjury in their testimony before a federal grand jury which is investigating the killings.

In addition to Reppert, who has since resigned his post, those named were Thomas J. Higgins, chief of detectives, and George Rayen, head of the police motor car theft bureau.

The indictments came while Adam Richetti, accused of taking part in the slayings, was en route from Ohio in custody of federal marshals, to appear before the inquisitorial body.

MARY DENIES MAKING UP WITH FAIRBANKS

CHICAGO, Nov. 3.—(AP)—It must have been something she said.

At any rate, when Mary Pickford came out of the west today she found the breakfast tables agog over a report that she had acknowledged a reconciliation with the estranged athletic husband, Douglas Fairbanks.

As for Mary, she was annoyed. She had three things to say about it:

"The answer is no. It isn't so. It's not true."

Her audience, in Miss Pickford's hotel suite, took it that she meant to deny any reported admission in a Kansas City interview that she and Fairbanks had arranged a rapprochement. The actress did not specifically say she and Douglas were getting along nicely or weren't.

Perched on the edge of a straight backed period chair, her feet swinging an inch or two clear of the floor, Miss Pickford solemnly told her questioners she would be happy to discuss anything except her domestic affairs which seemed to be most interesting to everyone else

Long Indian Trail
Can't Please Everybody

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

(Copyright, 1934, by King Features Syndicate, Inc., International Copyright and all other rights reserved.)

THIS IS WRITTEN on the Lackawanna railroad, west of the Delaware water gap. Travelling over this country that reaches from the Atlantic to the Pacific, from cold north to warm south, with numerous troubles all the way, in all directions, you say of many places "surely nothing in the world could be more beautiful than this."

The Delaware water gap is such a place, and this is the time of year to see it.

From the level of the river to the top of the high cliffs trees seem to grow out of the solid rock of the mountain through which the Delaware river cut a deep path on its way to the ocean, millions of years ago.

Beautiful trees that cover valleys and trees that cover valleys and rolling hills wear the most gorgeous colors as nature bids farewell to the season of warmth and beauty. Soon will come snow and cold that represent the white hair of old age, and death.

THIS LACKAWANNA road was surveyed by skilled engineers and, after all their surveying, the engineers discovered that the shortest road from New York to Buffalo was to be found following paths marked out by the Moccasins of running Indians hundreds of years before.

LAYTON APPEAL CASE ARGUED IN SUPREME COURT

West Carroll Youth Seeks New Trial In Killing Of Waters

Arguments in a case in which three links in the chain of death have already been welded and in which two others apparently are in the making were made in New Orleans Friday before the supreme court of Louisiana, it was learned here Saturday. The case was that in which Carley Layton, 24, living about seven miles out of Oak Grove, is appealing from the death sentence imposed in connection with the fatal stabbing of Bill Waters, Oak Grove high school boy, last April 28.

The defense was argued by George Wesley Smith, attorney of Rayville and Monroe, who said here Saturday that he had strong hopes of gaining a new trial. Mr. Smith was not an attorney in the case at the trial, but was called into the case when an appeal to the high court was taken.

Mr. Smith said the hope of the defense for a new trial rested on the manner in which the jury was selected. The attorney stated that the trial judge ordered the sheriff to

GOVERNOR ORDERS LYNCHING PROBE

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Nov. 3.—(AP)—The Escambia county grand jury today was ordered into special session by Alabama's chief executive to make a thorough investigation of the delivery of a negro to the hands of a Florida mob that executed him near Greenwood, Fla., a week ago.

Governor B. M. Miller in his letter to Solicitor Hugh M. Caffey, Jr., directed him to place the matter of the removal of Claude Neal, the mob victim, from the Escambia county jail on October 26, before the grand jury, to convene on November 19.

The letter was accompanied by purported statements of witnesses the contents of which Governor Miller did not make public. It was on the basis of these the special grand jury session was ordered.

"It seems from these statements," the governor wrote the solicitor, "that it is absolutely necessary that a grand jury be convened in Escambia county to investigate this matter."

Redemption Of Building Drive Pledges Continues

Redemption of pledges made in the "Renovize the Twin Cities" campaign, continues to climb, according to the weekly report made Saturday by S. H. McClary, the campaign director. To date, $239,303.13 has been spent on repairing, remodeling and rebuilding homes in the two cities. This total represents 67 per cent of the original pledges, which amounts to $357,019.63.

In making the report, the campaign chairman said that no account has been taken of repairs and alterations that have not been pledged as incident to the original "renovize" program. A number of projects have been undertaken since the list of pledges closed. These will be the subject of a supplementary report after the redemption of the first pledges has been completed.

KINGSFORD-SMITH LEAVES HONOLULU ON OAKLAND HOP

Two Fliers Depart On 2,408-Mile Flight To California Coast

IDEAL WEATHER SEEN

Australians Take Off On Last Lap Of Journey From Down Under

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 2.—(AP)—Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith was 440 statute miles east of Honolulu at 8 p.m. (Pacific standard time) on the last leg of his flight from Australia to California, said a message intercepted by Radiomarine corporation here tonight.

HONOLULU, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Sir Chas. Kingsford-Smith and Captain P. G. Taylor, Australian airmen, took flight today for Oakland, Calif., to finish their migration from Brisbane, a 7,365-mile journey. They took off at 2:15 p.m. (7:45 p.m. eastern standard time).

They planned to soar 2,408 miles over the Pacific and reach Oakland in seventeen hours at 9:30 a.m. tomorrow coast time, (12:30 p.m. eastern standard time).

The ship carried sandwiches, beef tea and a bottle of pineapple juice, which Kingsford-Smith estimated was all that he and Taylor would need.

Every plane on Wheeler field was grounded as the Lady Southern Cross shot down the runway, army authorities taking this precaution to prevent any possible trouble. Military police closed all roads to the field for the take-off.

Fueling was begun shortly after Sir Charles completed a test hop in which he drove the plane at 210 miles an hour. Six hundred gallons of gasoline was placed aboard weighing 4,200 pounds.

With ideal weather predicted all the way, and heavy tailwinds at high altitudes for much of the course, Kingsford-Smith thought the plane might travel faster than he planned, but if so he said he would throttle down to avoid reaching Oakland before 9:30 a.m.

EARTHQUAKE FELT IN SEATTLE AREA

Old Mount Si Blamed For Tremor Which Occurs After Storm

SEATTLE, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Northwestern Washington was shaken slightly by an earthquake today a few hours after a gale had swept the coastal area.

The earth tremor, starting at 6:52 a.m. (Pacific coast time) and continuing for two minutes, rattled dishes and awakened many persons but no damage was reported. It was felt in Seattle, Mount Vernon, Tacoma, Bremerton, Bellingham, Skykomish, Sedrowoolley and Concrete, and in the Baker river area.

Earlier an electrical storm was born in by high winds. The gale registered 36 miles an hour here and was preceded by hail and thunder.

Old Mount Si, so called because it is older than others about it at the edge of the Cascade range, was blamed for the earthquake by G. E. Goodspeed, associated professor of geology. He said a geological fault runs north and south along the juncture of the Mount Si rock with the newer Cascade mountain rock formation in the Snoqualmie area.

Ellensburg, on the east side of the Cascades, which has been experiencing minor earthquakes with more or less regularity during the summer and fall, did not feel today's shock. However, it had ten distinct shocks Thursday night.

Scientists explained that no major quakes have ever been felt in this region because a thick layer of the alluvial soil would absorb most of the shock caused by slippage of rock formations.

WEST MONROE COURT CONVICTS 74 PERSONS

Convictions were returned in 74 of a total of 96 cases tried in West Monroe city court during October, fines amounting to $623.82 were collected and fines charged to work on the streets amounted to $235, it was revealed in the monthly report of J. C. Cobb, chief of police.

Fines assessed amounted to $1,295. Fines suspended amounted to $171.50 and fines stayed amounted to $174.68.

Arrests during the month were made for violations as follows: Drunk and disorderly, 27; investigation, 8; apprehended for various sheriffs' departments, 5; fighting and disturbing the peace, 10; drawing and displaying a dangerous weapon, 2; driving while intoxicated, 7; indecent exposure, 1; traffic violations, 12; non-payment of fines, 2; acting in a dangerous and suspicious manner, 2.

Chief Cobb has been head of the West Monroe police department since December 9 of last year, and since that time the number of arrests each month have increased considerably over the arrests for each corresponding month last year. The amount of fines collected had increased substantially.

PARNELL DENIES BLACKWOOD GOT MONEY FOR HIM

Ex-Governor Contradicts Testimony Of Former Highway Chief

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Nov. 3.—(AP) Testimony of Dwight H. Blackwood, former chairman of the Arkansas highway commission before the highway audit commission, that he had collected large sums for the 1928 and 1930 gubernatorial campaigns of former Governor Harvey Parnell, much of it from cement and other highway materials concerns, was made public here today and was quickly contradicted by Parnell tonight.

In a farewell report, the highway audit commission published a transcript of testimony given before it a month ago by Blackwood in which the former highway chairman said he had been a political "money raiser" for Parnell and others.

"Yes, sir. I was the chief money raiser," Blackwood was quoted in the transcript in answer to a question about alleged collections for campaign expenses for Parnell and others. "I got about $70,000 one year and $55,000 another year."

After testifying that cement companies contributed "plenty" to the Parnell campaign, Blackwood asserted that he had furnished Parnell with the organization that beat Brooks Hays in 1928 and that "we bought him (Parnell) 14,000 votes and we paid for them and nothing was said about it."

"It's news to me.

"If he colelcted for my campaign, he did it on his own initiative. If he collected the money he must have spent it. He was not authorized by me or my campaign manager to collect any money for me. I'm sure no amount like that was spent in my campaign. I paid left over bills all the time I was in office. I never knew Blackwood took enough interest in my campaigns to collect money for me."

VETERAN DIES

HAUGHTON, La., Nov. 3.—(AP)—Dr. Paul Lawrence, Sr., 95, Confederate veteran and a resident here for more than 80 years, died suddenly at his home here early today. Dr. Lawrence retired from the practice of medicine 20 years ago. He had been in good health, having made a trip to Shreveport yesterday. The funeral probably will be held tomorrow.

Louisiana Committee Discusses Changes To Be Balloted Tuesday

SHREVEPORT, La., Nov. 3.—(Special)—A committee of the Louisiana Citizens' organization, a group of business and professional leaders, today made public an analysis of the proposed constitutional amendments to be voted on at next Tuesday's election throughout the state. The committee in its report recommends the adoption of amendments 8, 9, and 10. "All others," its says, "seems to have features which will make them harmful to some part of or to all private citizens of the state."

The report analyzes each of the amendments and offers its recommendation "after a careful study of the proposed changes."

"The amendments approved by the committee are: No. 8, "Permitting local liquor licenses to be greater than those levied by the state"; No. 9, "Fixing term of city court judges at six years, except in Baton Rouge"; No. 10, "dispensing with general elections except state and congressional when there is only one party nominee and no independent candidate."

Of the other amendments the report says:

"No. 1, 'Abolition of poll tax': This proposal is packed full of dangers. . . . There are about 50,000 people in the state who have not cared enough about citizenship to pay one dollar a year for it. These irresponsible people would be a great danger to decency in government. Their votes would perhaps be sold and would thus contribute to election of men unfitted to hold public office by the very fact that they were dishonest enough to buy them.

COTTON EXPORTS CAUSE CONCERN

Various Plans Offered To Relieve Shrinkage Of Shipments

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Concern over the shrinkage of cotton exports spread today from the AAA to other administration sectors, with various proposals being offered as remedies for the situation.

Since the cotton year began August 1, exports to October 25 were only 1,153,000 bales, compared to 2,202,000 for the same period last year.

Exports of the staple have averaged around 8,000,000 bales annually for the past several years, but a continuance of the present export rate would see the 1934-35 cotton season end next August 1 with only 4,612,000 bales sent out of the country.

Since the AAA began its crop adjustment plans, the 13,000,000 bale carry-over of American cotton has been reduced to 10,634,000 bales, but the latter figure is the third largest carry-over of the staple on record.

This year's crop, estimated at 9,443,000 bales, is one of the smallest on record but unless consumption, both foreign and domestic, increases, the AAA will have made little progress toward getting rid of the surplus.

The contention has been advanced too, that the government, through its offer to land any producer 12 cents a pound on his cotton, has pegged the price and created an artificial value for American cotton which has caused consumers abroad to buy Indian, Egyptian and other staples.

The market price is around 12 cents now and 12-cent loans already have been made on 1,711,905 bales of cotton. Unless the price of the staple rises the Commodity Credit corporation may find itself with from one-third to one-half of this year's crop on its hands.

INSULL DEFIANT AFTER HOURS ON WITNESS STAND

TELLS WHY HE FLED

Former Magnate Asserts He Would Have Been Crucified In U. S.

CHICAGO, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Defiant after four hours of questioning about his financial methods, Samuel Insull told a federal jury trying him for mail fraud today that his name was all the information his investors needed.

Twice when confronted with apparent weakness in the stock on which investors lost $100,000,000, Insull was asked:

"Why didn't you tell that to the public?"

The deposed utility executive waved his hand.

"They used to say that if we issued a piece of brown paper with a signature on it we could raise all the money we wanted to."

"I could have sold that stock," he was telling the jury a minute later, "on the belief that people had in my integrity." Then he shouted angrily:

"—and which they still have!"

Insull's last two hours on the witness stand, under cross examination of Assistant United States Attorney General Leslie E. Salter, brought declarations from him that his motives as a financier were honest, in spite of all evidence produced by the government that the stock in question was flimsy.

"I was doing things that I thought to be absolutely honest," he said stubbornly.

Prosecutor Salter, soft spoken and courteous, belabored Insull with charges that huge losses in his companies were concealed, and that the proudest of the entire system, the Giant Middle West Utility System, was kept afloat by juggling securities between the concerns.

But the simplest question of them all brought the angriest answer from Insull.

After Insull had admitted that he knew, in the late fall of 1932, that he was wanted in Chicago, Salter asked:

"Why didn't you come back and face the music?"

Insull began a long explanation. He had received no request. He was

GIRL DISCOVERED DEAD IN BATHTUB

Three Brothers And Sister Found Unconscious In Their Home

ROCHESTER N. Y., Nov. 3.—(AP)—A seven-year-old girl was found dead and her three brothers and a sister unconscious in their home at Fairport near here late today. The victims were found by their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred S. Corkish, when they returned home.

The dead girl, Florence, and her sister, Alice, 14, were lying in the bathtub, which was nearly full of water. The other children, Richard, 10 months old, Robert, 2, and Frank, 3, were lying on the kitchen floor.

Florence, lying on the bottom of the tub, was not noticed by the distracted parents until the unconscious form of Alice had been removed.

At the hospital it is feared Alice and Frank may die.

Questioning of the frantic parents uncovered no clue which would lead to a solution. They reported they had been absent about two and a half hours on a shopping trip. When they left the children appeared happy and contented.

Police started an immediate check of all residents in the neighborhood on the theory some fiend may have broken into the house and attacked the children, although they showed no signs of ill treatment.

DOUMERGUE SAVES 'TRUCE CABINET'

PARIS, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Premier Gaston Doumergue today saved his "political truce cabinet" but there was an armed truce with two factions.

Doumergue stood so firmly for his ideas on revision of the constitution that former Premier Edouard Herriot and five of his fellow radical Socialist ministers "reserved their liberty."

The six radical Socialists of the cabinet refused to approve the premier's text on his power to dissolve the chamber of deputies without the approval of the senate after parliament had been in session one year. Consequently they remain free to vote in parliament against their own cabinet's plan.

This same procedure was followed two years ago when ministers who disagreed with Herriot's proposal to pay American war debts were authorized to vote against it regardless of the tradition that all ministers were bound not to oppose the government in parliament.

SERIOUSLY ILL

WESTERHAM, England, Nov. 3.—(AP)—The original "Alice in Wonderland," Mrs. Alice Hargreaves, above, was critically ill tonight at her hilltop house in this Kentish village. Physicians pronounced her condition unchanged since this morning.

She is 82 years old. When she was a child of ten, the Rev. Charles Lutwidge Dodson, a mathematically inclined village vicar, told her the story of the little girl who went down a rabbit hole into Wonderland, peopled with the Mad Hatter and the Cheshire Cat.

He named the little girl Alice, after his listener, Alice Liddell, who later became Mrs. Hargreaves, and wrote Alice's adventures in Wonderland under the name of Lewis Carroll.

EDUCATION DRIVE IS SCHEDULED BY RED CROSS HERE

Intensive Campaign To Be Held Preparatory To Annual Roll Call

An intensive campaign of education will be conducted during the coming week by the committee in charge of the annual Red Cross roll call drive, which will start Wednesday, November 14, and continue through Thanksgiving day, it was announced Saturday by Joe Isaacman, the roll call chairman.

The educational campaign will begin by an appeal in all the churches today on behalf of the roll call. This phase of the effort is in the charge of Rev. Ernest D. Holloway, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, who has asked the cooperation of the pastors of all the churches in the program.

Throughout the week radio addresses will be given by local civic leaders. Station KMLB has offered the use of the air for a certain period each day for this purpose. The time will be announced later by Chairman Isaacman. Among the speakers will be Mrs. Jewell McQuiller, parish home demonstration agent; Dr. C. L. Mengis, American Legion; George W. Welch, principal of the Crosley school; Mrs. Leon McHenry, on behalf of the P.-T. A.; and a representative of the Junior Red Cross.

Other speakers during the week will include Fred Williamson, before the American Legion meeting Monday night; Barney Oakland, before the Veterans of Foreign Wars at its next meeting; Rabbi F. K. Hirsch, before a meeting of woman campaign

CANOE OF MISSING COUPLE IS FOUND

EAGLE LAKE, Me., Nov. 3.—(AP)—The canoe of Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Webster, Dover-Foxcroft couple missing on a camping trip in this section, was found today upside down at the bottom of Eagle lake.

The Websters, married less than a year, left Dover-Foxcroft on September 23, intending to travel by canoe down the Allagash river, through the heart of Maine's rugged hunting country.

A search by air, conducted by state forestry department plane, covered 500 square miles without disclosing any sign of the pair. Spurred by the offer of a $500 reward by relatives of Mrs. Webster, the former June Danforth of Dover-Foxcroft, guides and woodsmen have scoured the region for the past three weeks.

Hunters Hurry To Buy Federal License Stamps

The opening day of the duck hunting season brought a rush of buyers of federal hunting stamps at the Monroe postoffice, it was said Saturday. A total of 644 had been sold for the season. More than 1,200 state licenses had been sold prior to the opening day.

Duck shooting season opened at sunrise Friday. At that time less than 300 federal licenses had been sold. Those who missed the opportunity to get out for the first bambardment, however, did not let another day slip by, as about 350 of the stamps were sold Friday. Only a few had been added Saturday.

BURGLARY IS CHARGED

Former Athlete Commits Crime After His Release From Angola

Ernest Machen, about 24 years of age, who committed a sensational series of house burglaries here in December, 1931, including the theft of jewels valued at $15,000 from the C. E. Slagle home, has been sentenced at Los Angeles, Calif., to serve 20 years in Folsom prison, Repressa, Calif., for first degree burglary, Sheriff Milton Coverdale, of Ouachita parish, was informed Saturday in a communication from the United States bureau of criminal investigation.

Machen was sentenced in district court here in April, 1932, to serve seven years in the state penitentiary at Angola, after being tried on two of the many burglary charges against him.

Machen boasted after his sentence was passed here that he would not remain in the penitentiary long.

Following his release from the state prison, he was picked up by police at Fort Worth, Texas, July 18 of this year for investigation and his criminal record next showed he was held by the sheriff's department at Los Angeles for investigation of the burglary charge.

Details of the robbery for which Machen was convicted at Los Angeles were not received by Sheriff Coverdale.

In Monroe, prior to committing the series of burglaries, Machen was fairly well known as an athlete and was a youth of good personal appearance, with the advantages of education. Unemployed at the time of the robberies, and not enrolled at a college, he later gave as his reasons for starting along his criminal trail the desire for money to complete his college education and the immediate need of money for a disease he had contracted.

After perpetrating his robberies here, Machen was arrested for local authorities at Pine Bluff, Ark., his home city. In that city, where he sold and gave away some articles of jewelry, he was said to have been a "walking jewelry shop."

The district court here, taking into consideration Machen's youth, the fact that he had no previous criminal record, and his assistance to officers in recovery of the stolen goods, tried him on only two charges. He admitted robbing homes of C. E. Slagle (now deceased), Mrs. J. L. Adams, Herman Masur, Dr. C. U. Johnson, R. R. Reynolds and others.

At the home of Machen's brother-in-law, Joe Gaske, who resided in Monroe, was found some silverware which had been stolen in Pine Bluff. Machen also admitted this theft, and admitted other robberies in Pine Bluff.

The exact time of Machen's release from the Louisiana penitentiary and reasons why he was released were not given Sheriff Coverdale.

The sheriff received communications stating that two notorious criminals possessing lengthy records and who have received sentences here, have been taken into the toils of the law—in Pennsylvania and Michigan.

One of the criminals, known here and generally as Jame Montgomery, is serving a sentence at Greenburg, Pa., for breaking and entering and larceny. In April of this year Montgomery was sentenced to serve 10 months on the Ouachita parish road gang. He escaped from the gang, only to be arrested at Vicksburg and sentenced there to serve on a road gang.

The other notorious criminal, a forger, generally known as E. W. Davis, is now serving a sentence in the Michigan state prison at Lansing. He was convicted in district court here in April, 1933, for forgery, and sentenced to the hospital for the criminally insane at Jackson.

Sheriff Coverdale said Davis is one of the cleverest forgers of the country. Part of his methods was the printing of faked letterheads, representing non-existing or defunct companies, the writing of letters of identification on the letterheads and attaching his photograph to them.

JACKSON FAMILY DENIED FREEDOM

LAUREL, Miss., Nov. 3.—(AP)—Judge Roy P. Noble of Jones county circuit court late today dismissed a habeas corpus writ seeking the release of George Jackson, a Jasper county tenant farmer, his wife and their two sons, held on murder charges in connection with the death of Hester Jackson, 15-year-old daughter of Jackson, on Oct. 15.

Contempt charges against Sheriff J. C. Bassett, of Jasper county, were taken into advisement by Judge Noble. The sheriff was cited for contempt by Judge Noble for secretly removing three of the prisoners from the Jones county jail at Laurel to Jasper county for arraignment after the habeas corpus action had been started here by counsel for the defendants.

The father, his wife and son Lois were remanded to Jones county jail to await their preliminary hearing next Tuesday before Justice of the Peace B. R. Fail at Bay Springs, Jasper county.

"Substantial gains in the senate" were predicated by James A. Farley for the New Deal. Henry P. Fletcher said Republican strength there would be retained.

As for the house, Farley said "we will hold our present membership (309) and possibly make some gains."

"Republican representation in the house (114) will be increased from 60 to 70 members," Fletcher countered. "I should not be surprised if our gains were much larger."

The 33 gubernatorial contests were not touched on by Farley; but Fletcher predicted G. O. P. state tickets would "win in all normally Republican states and we will elect governors in several states which are now Democratic."

While his statement conformed to pre-election tradition in drawing party distinctions, Farley's was unique in that it contained neither the word "Democrat" nor "Republican." The question, as put by him, is between the "New Deal" and the "old order."

Not so with Senator James Hamilton Lewis, chairman of the Democratic senatorial committee.

"I am convinced of the success of our party," said he, predicting a two-thirds senate majority or a gain of at least four seats to make it 64.

He used the words "a Democratic victory."

It all contributed to the discussion aroused by President Roosevelt's remarks yesterday that were interpreted as inviting the electorate to vote for individual candidacies, rather than straight party tickets. Arriving at Hyde Park today, by the way, he made clear that he would vote there Tuesday for Senator Copeland as well as Governor Lehman.

This was to dispel a contrary impression gained by some from the omission of Copeland's name in the White House statement endorsing Lehman. When asked about Copeland, Mr. Roosevelt had remarked it would be amazing to know how often he had voted for Republicans.

Last minute reports to the president on the outlook named Maryland, West Virginia, Missouri, New Jersey, Indiana and Ohio as most likely to return Democrats for senate seats now Republican. Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Connecticut and possibly Vermont were placed next in order.

None of these were conceded by the Republicans, who were looking to Wyoming and Nevada for their best chances to overturn senate Democrats.

2 Other Officials Accused Of Perjury In Probe Of Massacre

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Eugene C. Reppert, director of police at the time of the union station slayings of four officers and their prisoner, was indicted tonight with two other police officials for perjury in their testimony before a federal grand jury which is investigating the killings.

In addition to Reppert, who has since resigned his post, those named were Thomas J. Higgins, chief of detectives, and George Rayen, head of the police motor car theft bureau.

The indictments came while Adam Richetti, accused of taking part in the slayings, was en route from Ohio in custody of federal marshals, to appear before the inquisitorial body.

MARY DENIES MAKING UP WITH FAIRBANKS

CHICAGO, Nov. 3.—(AP)—It must have been something she said.

At any rate, when Mary Pickford came out of the west today she found the breakfast tables agog over a report that she had acknowledged a reconciliation with the estranged athletic husband, Douglas Fairbanks.

As for Mary, she was annoyed. She had three things to say about it:

"The answer is no. It isn't so. It's not true."

Her audience, in Miss Pickford's hotel suite, took it that she meant to deny any reported admission in a Kansas City interview that she and Fairbanks had arranged a rapprochement. The actress did not specifically say she and Douglas were getting along nicely or weren't.

Perched on the edge of a straight backed period chair, her feet swinging an inch or two clear of the floor, Miss Pickford solemnly told her questioners she would be happy to discuss anything except her domestic affairs which seemed to be most interesting to everyone else

One Happy Man
What Is Our Hurry?
Can't Please Everybody

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

(Copyright, 1934, by King Features Syndicate Inc., International Copyright and all other rights reserved.)

THIS IS WRITTEN on the Lackawanna railroad, west of the Delaware water gap. Travelling over this country that reaches from the Atlantic to the Pacific, from cold north to warm south, with numerous troubles all the way, in all directions, you say of many places "surely nothing in the world could be more beautiful than this."

The Delaware water gap is such a place, and this is the time of year to see it.

From the level of the river to the top of the high cliffs trees seem to grow out of the solid rock of the mountain through which the Delaware river cut a deep path on its way to the ocean, millions of years ago.

Beautiful trees that cover valleys and trees that cover valleys and rolling hills wear the most gorgeous colors as nature bids farewell to the season of warmth and beauty. Soon will come snow and cold that represent the white hair of old age, and death.

THIS LACKAWANNA road was surveyed by skilled engineers and, after all their surveying, the engineers discovered that the shortest road from New York to Buffalo was to be found following paths marked out by the Moccasins of running Indians hundreds of years before.

West Carroll Youth Seeks New Trial In Killing Of Waters

Arguments in a case in which three links in the chain of death have already been welded and in which two others apparently are in the making were made in New Orleans Friday before the supreme court of Louisiana, it was learned here Saturday. The case was that in which Carley Layton, 24, living about seven miles out of Oak Grove, is appealing from the death sentence imposed in connection with the fatal stabbing of Bill Waters, Oak Grove high school boy, last April 28.

The defense was argued by George Wesley Smith, attorney of Rayville and Monroe, who said here Saturday that he had strong hopes of gaining a new trial. Mr. Smith was not an attorney in the case at the trial, but was called into the case when an appeal to the high court was taken.

Mr. Smith said the hope of the defense for a new trial rested on the manner in which the jury was selected. The attorney stated that the trial judge ordered the sheriff to

GOVERNOR ORDERS LYNCHING PROBE

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Nov. 3.—(AP)—The Escambia county grand jury today was ordered into special session by Alabama's chief executive to make a thorough investigation of the delivery of a negro to the hands of a Florida mob that executed him near Greenwood, Fla., a week ago.

Governor B. M. Miller in his letter to Solicitor Hugh M. Caffey, Jr., directed him to place the matter of the removal of Claude Neal, the mob victim, from the Escambia county jail on October 26, before the grand jury, to convene on November 19.

The letter was accompanied by purported statements of witnesses the contents of which Governor Miller did not make public. It was on the basis of these the special grand jury session was ordered.

"It seems from these statements," the governor wrote the solicitor, "that it is absolutely necessary that a grand jury be convened in Escambia county to investigate this matter."

Redemption Of Building Drive Pledges Continues

Redemption of pledges made in the "Renovize the Twin Cities" campaign, continues to climb, according to the weekly report made Saturday by S. H. McClary, the campaign director. To date, $239,303.13 has been spent on repairing, remodeling and rebuilding homes in the two cities. This total represents 67 per cent of the original pledges, which amounts to $357,019.63.

In making the report, the campaign chairman said that no account has been taken of repairs and alterations that have not been pledged as incident to the original "renovize" program. A number of projects have been undertaken since the list of pledges closed. These will be the subject of a supplementary report after the redemption of the first pledges has been completed

IDEAL WEATHER SEEN

Australians Take Off On Last Lap Of Journey From Down Under

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 2.—(AP)—Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith was 440 statute miles east of Honolulu at 8 p.m. (Pacific standard time) on the last leg of his flight from Australia to California, said a message intercepted by Radiomarine corporation here tonight.

HONOLULU, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Sir Chas. Kingsford-Smith and Captain P. G. Taylor, Australian airmen, took flight today for Oakland, Calif., to finish their migration from Brisbane, a 7,365-mile journey. They took off at 2:15 p.m. (7:45 p.m. eastern standard time).

They planned to soar 2,408 miles over the Pacific and reach Oakland in seventeen hours at 9:30 a.m. tomorrow coast time, (12:30 p.m. eastern standard time).

The ship carried sandwiches, beef tea and a bottle of pineapple juice, which Kingsford-Smith estimated was all that he and Taylor would need.

Every plane on Wheeler field was grounded as the Lady Southern Cross shot down the runway, army authorities taking this precaution to prevent any possible trouble. Military police closed all roads to the field for the take-off.

Fueling was begun shortly after Sir Charles completed a test hop in which he drove the plane at 210 miles an hour. Six hundred gallons of gasoline was placed aboard weighing 4,200 pounds.

With ideal weather predicted all the way, and heavy tailwinds at high altitudes for much of the course, Kingsford-Smith thought the plane might travel faster than he planned, but if so he said he would throttle down to avoid reaching Oakland before 9:30 a.m.

EARTHQUAKE FELT IN SEATTLE AREA

Old Mount Si Blamed For Tremor Which Occurs After Storm

SEATTLE, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Northwestern Washington was shaken slightly by an earthquake today a few hours after a gale had swept the coastal area.

The earth tremor, starting at 6:52 a.m. (Pacific coast time) and continuing for two minutes, rattled dishes and awakened many persons but no damage was reported. It was felt in Seattle, Mount Vernon, Tacoma, Bremerton, Bellingham, Skykomish, Sedrowoolley and Concrete, and in the Baker river area.

Earlier an electrical storm was born in by high winds. The gale registered 36 miles an hour here and was preceded by hail and thunder.

Old Mount Si, so called because it is older than others about it at the edge of the Cascade range, was blamed for the earthquake by G. E. Goodspeed, associated professor of geology. He said a geological fault runs north and south along the juncture of the Mount Si rock with the newer Cascade mountain rock formation in the Snoqualmie area.

Ellensburg, on the east side of the Cascades, which has been experiencing minor earthquakes with more or less regularity during the summer and fall, did not feel today's shock. However, it had ten distinct shocks Thursday night.

Scientists explained that no major quakes have ever been felt in this region because a thick layer of the alluvial soil would absorb most of the shock caused by slippage of rock formations.

WEST MONROE COURT CONVICTS 74 PERSONS

Convictions were returned in 74 of a total of 96 cases tried in West Monroe city court during October, fines amounting to $623.82 were collected and fines charged to work on the streets amounted to $235, it was revealed in the monthly report of J. C. Cobb, chief of police.

Fines assessed amounted to $1,205. Fines suspended amounted to $171.50 and fines stayed amounted to $174.68.

Arrests during the month were made for violations as follows: Drunk and disorderly, 27; investigation, 8; apprehended for various sheriffs' departments, 5; fighting and disturbing the peace, 10; drawing and displaying a dangerous weapon, 2; driving while intoxicated, 7; indecent exposure, 1; traffic violations, 12; non-payment of fines, 2; acting in a dangerous and suspicious manner, 2.

Chief Cobb has been head of the West Monroe police department since December 9 of last year, and since that time the number of arrests each month have increased considerably over the arrests for each corresponding month last year. The amount of fines collected had increased substantially.

Citizens Group Analyzes Proposed Constitutional Amendments Up To Voters

Louisiana Committee Discusses Changes To Be Balloted Tuesday

SHREVEPORT, La., Nov. 3.—(Special)—A committee of the Louisiana Citizens' organization, a group of business and professional leaders, today made public an analysis of the proposed constitutional amendments to be voted on at next Tuesday's election throughout the state. The committee in its report recommends the adoption of amendments 8, 9, and 10. "All others," its says, "seems to have features which will make them harmful to some part of or to all private citizens of the state."

The report analyzes each of the amendments and offers its recommendation "after a careful study of the proposed changes."

"The amendments approved by the committee are: No. 8, "Permitting local liquor licenses to be greater than those levied by the state"; No. 9, "Fixing term of city court judges at six years, except in Baton Rouge"; No. 10, "dispensing with general elections except state and congressional when there is only one party nominee and no independent candidate."

Of the other amendments the report says:

"No. 1, 'Abolition of poll tax': This proposal is packed full of dangers. . . . There are about 50,000 people in the state who have not cared enough about citizenship to pay one dollar a year for it. These irresponsible people would be a great danger to decency in government. Their votes would perhaps be sold and would thus contribute to election of men unfitted to hold public office by the very fact that they were dishonest enough to buy them.

"No. 2, 'Exemption of $2,000 assess-

Ex-Governor Contradicts Testimony Of Former Highway Chief

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Nov. 3.—(AP) Testimony of Dwight H. Blackwood, former chairman of the Arkansas highway commission before the highway audit commission, that he had collected large sums for the 1928 and 1930 gubernatorial campaigns of former Governor Harvey Parnell, much of it from cement and other highway materials concerns, was made public here today and was quickly contradicted by Parnell tonight.

In a farewell report, the highway audit commission published a transcript of testimony given before it a month ago by Blackwood in which the former highway chairman said he had been a political "money raiser" for Parnell and others.

"Yes, sir. I was the chief money raiser," Blackwood was quoted in the transcript in answer to a question about alleged collections for campaign expenses for Parnell and others. "I got about $70,000 one year and $55,000 another year."

After testifying that cement companies contributed "plenty" to the Parnell campaign, Blackwood asserted that he had furnished Parnell with the organization that beat Brooks Hays in 1928 and that "we bought him (Parnell) 14,000 votes and we paid for them and nothing was said about it."

"It's news to me.

"If he colelcted for my campaign, he did it on his own initiative. If he collected the money he must have spent it. He was not authorized by me or my campaign manager to collect any money for me. I'm sure no amount like that was spent in my campaign. I paid left over bills all the time I was in office. I never knew Blackwood took enough interest in my campaigns to collect money for me."

VETERAN DIES

HAUGHTON, La., Nov. 3.—(AP)—Dr. Paul Lawrence, Sr., 95, Confederate veteran and a resident here for more than 80 years, died suddenly at his home here early today. Dr. Lawrence retired from the practice of medicine 20 years ago. He had been in good health, having made a trip to Shreveport yesterday. The funeral probably will be held tomorrow.

COTTON EXPORTS CAUSE CONCERN

Various Plans Offered To Relieve Shrinkage Of Shipments

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Concern over the shrinkage of cotton exports spread today from the AAA to other administration sectors, with various proposals being offered as remedies for the situation.

Since the cotton year began August 1, exports to October 25 were only 1,153,000 bales, compared to 2,202,000 for the same period last year.

Exports of the staple have averaged around 8,000,000 bales annually for the past several years, but a continuance of the present export rate would see the 1934-35 cotton season end next August 1 with only 4,612,000 bales sent out of the country.

Since the AAA began its crop adjustment plans, the 13,000,000 bale carry-over of American cotton has been reduced to 10,634,000 bales, but the latter figure is the third largest carry-over of the staple on record.

This year's crop, estimated at 9,443,000 bales, is one of the smallest on record but unless consumption, both foreign and domestic, increases, the AAA will have made little progress toward getting rid of the surplus.

The contention has been advanced too, that the government, through its offer to land any producer 12 cents a pound on his cotton, has pegged the price and created an artificial value for American cotton which has caused consumers abroad to buy Indian, Egyptian and other staples.

The market price is around 12 cents now and 12-cent loans already have been made on 1,711,905 bales of cotton. Unless the price of the staple rises the Commodity Credit corporation may find itself with from one-third to one-half of this year's crop on its hands.

INSULL DEFIANT AFTER HOURS ON WITNESS STAND

Former Magnate Asserts He Would Have Been Crucified In U. S.

CHICAGO, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Defiant after four hours of questioning about his financial methods, Samuel Insull told a federal jury trying him for mail fraud today that his name was all the information his investors needed.

Twice when confronted with apparent weakness in the stock on which investors lost $100,000,000, Insull was asked:

"Why didn't you tell that to the public?"

The deposed utility executive waved his hand.

"They used to say that if we issued a piece of brown paper with a signature on it we could raise all the money we wanted to."

"I could have sold that stock," he was telling the jury a minute later, "on the belief that people had in my integrity." Then he shouted angrily:

"—and which they still have!"

Insull's last two hours on the witness stand, under cross examination of Assistant United States Attorney General Leslie E. Salter, brought declarations from him that his motives as a financier were honest, in spite of all evidence produced by the government that the stock in question was flimsy.

"I was doing things that I thought to be absolutely honest," he said stubbornly.

Prosecutor Salter, soft spoken and courteous, belabored Insull with charges that huge losses in his companies were concealed, and that the proudest of the entire system, the Giant Middle West Utility System, was kept afloat by juggling securities between the concerns.

But the simplest question of them all brought the angriest answer from Insull.

After Insull had admitted that he knew, in the late fall of 1932, that he was wanted in Chicago, Salter asked:

"Why didn't you come back and face the music?"

Insull began a long explanation. He had received no request. He was

Three Brothers And Sister Found Unconscious In Their Home

ROCHESTER N. Y., Nov. 3.—(AP)—A seven-year-old girl was found dead and her three brothers and a sister unconscious in their home at Fairport near here late today. The victims were found by their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred S. Corkish, when they returned home.

The dead girl, Florence, and her sister, Alice, 14, were lying in the bathtub, which was nearly full of water. The other children, Richard, 10 months old, Robert, 2, and Frank, 3, were lying on the kitchen floor.

Florence, lying on the bottom of the tub, was not noticed by the distracted parents until the unconscious form of Alice had been removed.

At the hospital it is feared Alice and Frank may die.

Questioning of the frantic parents uncovered no clue which would lead to a solution. They reported they had been absent about two and a half hours on a shopping trip. When they left the children appeared happy and contented.

Police started an immediate check of all residents in the neighborhood on the theory some fiend may have broken into the house and attacked the children, although they showed no signs of ill treatment.

DOUMERGUE SAVES 'TRUCE CABINET'

PARIS, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Premier Gaston Doumergue today saved his "political truce cabinet" but there was an armed truce with two factions.

Doumergue stood so firmly for his ideas on revision of the constitution that former Premier Edouard Herriot and five of his fellow radical Socialist ministers "reserved their liberty."

The six radical Socialists of the cabinet refused to approve the premier's text on his power to dissolve the chamber of deputies without the approval of the senate after parliament had been in session one year. Consequently they remain free to vote in parliament against their own cabinet's plan.

This same procedure was followed two years ago when ministers who disagreed with Herriot's proposal to pay American war debts were authorized to vote against it regardless of the tradition that all ministers were bound not to oppose the government in parliament.

SERIOUSLY ILL

WESTERHAM, England, Nov. 3.—(AP)—The original "Alice in Wonderland," Mrs. Alice Hargreaves, above, was critically ill tonight at her hilltop house in this Kentish village. Physicians pronounced her condition unchanged since this morning.

She is 82 years old. When she was a child of ten, the Rev. Charles Lutwidge Dodson, a mathematically inclined village vicar, told her the story of the little girl who went down a rabbit hole into Wonderland, peopled with the Mad Hatter and the Cheshire Cat.

He named the little girl Alice, after his listener, Alice Liddell, who later became Mrs. Hargreaves, and wrote Alice's adventures in Wonderland under the name of Lewis Carroll.

Intensive Campaign To Be Held Preparatory To Annual Roll Call

An intensive campaign of education will be conducted during the coming week by the committee in charge of the annual Red Cross roll call drive, which will start Wednesday, November 14, and continue through Thanksgiving day, it was announced Saturday by Joe Isaacman, the roll call chairman.

The educational campaign will begin by an appeal in all the churches today on behalf of the roll call. This phase of the effort is in the charge of Rev. Ernest D. Holloway, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, who has asked the cooperation of the pastors of all the churches in the program.

Throughout the week radio addresses will be given by local civic leaders. Station KMLB has offered the use of the air for a certain period each day for this purpose. The time will be announced later by Chairman Isaacman. Among the speakers will be Mrs. Jewell McQuiller, parish home demonstration agent; Dr. C. L. Mengis, American Legion; George W. Welch, principal of the Crosley school; Mrs. Leon McHenry, on behalf of the P.-T. A.; and a representative of the Junior Red Cross.

Other speakers during the week will include Fred Williamson, before the American Legion meeting Monday night; Barney Oakland, before the Veterans of Foreign Wars at its next meeting; Rabbi F. K. Hirsch, before a meeting of woman campaign

CANOE OF MISSING COUPLE IS FOUND

EAGLE LAKE, Me., Nov. 3.—(AP)—The canoe of Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Webster, Dover-Foxcroft couple missing on a camping trip in this section, was found today upside down at the bottom of Eagle lake.

The Websters, married less than a year, left Dover-Foxcroft on September 23, intending to travel by canoe down the Allagash river, through the heart of Maine's rugged hunting country.

A search by air, conducted by state forestry department plane, covered 500 square miles without disclosing any sign of the pair. Spurred by the offer of a $500 reward by relatives of Mrs. Webster, the former June Danforth of Dover-Foxcroft, guides and woodsmen have scoured the region for the past three weeks.

Hunters Hurry To Buy Federal License Stamps

The opening day of the duck hunting season brought a rush of buyers of federal hunting stamps at the Monroe postoffice, it was said Saturday. A total of 644 had been sold for the season. More than 1,200 state licenses had been sold prior to the opening day.

Duck shooting season opened at sunrise Friday. At that time less than 300 federal licenses had been sold. Those who missed the opportunity to get out for the first bambardment, however, did not let another day slip by, as about 350 of the stamps were sold Friday. Only a few had been added Saturday.

ERNEST MACHEN GETS LONG TERM AT LOS ANGELES

Former Athlete Commits Crime After His Release From Angola

Ernest Machen, about 24 years of age, who committed a sensational series of house burglaries here in December, 1931, including the theft of jewels valued at $15,000 from the C. E. Slagle home, has been sentenced at Los Angeles, Calif., to serve 20 years in Folsom prison, Represa, Calif., for first degree burglary, Sheriff Milton Coverdale, of Ouachita parish, was informed Saturday in a communication from the United States bureau of criminal investigation.

Machen was sentenced in district court here in April, 1932, to serve seven years in the state penitentiary at Angola, after being tried on two of the many burglary charges against him.

Machen boasted after his sentence was passed here that he would not remain in the penitentiary long.

Following his release from the state prison, he was picked up by police at Fort Worth, Texas, July 18 of this year for investigation and his criminal record next showed he was held by the sheriff's department at Los Angeles for investigation of the burglary charge.

Details of the robbery for which Machen was convicted at Los Angeles were not received by Sheriff Coverdale.

In Monroe, prior to committing the series of burglaries, Machen was fairly well known as an athlete and was a youth of good personal appearance, with the advantages of education. Unemployed at the time of the robberies, and not enrolled at a college, he later gave as his reasons for starting along his criminal trail the desire for money to complete his college education and the immediate need of money for a disease he had contracted.

After perpetrating his robberies here, Machen was arrested for local authorities at Pine Bluff, Ark., his home city. In that city, where he sold and gave away some articles of jewelry, he was said to have been a "walking jewelry shop."

The district court here, taking into consideration Machen's youth, the fact that he had no previous criminal record, and his assistance to officers in recovery of the stolen goods, tried him on only two charges. He admitted robbing homes of C. E. Slagle (now deceased), Mrs. J. L. Adams, Herman Masur, Dr. C. U. Johnson, R. R. Reynolds and others.

At the home of Machen's brother-in-law, Joe Gaske, who resided in Monroe, was found some silverware which had been stolen in Pine Bluff. Machen also admitted this theft, and admitted other robberies in Pine Bluff.

The exact time of Machen's release from the Louisiana penitentiary and reasons why he was released were not given Sheriff Coverdale.

The sheriff rerceived communications stating that two notorious criminals possessing lengthy records and who have received sentences here, have been taken into the toils of the law—in Pennsylvania and Michigan.

One of the criminals, known here and generally as Jame Montgomery, is serving a sentence at Greenburg, Pa., for breaking and entering and larceny. In April of this year Montgomery was sentenced to serve 10 months on the Ouachita parish road gang. He escaped from the gang, only to be arrested at Vicksburg and sentenced there to serve on a road gang.

The other notorious criminal, a forger, generally known as E. W. Davis, is now serving a sentence in the Michigan state prison at Lansing. He was convicted in district court here in April, 1933, for forgery, and sentenced to the hospital for the criminally insane at Jackson.

Sheriff Coverdale said Davis is one of the cleverest forgers of the country. Part of his methods was the printing of faked letterheads, representing non-existing or defunct companies, the writing of letters of identification on the letterheads and attaching his photograph to them.

JACKSON FAMILY DENIED FREEDOM

LAUREL, Miss., Nov. 3.—(AP)—Judge Roy P. Noble of Jones county circuit court late today dismissed a habeas corpus writ seeking the release of George Jackson, a Jasper county tenant farmer, his wife and their two sons, held on murder charges in connection with the death of Hester Jackson, 15-year-old daughter of Jackson, on Oct. 15.

Contempt charges against Sheriff J. C. Bassett, of Jasper county, were taken into advisement by Judge Noble. The sheriff was cited for contempt by Judge Noble for secretly removing three of the prisoners from the Jones county jail at Laurel to Jasper county for arraignment after the habeas corpus action had been started here by counsel for the defendants.

The father, his wife and son Lois were remanded to Jones county jail to await their preliminary hearing next Tuesday before Justice of the Peace B. R. Fail at Bay Springs, Jasper county.

ABSENTEE VOTING ENDS IN PARISH

Only Ten Ballots Are Cast For General Election Tuesday

Ten absentee votes had been cast Saturday in the general election to be held Tuesday. This number was unusually small, indicating either that a comparatively few persons expect to be absent from the parish on election day or that interest is less keen in the primaries. The number of absentee votes sometimes reaches more than 100. Absentee voting ended Saturday.

The chief matter of interest in the coming election is the question of voting on the 14 proposed constitutional amendments which were adopted at a special session of the legislature. In support of the amendments, sponsored by the state administration, United States Senator Huey P. Long spoke here Thursday.

Amendments which have attracted most attention include those proposing to eliminate the poll tax, to reduce automobile license fees, to eliminate the personal property tax on automobiles and to impose a state income tax.

If the income tax amendment is adopted it will be the first time the state has imposed an income tax. It proposes to exempt unmarried persons making less than $2,500 and to allow an additional exemption of $400 for each child or other dependent.

In Ouachita parish the names of only three candidates, all of them Democratic nominees, will appear on the ticket. They are Riley J. Wilson, candidate for re-election to congress; J. B. Filhiol, candidate for re-election to the school board from ward four, and J. L. Heath, candidate for re-election to the school board from ward six.

Lake Providence

Ghosts and goblins have had full sway throughout the week and one of their favorite haunts was the W. W. Howard home where the W. M. S. entertained members and their husbands at a Hallowe'en party. The interior of the home represented a haunted house and carried out a motif of black and yellow in decorations and emblems and the only lighting was the mellow glow from the pumpkins and the fire beneath the witch's cauldron from which delicious doughnuts were served with hot coffee and chicken salad sandwiches. There was much cleverness in carrying out the scheme and much merriment was afforded the fifty guests, and the skit by Bernice Whatley and Dorothy Nelson was thoroughly enjoyed as was the entire program of the evening.

Miss Mary Pearl was hostess for the Thursday Night Bridge club and entertaining on that evening at the home of Mrs. M. Kaufman, had as guests Mesdames J. C. Gross, J. C. Hamley, Will Herzog, M. Kaufman, W. H. Maben, J. N. Turner and Mr.s Ida Fisher who played for Mrs. B. R. Pinkston, the only absent member. The highest score was made by the hostess.

Mrs. J. N. Turner entertained at bridge Wednesday afternoon at her home. Those accepting her hospitality were Mesdames P. F. Brown, T. S. Delony, Ida Fisher, J. H. Gilfoil, Jr., J. C. Gross, J. M. Hamley, Charles Hart and Mrs. F. P. Regenold. The prize for highest score went to Mrs. Gilfoil and for lowest score to Mrs. Gross.

Mrs. A. G. Frost was hostess for another enjoyable bridge club meeting and entertaining Thursday afternoon at the family home in Davis street. The club members playing were Mesdames Roy Abernethy, A. G. Frost, J. L. Johnson, F. G. Meek, Sterling Merrill, C. B. Mitchell and J. C. Surles and Mrs. C. E. Newman substituted for Mrs Leon Harbin. First prize was won by Mrs. Merrill and second prize by Mrs. Surles.

LEGION MEETING SLATED MONDAY

All Members And Ex-Service Men Urged To Attend Session

All Legionnaires and ex-service men are being urged to attend the regular meeting of L. B. Faulk post No. 13 at the Legion home Monday night at 8 o'clock. It was stated that this meeting will be one of unusual importance.

Delegates who attended the national convention will be present with information concerning the bonus. At the conclusion of the meeting an interesting program of entertainment will be presented, to be followed by a dutch lunch.

The membership committee is making an appeal to all Legionnaires who have not paid their dues for 1935 to make every effort possible to do so before November 11, the first period of the membership drive, the slogan of which is "Every Member Get a Member."

The entertainment committee announced that all plans are complete for the big armistice day dance on Hotel Virginia roof the night of November 10. The committee considers itself fortunate in having obtained the services of Harry Gantt and his Gulf Coast band for this occasion. This is the band which proved so pleasing to the crowd here last July 4. All proceeds obtained from the dance will be applied on the indebtedness made during the Renovize campaign.

Attention was also called to the fifth district conference today at Hotel Frances.

WILSON IS PLEASED WITH SOIL EROSION WORK IN DISTRICT

RUSTON, Nov. 3. — (Special.) — Henry Mims of Minden, acting director of the two soil erosion projects, now well under way in Lincoln and Webster parishes, with Congressman Riley J. Wilson of the fifth district, made a tour of inspection of a number of Lincoln parish farms where work is under way Friday, and on returning to Ruston, expressed themselves as highly satisfied with the progress of the undertaking. In commenting on the undertaking, Mr. Wilson said:

"Today was my first opportunity to really look this project over and see for myself just what was being accomplished in the way of preserving and conserving the soil on some of the bady-washed hill lands of this section. I was expecting, of course, to find some good results, but it surpasses anything I had visioned. It is going to mean that many of our "gullied" farms are to be restored to their original productivity. And the pasture lands, too, are coming in for a regeneration, with terraces to hold the rains and with new and more productive grazing from additional grasses and seeds planted for that specific purpose. I am glad to note, also, that much work is being done for the preservation of the standing timber on some of these farms, and that on others, new stands of young growth have been planted."

It is Wilson's intention to recommend to the congress other areas in north Louisiana for the establishing of similar conservation projects. He regards the service as one with great possibilities for good.

NEGRO BOASTS OF ATTACKING WOMEN

Black Tells Latest Victim That He Was Scottsboro Assaulter

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Nov. 3.—(AP)—Police tonight sought a negro who boasted he was "one of the Scottsboro boys who escaped" as the attacker of pretty Mrs. Mabel Roy, 18, early today in a rooming house here.

From her bed in a hospital here, Mrs. Roy told officers she spent four hours in extreme terror after she was awakened by a negro man who held a knife against her throat and a revolver against her head.

During the period she was held captive, Mrs. Roy told officers, the negro said he had been in "devilment" before, and said "I been doing this all over the south."

A few moments before the negro fled, Mrs. Roy said, he told her she "knew too much" and he was going to kill her, but after an anxious minute with his knife on her throat, the intruder became alarmed and made his escape.

During his boasting, the woman told officers, the negro said he was from Ohio, and had been on the Southern railway freight train on March 25, 1931, when nine negro defendants in the Scottsboro case were arrested at Paint Rock, Ala., and charged with attacking two white girls. "I had more sense than to stay with that other bunch," Mrs. Roy quoted him as saying. "They got caught, I got away."

Authorities recalled that a search was made for three additional negroes aboard the train after the arrest of the nine defendants in the widely publicized "Scottsboro" case.

Mrs. Roy had a five-inch head wound, apparently inflicted with a blunt instrument, but her condition was not serious.

Only Ten Ballots Are Cast For General Election Tuesday

Ten absentee votes had been cast Saturday in the general election to be held Tuesday. This number was unusually small, indicating either that a comparatively few persons expect to be absent from the parish on election day or that interest is less keen in the primaries. The number of absentee votes sometimes reaches more than 100. Absentee voting ended Saturday.

The chief matter of interest in the coming election is the question of voting on the 14 proposed constitutional amendments which were adopted at a special session of the legislature. In support of the amendments, sponsored by the state administration, United States Senator Huey P. Long spoke here Thursday.

Amendments which have attracted most attention include those proposing to eliminate the poll tax, to reduce automobile license fees, to eliminate the personal property tax on automobiles and to impose a state income tax.

If the income tax amendment is adopted it will be the first time the state has imposed an income tax. It proposes to exempt unmarried persons making less than $2,500 and to allow an additional exemption of $400 for each child or other dependent.

In Ouachita parish the names of only three candidates, all of them Democratic nominees, will appear on the ticket. They are Riley J. Wilson, candidate for re-election to congress; J. B. Filhiol, candidate for re-election to the school board from ward four, and J. L. Heath, candidate for re-election to the school board from ward six.

During his boasting, the woman told officers, the negro said he was from Ohio, and had been on the Southern railway freight train on March 25, 1931, when nine negro defendants in the Scottsboro case were arrested at Paint Rock, Ala., and charged with attacking two white girls. "I had more sense than to stay with that other bunch," Mrs. Roy quoted him as saying. "They got caught, I got away."

Authorities recalled that a search was made for three additional negroes aboard the train after the arrest of the nine defendants in the widely publicized "Scottsboro" case.

Mrs. Roy had a five-inch head wound, apparently inflicted with a blunt instrument, but her condition was not serious.

Mrs. Marable Harper entertained on Friday afternoon in honor of her little daughter, Sophie, whose eighth Birthday it was. The table was prettily decorated for the occasion in the Hallowe'en colors and with favors appropriate to Hallowe'en. The birthday cake, which formed the centerpiece, was decorated in a very novel and attractive way, to represent a circus. Ice cream and cake was served. Old-fashioned candelabra with pink shades adorned the table. The centerpiece was of pink roses with ferns. A birthday cake decorated in pink, with pink lighted tapers, was placed in front of the guest of honor, Mr. Young. Covers were laid for thirty-one. A six course dinner was served. # TAXES, ELECTIONS, TERMS OF JUDGES TO BE VOTED UPON

Amendments 11 And 12 Apply To Pensions, Improvement Tax

(This is the fifth of a series of news stories reprinted from the New Orleans Times-Picayune describing the 14 proposed constitutional amendments to be approved or rejected by Louisiana citizens on November 6.

Proposed Constitutional Amendments Nos. 8, 9 and 10, submitted to the people for ratification or rejection in the general election November 6, change existing constitutional provisions governing liquor taxes, the terms of city court judges and general elections, respectively.

Amendment No. 8 proposes to permit local liquor license taxes to be higher than the state tax.

"No political subdivision shall impose a greater license tax than is imposed for state purposes, provided that this restriction shall not apply to dealers in malt, vinuous, distilled, alcoholic, spiritous or intoxicating liquors, but when an income tax is levied by the state in lieu of state license taxes this shall not prohibit the levy by the political subdivisions of the state of such license taxes as the Legislature may authorize."

Proposed Amendment No. 9 fixes the terms of city court judges at six years, except for Baton Rouge, which may be included later. It directs that city court judges, except the city of Baton Rouge, now in office shall remain in office until December 1, 1936. Beginning with the year 1936 and every six years thereafter, city court judges shall be elected at the congressional election.

Proposed Amendment No. 10 eliminates general elections, except state and congressional, when there is only one party nominee and no independent candidate.

Proposed Constitutional Amendments Nos. 11 and 12, which will be ratified or rejected by the people in the general election November 6, deal with Confederate veterans' pensions and with the limitation on taxes for public improvements.

Constitutional Amendment No. 11 proposes that Confederate veteran anticipation bonds can be sold at 95 instead of par, with the intent that the veterans shall be paid pensions of $60 a month, instead of the $30 they now are receiving.

A constitutional amendment adopted in 1930 authorized the levy of three-quarters of a mill ad valorem tax for Confederate pensions, and raised the amount of the pension from $30 to $60 a month.

The $60-a-month pension was paid until June 1, 1932, when the state board of pension commissioners announced that the pension had to be reduced to $30 a month because of the inability to sell pension bonds at par, as required by the constitution.

If proposed Amendment No. 11 is ratified by the people November 6, the pension bonds can be sold at 95 instead of par. The state board of liquidation is authorized to dedicate the revenue derived from the three-quarters of a mill property tax to the retirement of the bonds.

Proposed Constitutional Amendment No. 12 is intended to place a limit on special taxes on property to the present 8-mill maximum for local improvements, irrespective of whether the property is located within the territorial limits of one or more taxing districts.

Mayor T. Semmes Walmsley asserted that the terms of this proposed amendment do not apply to the city of New Orleans.

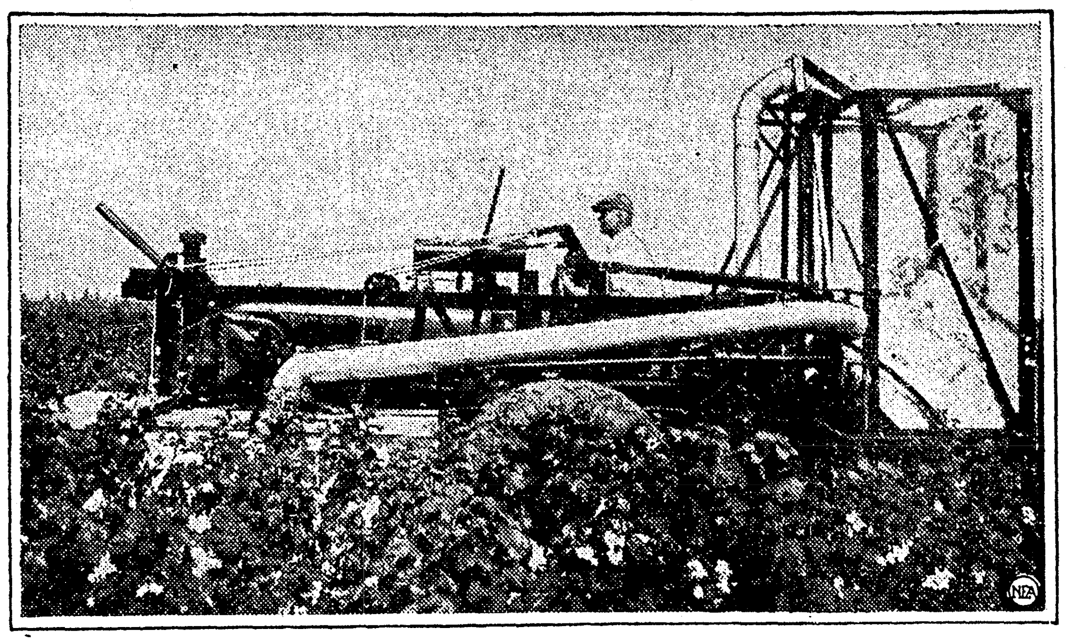
FIRST SUCCESSFUL COTTON PICKER, INVENTORS CLAIM



Inventors have tried and failed for nearly a century to perfect a mechanical cotton picker, but John and Mack Rust, of Lake Providence, La., declare that the machine shown here in a Blytheville, Ark., field is the answer to the search. It will pick an acre of cotton an hour, doing the work of 100 laborers, say the brothers. A rapidly rotating smooth steel spindle, moistened as it enters the boll, twists out the cotton without use of hooks or claws and leaves it undamaged, assert the inventors.

Stork Seems Determined To Smash Birth Records

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 3.—(AP)—That proverbial bird with the bundle and an inclination to race doctors is flabbergasted.

"Do you mean to say," he asked as he rested wearily on one leg, "there actually are folks who can't find a job? Brother, I never worked so hard in all my life as I did this year.

"Some people seem to have the silly idea that after I took the quintuplets to the Dionnes at Callender, Ontario, last May 28 I just settled down to a quiet business. Such ignorance. Let's have a look at the records."

And here are some of the things those records showed:

The twenty-third baby was born Oct. 24 at Sapulpa, Okla., to 38-year-old Mrs. J. Tom Horn and her 44-year-old husband, quadruplets, triplets and two sets of twins have been included among the list. Ten children are living.

J. H. Baucom recently asked the Florida emergency relief administration if pensions for fathers with more than 14 children was not a good idea. Small wonder. He had 21 children and was anticipating No. 22 at the time.

At Salem, Mass., Mrs. Alton F. Marshall, 24, gave birth last August to her fourth and fifth children within a period of two years, seven months and 20 days.

In Bridgetown, Nova Scotia, three sisters placed their claim of being Canada's leading mothers by listing 56 births—21, 19 and 16 respectively.

In San Francisco, Mrs. Vena Hogland, a grandmother at 31, pointed with pride to five living generations in her family.

John L. Kirlin, 78, became the father of a baby girl at Lincoln, Neb., Sept. 22. It was the seventh child for the 35-year-old mother who had six by a previous marriage.

Kavilil, an Eskimo mother who owns a $1,000 fur coat and travels by airplane, said at Anchorage, Alaska, this year that she knew she had "about 20 children" but:

"I no count them any more—I lose the count. Trouble to have so many? Not much. I like babies."

Mike and Rose Latorra took a family of 19 from their Chicago suburban home to the world's fair this year, asserting "the only thing that gives us much trouble is buying shoes and spaghetti."

HARPER CAUTIONS LOCAL MOTORISTS

City Judge Points Out Dangers Of Violating Traffic Rules

A statement in connection with the considerably increased number of traffic tickets which have been issued recently by the Monroe police department for traffic violations, especially for the offense of parking too close to street intersections, was given out Saturday by Judge W. M. Harper of the city court. Judge Harper's statement follows:

"Ordinance No. 2550, Section 51-A, provides that it shall be unlawful for any person to park or stop a vehicle even momentarily, except to make a traffic stop, as required by the ordidance, 'In any street intersection or within thirty feet thereof.'

"The principal violation is in parking too close to the corner. The law says you cannot park your car closer than 30 feet from the corner. The reasons are many, every one being founded on rules of safety.

"First to park a vehicle too close to the corner endangers the parked vehicle itself and other vehicles and occupants who turn the corner, especially in the case of emergency vehicles such as ambulances, fire trucks and police vehicles which make hurried calls and turn the corners sometimes quite sharply.

"Then, second, to park too close to the corner endangers the safety of pedestrians who must get out into the street to look around the parked vehicle before a full view of the street can be obtained, and of course, the vehicle, in order to depart from the curb so parked, must make a back-up movement, thereby seriously endangering the safety of pedestrians who may have stepped from the sidewalks, not to mention the added hazard of such back up movement to other vehicles in rounding the corner."

It was estimated that the work should cost about $8,000. Contract was to be let by the Williams estate.

Cities having the lowest proportionate street light bills have the highest number of night traffic fatalities, according to R. E. Simpson, of the National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters.

HARPER CAUTIONS LOCAL MOTORISTS

City Judge Points Out Dangers Of Violating Traffic Rules

A statement in connection with the considerably increased number of traffic tickets which have been issued recently by the Monroe police department for traffic violations, especially for the offense of parking too close to street intersections, was given out Saturday by Judge W. M. Harper of the city court. Judge Harper's statement follows:

"Ordinance No. 2550, Section 51-A, provides that it shall be unlawful for any person to park or stop a vehicle even momentarily, except to make a traffic stop, as required by the ordidance, 'In any street intersection or within thirty feet thereof.'

"The principal violation is in parking too close to the corner. The law says you cannot park your car closer than 30 feet from the corner. The reasons are many, every one being founded on rules of safety.

"First to park a vehicle too close to the corner endangers the parked vehicle itself and other vehicles and occupants who turn the corner, especially in the case of emergency vehicles such as ambulances, fire trucks and police vehicles which make hurried calls and turn the corners sometimes quite sharply.

"Then, second, to park too close to the corner endangers the safety of pedestrians who must get out into the street to look around the parked vehicle before a full view of the street can be obtained, and of course, the vehicle, in order to depart from the curb so parked, must make a back-up movement, thereby seriously endangering the safety of pedestrians who may have stepped from the sidewalks, not to mention the added hazard of such back up movement to other vehicles in rounding the corner."

Essence Of The Golden Rule

Cooperation is one of the foundation stones of civilization. Did you ever stop to think about that?

Civilization must actually be measured by the degree of cooperation that is manifested by those who comprise civilization.

The degree of cooperation exhibited among men (and women, too, and little children) fixes the degree of civilization that exists among those persons.

If we will take the trouble and the time to study conditions past and present, we will find that most of the difficulties which have beset us and which still beset us, are the direct result of the failure of persons to cooperate with others, of communities to cooperate with other communities, of states to cooperate with other states, and of nations to cooperate with other nations.

Our worst problems of life would disappear or be greatly ameliorated if sincere cooperation should become the rule of human behavior.

What does cooperation call for? It calls for an appreciation of the fact that the other fellow has rights which we should respect and that we have rights which the other fellow should respect.

If each respects the rights of the other, than there is established a bond of sympathy and understanding between both sides which not only insures justice and protection for all concerned, but sets up a wholesome force which influences the sound, sturdy development of those human souls which it affects. The principle can be applied individually as well as to communities, states and nations.

Nobody in a civilization can go by himself and get anywhere by himself. The very existence of civilization means that men are dependent on one another. If we had all the wealth in the world it would do us no good unless we had the protection and assistance of our fellows in the conservation and use of it.

What good would money be to a human being if he were all by himself on a desert island? How long would he be able to keep or control his money if he were surrounded by cutthroat thieves?

When there was less civilization and less cooperation, men never knew when their women folks would be seized and carried off by enemy hordes. A frightful weakness in our own civilization is demonstrated every time a child, a man, or a woman is kidnaped and spirited away for ransom by fiends in human form.

It is that greatest of sins—selfishness—which is responsible for the failure of men to cooperate with men in matters that are worthy? Selfishness makes men refuse to help one another and to respect one another's rights. Selfishness is back of virtually all social evils. If you will trace every iniquity to which man is subject, and of which man is guilty, you will find that in nearly every instance the trail leads directly to selfishness.

As we become more developed in intelligence and in character, we will become more and more committed to sound, substantial cooperation. Leaving the moral value entirely out of the question, it is but common sense for human beings to cooperate with one another. Men (and insects, too) that have learned how to cooperate, have learned how to get the best out of life.

There is a sound reason for the golden rule. It is not founded on sentimentality. It is based on bedrock practicality. The golden rule means cooperation.

CONGESTION SLOWS BUSINESS

A survey indicates that shoppers are avoiding congested sections, with serious effect on retail business. Two thousand merchants, representing the entire country, agree in this.

Little is offered in the way of constructive remedies except decentralization, through the scattering of store and office buildings over wider areas and the establishment of branch stores away from congested centers.

Readily understandable is the hesitancy among merchants to resort to such a plan. Capital outlay would be tremendous and widespread business losses would result. The purpose of traffic regulation is to protect and aid the general public. Indirectly, traffic rules, which make it easy for the shopper, benefit the shopkeeper.

Wider driveways and sidewalks are not feasible, because of the prohibitive cost, in sections already built up along narrow thoroughfares. In few cities and towns are there enough parallel routes to relieve congestion by distributing traffic over a number of streets. And there seems to be no attempt on the part of certain classes of traffic to ascertain for their own convenience the paths of least resistance.

If traffic problems are to be solved there must be a willingness on the part of all elements to cooperate and, if need be, make sacrifices for the common good.

More Truth Than Poetry

ALAS, POOR TOWSER

On learning that dogs are now fed upon spinach and cod liver oil.

I have owned many dogs, perhaps fifty,
And they ate what I gave them to eat,
They were glad to be fed
Upon biscuits and bread
As well as potatoes and meat.
They also procured from the neighbors
A few extra mouthfuls by stealth;
They ate what they got
And I'm sure they did not
Evince any signs of bad health.

But today dogs are fed on a diet;
No longer they saunter around
To pick up a meal
which has eating-appeal—
Such food is regarded unsound.
The hard hand of science has clutched them;
The poor creatures shrink and recoil,
And doubtless see red
For they daily are fed
Upon spinach and cod-liver oil.

Poor pooches! Imagine their horror
When they cannot eat just what they please;
The life that they lead
Is a dog's life indeed.
Devoid both of comfort and ease.
We shall soon find them haunting the forest
And making the rabbits their spoil,
As what wise dog would not
When he finds he has got

A ROAD TO FAME

The rich man who yearns to make a name in the educational field will endow a couple of colleges with squads of crack football players.

SUGGESTION

Why doesn't some engineer build a car that will stop automatically every time it comes face to face with a red light?

TROUBLE AHEAD

Just wait till the people who got loans from the government discover that they are expected to pay them back!

Parents Shift Burden

By BRUCE CATTON

Unless we revise our way of training children in the public schools, we may presently find that we have reared a generation of "jaded old youngsters" utterly devoid of a sense of value.

Teaching children how to solve problems in arithmetic, how to spell, how to reel off the names of the presidents, and how to bound the state of Kentucky, Dr. Hocking suggests, is pretty nearly useless unless, at the same time, we give them the mental and emotional training which will enable them to get something out of their lives besides the empty repetition of a monotonous routine

Now the significant thing about this is the fact that the speaker seems to take it for granted that the youngsters are to get this kind of development in the school rather than in the home.

One of the most profound changes any human society could undergo has been taking place in this country in recent years, and most of us have hardly noticed it.

We have not only given to our schools the job of teaching our children how to read and write; we have, to a very great extent, also given them the the task of developing our children's character, establishing their ideals, and suggesting to them the approaches to adulthood.

A homely illustration will show the trend. Hardly anyone spanks his child any more; and while that may be an excellent thing, the old-time firmness of parental discipline has pretty largely vanished at the same time.

It has been transferred to the school room. The child whose parents "can't do a thing with him"—and his name is legion, nowadays—toes the mark in school very obediently.

He has to. He knows teachers will make it hot for him if he doesn't.

Now this is merely a symbol of the way in which we have transferred parental responsibilities to the school ma'am. The only reason why we are not raising the most spoiled brats the world ever knew is that the schools are doing our work for us.

It is for that reason that Dr. Hocking's warning is timely. It calls on the educators to recognize that they have been given a responsibility which, from time immemorial, has rested on the parent.

League's Home In New Palace

By Milton Bronner
(NEA Staff Correspondent)

GENEVA, Nov. 3.—Whatever fate may have in store for the League of Nations, and though many member countries have failed to pay their dues, there has been no let-up in the drive to finish before next summer the magnificent set of buildings which will house the league's activities here.

Ever since the first assembly of the league met in Geneva in the winter of 1920, it has been evident that more adequate quarters were needed. The buildings occupied were more or less of a make-shift order and the assembly met in a hall with little accommodation for press and public and with poor acoustic qualities. The Swiss were especially anxious to see special buildings erected, because that would mean the permanent tie-up of the league to Geneva as headquarters city. At times there had been moves to transfer quarters to Vienna to help out that derelict city.

New Buildings Cost $5,000,000

The cost of the new buildings was fixed by the assembly of 1932 at 25,577,150 Swiss francs, or something like $5,000,000 at par value. This does not include the library the entire cost of which—estimated at $2,000,000—is being borne by John D. Rockefeller, Jr.

In the plan, the council wing, the committee rooms, the assembly hall and the library are grouped around a rectangular court of honor which will be terraced on two levels. There has been little attempt at ornamentation, the architects relying for their effects upon the imposing masses and proportions of the several buildings. The total length of the group is about 1,200 feet and the area about 10,000 square yards. In size they will be only slightly less than the vast group of the Palace of Versailles.

The assembly hall will acommodate 600 delegates, experts and secretaries, have seats for 500 working journalists and provide about 800 seats for the public. The accoustics have been made as nearly perfect as modern science can provide.

Many Furnishings Donated

When it is completed, it is expected that many adornments to the group of buildings will have been secured without cost to the league. This, because of donations by countries and individuals. Although the United States has never entered the league, it is heavily represent in the buildings. Not only has "Young John" Rockefeller donated the library, but the Woodrow Wilson foundation has given $25,000 for the monumental bronze doors to the main entrance of the assembly hall. Edward A. Filene, well-known Boston merchant has donated the apparatus for simultaneous telephonic interpretation to be used in the assembly hall.

New Zealand is panelling one room in native wood. South Africa is panelling a committee room in its native wood. Holland is giving the decoration and furnishing of the secretary-general's office. India has sent a set of furniture for the room of the president of the assembly. Siam has sent a carved book case. Sweden is giving the furniture for the room of the president of the council. Persia has sent carpets.

South America Gives Plaque

Greece has donated a reproduction in bronze of an antique Greek statue. Bolivia, Colombia, Panama, Peru and Venezuela have united to present a bronze tablet bearing an inscription of two sentences from speeches of the Great South American patriot, Simon Bolivar. Little Luxemburg is giving wrought-iron gates for the entrance way. Australia is sending a presidential table and furniture, all in Australian wood. Spain is decorating one large committee room and Switzerland is providing another. China is sending a priceless set of embroided panels. Finland is donating hand-woven curtains and Austria a large Gobelins tapestry.

The designs of the buildings are the point work of five famous European architects: H. P. Nenot, who won the grand prix of Rome, is inspector general of French national palaces and was the architect of the Sorbonne in Paris; M. Broggi, of Rome; M. Flegenheimer, of Geneva; M. Lefevre, also an inspector general of French national palaces, and M. Vago, of Budapest.

LASALLE PARISH TO BALLOT ON LIQUOR QUESTION TUESDAY

JENA, La., Nov. 3.—(Special)—The voters of LaSalle parish will go to the polls on Tuesday to decide the liquor question insofar as it concerns this section. The police jury called the election for November 6th after it had been urged to do so by citizens of the parish and the same commissioners who serve for the regular general election to be held on that date will also serve for the prohibition election.

LaSalle parish has always been considered dry territory, or at least has been since the parish was created in 1910 and the prohibition forces are claiming that it will remain so by a vote of two to one next Tuesday.

A parish wide meeting of veterans of the World war has been called for next Thursday night at the Jena American Legion hall. The call was issued by Howard Finley, commander of the local post and the veterans will be entertained by the Legionnaires and the merchants and business men of Jena and surrounding communities.

WORK IS STARTED ON STERLINGTON SCHOOL

First concrete for the frame-work of the four-room addition to the school at Sterlington was poured Saturday by workmen for Lee Ellis, contractor, according to information received here. Work of constructing the addition is being done under a contract price of $13,273.

The addition of the four rooms will double the size of the school. At present two of the seven grades are taught in one room and it is necessary to teach two other classes in other buildings. The new rooms will give a room for each of the classes. It is expected that when the work is completed one more teacher will be employed, thus making one for each room, instead of having one teacher to teach two of the classes.

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

LIGHTHOUSE RENT—Prior to the enactment of the government salary classification act of 1923, the use of quarters for keepers of lighthouses and their families was furnished by the government, this being in addition to the cash compensations for services rendered. But with the passage of that law it was held that the compensation fixed pursuant to the passage of the act was all that an employee should receive, and that emoluments were not authorized and employees of lighthouses should pay rent for their quarters. However, salaries were increased proportionately. For example: Before 1923, if an employee received $1,200 per annum and free housing, his salary was increased to $1,440 per year and $240 was deducted for rent. The change was simply a matter of having their entire compensation put on a fixed monetary basis.

Lights of New York

By Paul Harrison

NEW YORK.—After attending the National Business Show, your New York observer has a report to make on office efficiency: In spite of all the new labor-saving devices, secretarial noses will still be powdered by hand, just as they were before the industrial revolution.

You'd have thought that by this time the inventors would have turned out some wax-model robot stenographers—all beautiful, unattached, mechanically incapable of betraying a confidence and perhaps thermostatically controlled. But they have not. Instead they have gone to some lengths to provide live, fluffy blonde scenery to offset the chill detachment of the clicking machines. I watched one gentleman who in turn was watching a dazzling young woman run a tabulator. After the demonstration he said he didn't want a machine but that there was a job in his office if she needed one after the business show closed.

Efficiency Undone

Buoyed by this victory of girl over gadget, I strolled over to watch a contraption which seemed designed to do everything from simple addition to the calculation of compound interest and issuance of vouchers. A great time and labor saver no doubt, except that something had gone wrong and it now was wasting a lot of time. Wasting labor, too, because two mechanics and the girl demonstrator and the salesman were all fussing with it. The latter seemed annoyed because the machine had broken down right in the middle of his pretty speech.

Everything is speeded up this year. Typewriters are 15 per cent faster; calculators are 11.476 per cent more efficient, and so on. The only reason I go to business shows is because I like the flattery of salesmen who slyly pretend that I must be the president, at least, of some vast concern, and start chatting easily in terms of hundreds of thousands of dollars. I always promise to send around one of my executive vice presidents to talk terms.

Exhibitors have a new sales talk. They say that more machines and faster machines are needed in offices to cope with shortened hours prevailing under the national recovery program. Fortified with new machines, an office can do more work in less time, and without hiring any additional help.

I wanted to ask somebody what good the recovery program could do if its shorter hours didn't result in the hiring of more people. I kept quiet, though, for fear of goading some great mind into sitting down and inventing a machine for turning out better pieces for the newspapers than this one is.

Signing Off

Being in a sort of mechanistic mood, I went to see about that flashy electric sign which belts the Times building with moving news bulletins. Everybody who has seen Times Square after dusk during the last six years has seen that sign; hundreds of thousands gather to watch it when election returns are coming in, and when other big stories are breaking.

But few people ever see its innards. It was designed, built and installed by a Mr. Frank C. Reilly, who used reading signs which are part of the to make most of the moving and Broadway kaleidoscope. He went into the sign business 25 years ago, after he had been a subway electrician. Liquids flowing out of bottles and smokes rising from cigars were simple tasks in electric sign making compared to his masterpiece on the Times building.

The interior mechanism occupies almost every inch of a large room. Frank Powell, the chief engineer, and his assistant receive the bulletins to be flashed and then set them from a tremendous type case full of metal letters mounted on fiber bases. They have to work fast because the sign is in continuous operation, but in six years they haven't made any embarrassing typographical errors.

The letters, with blank slabs for spaces, are stacked one above the other and put into a vertical magazine. Then they emerge, in order, to pass over a bed containing 29,600 brushes, two for each of the 14,800 electric light bulbs which band four sides of the building outside. Thus contacts are made and the proper lamps flash—flash 21,925,664 times each hour, if you want to get statistical. Each bulb flashes for only 1-42 of a second, and special bulbs are used because a lingering glow would blur the words.

Essence Of The Golden Rule

Cooperation is one of the foundation stones of civilization. Did you ever stop to think about that?

Civilization must actually be measured by the degree of cooperation that is manifested by those who comprise civilization.

The degree of cooperation exhibited among men (and women, too, and little children) fixes the degree of civilization that exists among those persons.

If we will take the trouble and the time to study conditions past and present, we will find that most of the difficulties which have beset us and which still beset us, are the direct result of the failure of persons to cooperate with others, of communities to cooperate with other communities, of states to cooperate with other states, and of nations to cooperate with other nations.

Our worst problems of life would disappear or be greatly ameliorated if sincere cooperation should become the rule of human behavior.

What does cooperation call for? It calls for an appreciation of the fact that the other fellow has rights which we should respect and that we have rights which the other fellow should respect.

If each respects the rights of the other, than there is established a bond of sympathy and understanding between both sides which not only insures justice and protection for all concerned, but sets up a wholesome force which influences the sound, sturdy development of those human souls which it affects. The principle can be applied individually as well as to communities, states and nations.

Nobody in a civilization can go by himself and get anywhere by himself. The very existence of civilization means that men are dependent on one another. If we had all the wealth in the world it would do us no good unless we had the protection and assistance of our fellows in the conservation and use of it.

What good would money be to a human being if he were all by himself on a desert island? How long would he be able to keep or control his money if he were surrounded by cutthroat thieves?

When there was less civilization and less cooperation, men never knew when their women folks would be seized and carried off by enemy hordes. A frightful weakness in our own civilization is demonstrated every time a child, a man, or a woman is kidnaped and spirited away for ransom by fiends in human form.

It is that greatest of sins—selfishness—which is responsible for the failure of men to cooperate with men in matters that are worthy? Selfishness makes men refuse to help one another and to respect one another's rights. Selfishness is back of virtually all social evils. If you will trace every iniquity to which man is subject, and of which man is guilty, you will find that in nearly every instance the trail leads directly to selfishness.

As we become more developed in intelligence and in character, we will become more and more committed to sound, substantial cooperation. Leaving the moral value entirely out of the question, it is but common sense for human beings to cooperate with one another. Men (and insects, too) that have learned how to cooperate, have learned how to get the best out of life.

There is a sound reason for the golden rule. It is not founded on sentimentality. It is based on bedrock practicality. The golden rule means cooperation.

CONGESTION SLOWS BUSINESS

A survey indicates that shoppers are avoiding congested sections, with serious effect on retail business. Two thousand merchants, representing the entire country, agree in this.

Little is offered in the way of constructive remedies except decentralization, through the scattering of store and office buildings over wider areas and the establishment of branch stores away from congested centers.

Readily understandable is the hesitancy among merchants to resort to such a plan. Capital outlay would be tremendous and widespread business losses would result. The purpose of traffic regulation is to protect and aid the general public. Indirectly, traffic rules, which make it easy for the shopper, benefit the shopkeeper.

Wider driveways and sidewalks are not feasible, because of the prohibitive cost, in sections already built up along narrow thoroughfares. In few cities and towns are there enough parallel routes to relieve congestion by distributing traffic over a number of streets. And there seems to be no attempt on the part of certain classes of traffic to ascertain for their own convenience the paths of least resistance.

If traffic problems are to be solved there must be a willingness on the part of all elements to cooperate and, if need be, make sacrifices for the common good.

ALAS, POOR TOWSER

On learning that dogs are now fed upon spinach and cod liver oil.

I have owned many dogs, perhaps fifty,
  And they ate what I gave them to eat,
They were glad to be fed
Upon biscuits and bread
  As well as potatoes and meat.
They also procured from the neighbors
  A few extra mouthfuls by stealth;
They ate what they got
And I'm sure they did not
  Evince any signs of bad health.

But today dogs are fed on a diet;
  No longer they saunter around
To pick up a meal
which has eating-appeal—
  Such food is regarded unsound.
The hard hand of science has clutched them;
  The poor creatures shrink and recoil,
And doubtless see red
For they daily are fed
  Upon spinach and cod-liver oil.

Poor pooches! Imagine their horror
  When they cannot eat just what they please;
The life that they lead
Is a dog's life indeed.
  Devoid both of comfort and ease.
We shall soon find them haunting the forest
  And making the rabbits their spoil,
As what wise dog would not
When he finds he has got

A ROAD TO FAME

The rich man who yearns to make a name in the educational field will endow a couple of colleges with squads of crack football players.

Why doesn't some engineer build a car that will stop automatically every time it comes face to face with a red light?

Parents Shift Burden

By BRUCE CATTON

Unless we revise our way of training children in the public schools, we may presently find that we have reared a generation of "jaded old youngsters" utterly devoid of a sense of value.

Teaching children how to solve problems in arithmetic, how to spell, how to reel off the names of the presidents, and how to bound the state of Kentucky, Dr. Hocking suggests, is pretty nearly useless unless, at the same time, we give them the mental and emotional training which will enable them to get something out of their lives besides the empty repetition of a monotonous routine

Now the significant thing about this is the fact that the speaker seems to take it for granted that the youngsters are to get this kind of development in the school rather than in the home.

One of the most profound changes any human society could undergo has been taking place in this country in recent years, and most of us have hardly noticed it.

We have not only given to our schools the job of teaching our children how to read and write; we have, to a very great extent, also given them the the task of developing our children's character, establishing their ideals, and suggesting to them the approaches to adulthood.

A homely illustration will show the trend. Hardly anyone spanks his child any more; and while that may be an excellent thing, the old-time firmness of parental discipline has pretty largely vanished at the same time.

It has been transferred to the school room. The child whose parents "can't do a thing with him"—and his name is legion, nowadays—toes the mark in school very obediently.

He has to. He knows teachers will make it hot for him if he doesn't.

Now this is merely a symbol of the way in which we have transferred parental responsibilities to the school ma'am. The only reason why we are not raising the most spoiled brats the world ever knew is that the schools are doing our work for us.

It is for that reason that Dr. Hocking's warning is timely. It calls on the educators to recognize that they have been given a responsibility which, from time immemorial, has rested on the parent.

League's Home In New Palace

By Milton Bronner
(NEA Staff Correspondent)

GENEVA, Nov. 3.—Whatever fate may have in store for the League of Nations, and though many member countries have failed to pay their dues, there has been no let-up in the drive to finish before next summer the magnificent set of buildings which will house the league's activities here.

Ever since the first assembly of the league met in Geneva in the winter of 1920, it has been evident that more adequate quarters were needed. The buildings occupied were more or less of a make-shift order and the assembly met in a hall with little accommodation for press and public and with poor acoustic qualities. The Swiss were especially anxious to see special buildings erected, because that would mean the permament tie-up of the league to Geneva as headquarters city. At times there had been moves to transfer quarters to Vienna to help out that derelict city.

New Buildings Cost $5,000,000

The cost of the new buildings was fixed by the assembly of 1932 at 25,577,150 Swiss francs, or something like $5,000,000 at par value. This does not include the library the entire cost of which—estimated at $2,000,000—is being borne by John D. Rockefeller, Jr,

In the plan, the council wing, the committee rooms, the assembly hall and the library are grouped around a rectangular court of honor which will be terraced on two levels. There has been little attempt at ornamentation, the architects relying for their effects upon the imposing masses and proportions of the several buildings. The total length of the group is about 1,200 feet and the area about 10,000 square yards. In size they will be only slightly less than the vast group of the Palace of Versailles.

The assembly hall will acommodate 600 delegates, experts and secretaries, have seats for 500 working journalists and provide about 800 seats for the public. The accoustics have been made as nearly perfect as modern science can provide.

Many Furnishings Donated

When it is completed, it is expected that many adornments to the group of buildings will have been secured without cost to the league. This, because of donations by countries and individuals. Although the United States has never entered the league, it is heavily represent in the buildings. Not only has "Young John" Rockefeller donated the library, but the Woodrow Wilson foundation has given $25,000 for the monumental bronze doors to the main entrance of the assembly hall. Edward A. Filene, well-known Boston merchant has donated the apparatus for simultaneous telephonic interpretation to be used in the assembly hall.

New Zealand is panelling one room in native wood. South Africa is panelling a committee room in its native wood. Holland is giving the decoration and furnishing of the secretary-general's office. India has sent a set of furniture for the room of the president of the assembly. Siam has sent a carved book case. Sweden is giving the furniture for the room of the president of the council. Persia has sent carpets.

South America Gives Plaque

Greece has donated a reproduction in bronze of an antique Greek statue. Bolivia, Colombia, Panama, Peru and Venezuela have united to present a bronze tablet bearing an inscription of two sentences from speeches of the Great South American patriot, Simon Bolivar. Little Luxemburg is giving wrought-iron gates for the entrance way. Australia is sending a presidential table and furniture, all in Australian wood. Spain is decorating one large committee room and Switzerland is providing another. China is sending a priceless set of embroided panels. Finland is donating hand-woven curtains and Austria a large Gobelins tapestry.

The designs of the buildings are the point work of five famous European architects: H. P. Nenot, who won the grand prix of Rome, is inspector general of French national palaces and was the architect of the Sorbonne in Paris; M. Broggi, of Rome; M. Flegenheimer, of Geneva; M. Lefevre, also an inspector general of French national palaces, and M. Vago, of Budapest.

LASALLE PARISH TO BALLOT ON LIQUOR QUESTION TUESDAY

JENA, La., Nov. 3.—(Special)—The voters of LaSalle parish will go to the polls on Tuesday to decide the liquor question insofar as it concerns this section. The police jury called the election for November 6th after it had been urged to do so by citizens of the parish and the same commissioners who serve for the regular general election to be held on that date will also serve for the prohibition election.

LaSalle parish has always been considered dry territory, or at least has been since the parish was created in 1910 and the prohibition forces are claiming that it will remain so by a vote of two to one next Tuesday.

A parish wide meeting of veterans of the World war has been called for next Thursday night at the Jena American Legion hall. The call was issued by Howard Finley, commander of the local post and the veterans will be entertained by the Legionnaires and the merchants and business men of Jena and surrounding communities.

WORK IS STARTED ON STERLINGTON SCHOOL

First concrete for the frame-work of the four-room addition to the school at Sterlington was poured Saturday by workmen for Lee Ellis, contractor, according to information received here. Work of constructing the addition is being done under a contract price of $13,273.

The addition of the four rooms will double the size of the school. At present two of the seven grades are taught in one room and it is necessary to teach two other classes in other buildings. The new rooms will give a room for each of the classes. It is expected that when the work is completed one more teacher will be employed, thus making one for each room, instead of having one teacher to teach two of the classes.

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

LIGHTHOUSE RENT—Prior to the enactment of the government salary classification act of 1923, the use of quarters for keepers of lighthouses and their families was furnished by the government, this being in addition to the cash compensations for services rendered. But with the passage of that law it was held that the compensation fixed pursuant to the passage of the act was all that an employee should receive, and that emoluments were not authorized and employees of lighthouses should pay rent for their quarters. However, salaries were increased proportionately. For example: Before 1923, if an employee received $1,200 per annum and free housing, his salary was increased to $1,440 per year and $240 was deducted for rent. The change was simply a matter of having their entire compensation put on a fixed monetary basis.

Lights of New York

By Paul Harrison

NEW YORK.—After attending the National Business Show, your New York observer has a report to make on office efficiency: In spite of all the new labor-saving devices, secretarial notes may still be done by hand, just as they were before the industrial revolution.

You'd have thought that by this time the inventors would have turned out some wax-model robot stenographers—all beautiful, unattached, mechanically incapable of betraying a confidence and perhaps thermostatically controlled. But they have not. Instead they have gone to some lengths to provide live, fluffy blonde scenery to offset the chill detachment of the clicking machines. I watched one gentleman who had spent his time watching a dazzling young woman run a tabulator. After the demonstration he said he didn't want a machine but the girl would be worth it in his office if she'd come there when the business show closed.

Efficiency Undone

Buoyed by this victory of girl over gadget, I strolled over to watch a contraption which seemed designed to do everything from simple addition to the calculation of compound interest and tabulation of vouchers. A great time and labor saver no doubt, except that something had gone wrong and it now was wasting a lot of time. Wasting labor, too, because two mechanics and the girl demonstrator and the salesman were all fussing with it. The latter seemed annoyed because the machine had broken down right in the middle of his pretty speech.

Everything is speeded up this year. Typewriters are 15 per cent faster; calculators are 11.476 per cent more efficient, and so on. The only reason I go to business shows is because I like the flattery of salesmen who slyly pretend that I must be the president, at least, of some vast concern, and start chatting easily in terms of hundreds of thousands of dollars. I always promise to send around one of my executive vice presidents to talk terms.

Coping With NRA

Exhibitors have a new sales talk. They say that more machines and faster machines are needed in offices to cope with shortened hours prevailing under the national recovery program. Fortified with new machines, an office can do more work in less time, and without hiring any additional help.

I wanted to ask somebody what good the recovery program could do if its shorter hours didn't result in the hiring of more people. I kept quiet, though, for fear of goading some great mind into sitting down and inventing a machine for turning out better pieces for the newspapers than this one is.

Signing Off

Being in a sort of mechanistic mood, I went to see about that flashy electric sign which belts the Times building with moving news bulletins. Everybody who has seen Times Square after dusk during the last six years has seen that sign; hundreds of thousands gather to watch it when election returns are coming in, and when other big stories are breaking.

But few people ever see its innards. It was designed, built and installed by a Mr. Frank C. Reilly, who used reading signs which are part of the to make most of the moving and Broadway kaleidoscope. He went into the sign business 25 years ago, after he had been a subway electrician. Liquids flowing out of bottles and smokes rising from cigars were simple tasks in electric sign making compared to his masterpiece on the Times building.

The interior mechanism occupies almost every inch of a large room. Frank Powell, the chief engineer, and his assistant receive the bulletins to be flashed and then set them from a tremendous type case full of metal letters mounted on fiber bases. They have to work fast because the sign is in continuous operation, but in six years they haven't made many embarrassing typographical errors.

Letters, blanks, black slabs for spaces, are stacked one above the other and put into a vertical magazine. Then they emerge, to pass over a bed containing 29,600 brushes, two for each of the 14,800 electric light bulbs which band four sides of the building outside. The lamps flash—flash 21,925,664 times per hour. Each bulb flashes for only 1-42 of a second, because a lingering glow would blur the words.

ANSELL DECISION EXPECTED SOON

Action May Interest Huey More Than Current Football Season

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—(AP)—The supreme court, returning from two weeks of recess labor on 35 important cases, may hand down on Monday a decision that will be of more interest to Senator Huey Long than the current football campaign.

The Louisiana legislator probably will be advised by the high court whether he must defend in the courts here a libel suit brought against him for $500,000 by General Samuel T. Ansell, former judge advocate general of the army.

Long in a speech in the senate severely denounced Ansell, who had acted as counsel for a senate committee investigating the election of his colleague, Senator Overton. Long was charged with circulating the speech in the mails by sending out copies of the Congressional Record containing it. The Louisianian sought immunity on constitutional grounds, asserting a member of congress is protected from "arrest" during a session of congress, and insisting that the word "arrest" was sufficiently broad to protect him from interruption of his congressional duties by a civil process.

Ansell contended "arrest" must be given its literal definition, maintaining that it protected a congressman only from bodily arrest and detention.

Another controversy arousing wide attention, which also is awaiting decision by the court, involves the authority of land grant colleges and universities, receiving federal aid, to make military training compulsory.

The case was presented in an appeal by two students who were suspended by the University of California for refusal to take such training.

DISORDERS IN COAL AREA MAY SPREAD FOLLOWING FIGHTS

WILKES BARRE, Pa., Nov. 3.—(AP)—Spread of disorders in the hard coal region was threatened tonight after another battle between rival union miners, the third in four days, at the Susquehanna collieries plant in Nanticoke.

United anthracite miners of Pennsylvania, seeking to close the colliery because of alleged discrimination against their members, have appealed to employes of the Big Glen Alden collieries for a "general strike."

Mass meetings tonight and tomorrow will determine the next move in the controversy that has continued for more than a year.

Pistols flashed as more than 1,000 men affiliated with the United Mine Workers of America fought with pickets over the streets of the mining town today. Two were removed to hospitals with minor hurts after five minutes of wild firing and an exchange of stones, clubs and bits of metal. At least three others received medical treatment.

Meanwhile, Nanticoke and Luzerne county officials prepared for "drastic steps to assure peace and order."

ANGOLA CONVICTS STAGE GETAWAY

Three Men Sought After Overpowering Guard At State Prison

BATON ROUGE, La., Nov. 3.—(AP)—Penitentiary authorities today sought three convicts who fled from the penal farm at Angola yesterday after overpowering a guard and escaping with his gun, a horse and two mules.

The names of the prisoners were given by Manager R. L. Himes as M. J. Jones, W. Dorman and John Martin. Himes said he was informed they were surrounded on the prison reservation.

Penitentiary records stated that Jones was received October 17, 1931, from Tangipahoa parish under 6 to 9 years sentence for grand larceny after having served previous terms in the Louisiana and Texas penitentiaries.

Dorman is recorded as having been received from Tangipahoa parish July 17, 1930 under 7 to 14 years sentence for robbery.

Martin, described as a third-termer with an Arkansas penitentiary record, was last received June 27, 1931, from Vernon parish with a 9 to 14 years term for bank robbery. workers at the Red Cross headquarters Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

The house-to-house committee for Monroe will be headed by Mrs. Sam Orchard, who has called the meeting Friday afternoon of all the workers who will participate in this phase of the campaign. Among those organizations which have pledged cooperation in the house-to-house canvass are the following:

An organization for active work in West Monroe will be set up, with Rev. George H. Dierlamm as chairman and George Welch as vice-chairman. The West Monroe Kiwanis club will be active in aiding this committee to carry out a systematic campaign that is designed to reach every resident of West Monroe. D. C. Metcalf will have charge of the canvass of the Brown Paper mill and Mrs. Metcalf will be chairman of the house-to-house committee of West Monroe.

Roll Call Chairman Isaacman also announced the personnel of the committees which will work in Monroe as follows:

Industrial big gifts committee—L. P. Abernathy, chairman Ouachita chapter Red Cross.

Group enrollment committee—Traffic bridge to Sixth street and Grammont to Olive; American Legion, under command of William Rodriguez and Charles Mitchell.

Group enrollment committee—Sixth street to Grand, south of Grammont and north of Olive; Veterans of Foreign Wars, under C. A. Hunt.

Rural district—Dr. C. L. Mengis.

A goal of 10,000 members has been set by the roll call committee, Chairman Isaacman said, in order to adequately carry on the work which will be required of the Red Cross the coming year.

"The service of the Red Cross during the coming year," Mr. Isaacman said, "will be more than ordinarily important, because of the fact that the organization has been designated as the official relief agency for the entire parish. The city of Monroe, as well as the police jury, is cooperating in making the work efficient and thorough. It remains now for the people throughout the whole area to lend their best efforts to making the work of the Red Cross fulfill all that is expected of it, and that every needy person will be adequately taken care of. The need will be great, but many hands giving their aid, will make the task a light one for each individual."

On the beginning of the roll call campaign an honor roll will be published each day, showing the number of members enrolled and giving credit to each business house and group which enlists 100 per cent of its associates in the chapter membership.

LAYTON APPEAL CASE ARGUED IN SUPREME COURT

prepare a list of talis jurors under a procedure permitted only under certain circumstances and that those circumstances did not exist at that time. He said the high court apparently listened favorably to the argument.

The first death in the chain occurred when Carley Layton, John Layton, 20, and Raymond Smith were alleged to have stabbed the high school youth to death at a dance in a rural community.

Next to die was Raymond Smith, who ended his life in a jail cell at Oak Grove a few minutes after the three had been found guilty and he and Carley Layton had been given the death penalty, while a life sentence was imposed upon John Layton. The jury gave John Layton a lighter sentence than the others because of his youth.

Driven to desperation by the trouble that had visited his family, Ance Layton, 50, father of Carley and John, placed the muzzle of a shotgun against his chest, last October 5, at his home about a mile east of Chickasaw and seven miles northeast of Oak Grove, and ended his life.

Since that time Mrs. Ance Layton has been seriously ill and it was said Saturday that her condition had become critical, with death likely to occur at any time.

SANDERSON SUES CADDO DOCTORS

Takes Action After Article About Hospital Appears In Magazine

SHREVEPORT, La., Nov. 3.—(AP)—Charging that his reputation and standing in the community had been injured and impaired by an alleged slanderous attack made upon him in an article written by Sam Mims, entitled "Exploiters of the Dead" and published in a detective magazine, after its truthfulness as to facts had been attested to by Dr. J. C. Willis and Dr. W. B. Allums, local physicians, Dr. E. L. Sanderson, superintendent of Charity hospital here, today filed suit in the Caddo parish district court against the two physicians asking damages of $25,000.

"Exploiters of the Dead," Dr. Sanderson alleges, was published in September and was given wide circulation about the country and in Shreveport, causing him much embarrassment and humiliation. He asesrts in the petition that the charges made against him in the article are false and untrue and were made through malice.

The story is said to have been an alleged exposure of local conditions in connection with the disposal of bodies of persons who died in the Charity hospital here.

WALLACE CANCELS TAX CERTIFICATES

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Secretary Wallace today cancelled all tax exemption certificates issued under the Bankhead cotton limitation act which have been invalidly transferred.

All tax exemption certificates remaining after this year's needs are filled will be exchanged for new certificates for 1935 if the Bankhead act is continued.

Since any transfer or assignment of a certificate which is not made according to Bankhead act regulations renders them invalid the secretary said all such certificates would be cancelled to protect producers who have followed the proper procedure.

Upon cancellation of a certificate the secretary will notify the bureau and collectors of internal revenue, county agents, the person to whom the certificate was originally issued, and the person who made the invalid transfer. Ginners will then be notified of the cancellation and will be required to refuse acceptance of such certificate in issuing bale tags.

Certificates may be validly transferred only within a county or through the national surplus certificate pool.

North Side Is Dark For Two Hours Last Evening

Street lights of a large area of the city north of DeSiard street failed to burn Saturday night when the switch controlling them was pressed. The cause of the trouble, it was reported from the electrical department, was the breaking loose of connections by strong winds prevalent in the afternoon and the hard rain which fell the previous night. The breaks in the lines were repaired and the lights were turned on in about two hours.

GIBBS RECOVERING

Henry Gibbs, of the city schools maintenance department, was reported improving at St. Francis sanitarium yesterday where he has been a patient for the past two weeks. Mr. Gibbs is recovering from an appendicitis operation.

AUXILIARY TO MEET

The auxiliary of the L. B. Faulk post of the American Legion will meet Thursday night at 7:30 o'clock at the Legion home, it was announced yesterday.

HAUPTMANN'S SON IS ONE YEAR OLD

Prisoner Is Allowed To Spend Fifteen Minutes With Mannfried

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Nov. 3.—(AP)—The Hauptmanns—Bruno Richard, the Lindbergh kidnap-slaying prisoner, and his wife, Anna,—celebrated their son Mannfried's first birthday anniversary today.

Hauptmann's share in the celebration was little enough. For fifteen mintues, by special permission of Sheriff John H. Curtiss, he was allowed to see his son in the bull-pen near his cell, to hold him and to talk to him.

The sight was enough for Mrs. Hauptmann to bring tears to her eyes, but when she and Mannfried emerged from the jail she was smiling. A short time later a trace of fresh hope was evident in her spirit.

As she sat at the table with Mannfried and cut his birthday cake she suddenly said to the baby:

"Let's cut a piece of cake and save it for papa. He will be with us soon."

Her eyes were bright as she watched Mannfried play with a mechanical toy, and as she showed him two knitted suits, a cap, two dolls and other little gifts received from relatives and strangers alike. There were cards of greeting for the baby from friends and from persons who did not sign their names.

There seemed to be little doubt today that James M. Fawcett, the attorney who fought against Hauptmann's extradition from New York, is definitely out of the case. Attorney General David T. Wilentz said that the matter will be settled by Monday or Tuesday, and that by that time it will have been decided who as counsel for Hauptmann will be permitted to visit him in jail.

J. E. McClanahan Reported Improving At Sanitarium

J. E. McClanahan, former Caldwell parish sheriff and at present connected with the state department of identification, was reported in an improving condition at St. Francis sanitarium last night.

Mr. McClanahan underwent an operation for appendicitis here October 11 and soon afterwards developed a case of pneumonia, which was considered serious. However, attendants at the sanitarium last night said his pulse was normal, he was eating three average meals a day and was recuperating nicely.

Police Are Arresting Delinquent Fine Payers

The police department has begun a policy of arresting persons whose fines in city court were given stays of execution and who have not promptly paid their fines on the dates stipulated. Officers of the department are being given lists of the names of persons whose fines are delinquent and are arresting them and detaining them until satisfactory payment is made, or until a day for each dollar of the fines is served in jail.

During the depression, the city court has, in some cases, allowed defendants to pay fines in such a manner as to avoid undue hardship, but this policy recently has failed to receive the cooperation of defendants involved, and police, who have charge of collecting fines, have decided, with Judge W. M. Harper, of the city court, to put an end to the lax payments.

Sunday School Class Is Entertained With Party

EROS, La., Nov. 3.—(Special)—Members of the Junior Sunday school class of the Baptist church here were entertained at a Hallowe'en party by Mrs. K. Bennett this week.

Those attending the affair were Sarah Barr, Vedick Brannon, Frances Holmes, Delwood Rogers, Wilfred Kemp, J. W. Capps, R. W. Brannon, Bewford Brannon and Egan Barr.

unable to get information about the charge. Then he was told it was not extraditable. He lacked funds —"of my own"—to come back to the United States.

Then he said:

"I think I would have been crucified. Attorney Swanson, (the then State's Attorney John A. Swanson), had dodgers distributed showing me being brought through the streets in chains.

"I thought there was a political situation here and it would be better to have it quiet down before I came back. And self preservation is the first law of nature."

"You weren't running away, when you left Chicago?" Salter persisted.

"I was entirely out of business," Insull said in answer.

Sir Basil Zaharoff, Greek multimillionaire and a figure in world politics, was mentioned by Salter but Insull denied Sir Basil had helped him avoid the American authorities.

Salter led Insull into a recital of how he left the United States in June, 1932, his vast utility system in ruins, sailed to Paris, and traced him across the map of Europe to Turin, Italy, Milan, and finally Greece, in a flight which was world drama in 1932 and 1933..

The house-to-house committee for Monroe will be headed by Mrs. Sam Orchard, who has called the meeting Friday afternoon of all the workers who will participate in this phase of the campaign. Among those organizations which have pledged cooperation in the house-to-house canvass are the following:

Literary Guild, Lions auxiliary, St. Francis Legion auxiliary, Veterans of Foreign Wars auxiliary, Thomas Wood Lee auxiliary, Medical auxiliary, Twin City P.-T. A., St. Matthew's P.-T. A., Barkdull Faulk P.-T. A., Ouachita parish high school P.-T. A., Neville high school P.-T. A., Sherrouse school P.-T. A., Lida Benton school P.-T. An organization for active work in West Monroe will be set up, with Rev. George H. Dierlamm as chairman and George Welch as vice-chairman. The West Monroe Kiwanis club will be active in aiding this committee to carry out a systematic campaign that is designed to reach every resident of West Monroe. D. C. Metcalf will have charge of the canvass of the Brown Paper mill and Mrs. Metcalf will be chairman of the house-to-house committee of West Monroe.

Roll Call Chairman Isaacman also announced the personnel of the committees which will work in Monroe as follows:

Industrial big gifts committee—L. P. Abernathy, chairman Ouachita chapter Red Cross.

Group enrollment committee—Traffic bridge to Sixth street and Grammont to Olive; American Legion, under command of William Rodriguez and Charles Mitchell.

Group enrollment committee—Sixth street to Grand, south of Grammont and north of Olive; Veterans of Foreign Wars, under C. A. Hunt.

Rural district—Dr. C. L. Mengis.

A goal of 10,000 members has been set by the roll call committee, Chairman Isaacman said, in order to adequately carry on the work which will be required of the Red Cross the coming year.

"The service of the Red Cross during the coming year," Mr. Isaacman said, "will be more than ordinarily important, because of the fact that the organization has been designated as the official relief agency for the entire parish. The city of Monroe, as well as the police jury, is cooperating in making the work efficient and thorough. It remains now for the people throughout the whole area to lend their best efforts to making the work of the Red Cross fulfill all that is expected of it, and that every needy person will be adequately taken care of. The need will be great, but many hands giving their aid, will make the task a light one for each individual."

On the beginning of the roll call campaign an honor roll will be published each day, showing the number of members enrolled and giving credit to each business house and group which enlists 100 per cent of its associates in the chapter membership.

Held on Wheeler field two days after the scheduled start by a leaking gasoline tank requiring extensive repairs, the plane Lady Southern Cross was pronounced in perfect condition after its flight of nearly 5,000 miles from Brisbane.

Kingsford-Smith expressed complete satisfaction with its performance in the test flight, and thanked the army mechanics who had put it into condition for one of the greatest over-water flights on the globe.

LAYTON APPEAL CASE ARGUED IN SUPREME COURT

prepare a list of talis jurors under a procedure permitted only under certain circumstances and that those circumstances did not exist at that time. He said the high court apparently listened favorably to the argument.

The first death in the chain occurred when Carley Layton, John Layton, 20, and Raymond Smith were alleged to have stabbed the high school youth to death at a dance in a rural community.

Next to die was Raymond Smith, who ended his life in a jail cell at Oak Grove a few minutes after the three had been found guilty and he and Carley Layton had been given the death penalty, while a life sentence was imposed upon John Layton. The jury gave John Layton a lighter sentence than the others because of his youth.

Driven to desperation by the trouble that had visited his family, Ance Layton, 50, father of Carley and John, placed the muzzle of a shotgun against his chest, last October 5, at his home about a mile east of Chickasaw and seven miles northeast of Oak Grove, and ended his life.

Since that time Mrs. Ance Layton has been seriously ill and it was said Saturday that her condition had become critical, with death likely to occur at any time.

SANDERSON SUES CADDO DOCTORS

SHREVEPORT, La., Nov. 3.—(AP)—Charging that his reputation and standing in the community had been injured and impaired by an alleged slanderous attack made upon him in an article written by Sam Mims, entitled "Exploiters of the Dead" and published in a detective magazine, after its truthfulness as to facts had been attested to by Dr. J. C. Willis and Dr. W. B. Allums, local physicians, Dr. E. L. Sanderson, superintendent of Charity hospital here, today filed suit in the Caddo parish district court against the two physicians asking damages of $25,000.

"Exploiters of the Dead," Dr. Sanderson alleges, was published in September and was given wide circulation about the country and in Shreveport, causing him much embarrassment and humiliation. He asesrts in the petition that the charges made against him in the article are false and untrue and were made through malice.

The story is said to have been an alleged exposure of local conditions in connection with the disposal of bodies of persons who died in the Charity hospital here.

WALLACE CANCELS TAX CERTIFICATES

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Secretary Wallace today cancelled all tax exemption certificates issued under the Bankhead cotton limitation act which have been invalidly transferred.

All tax exemption certificates remaining after this year's needs are filled will be exchanged for new certificates for 1935 if the Bankhead act is continued.

Since any transfer or assignment of a certificate which is not made according to Bankhead act regulations renders them invalid the secretary said all such certificates would be cancelled to protect producers who have followed the proper procedure.

Upon cancellation of a certificate the secretary will notify the bureau and collectors of internal revenue, county agents, the person to whom the certificate was originally issued, and the person who made the invalid transfer. Ginners will then be notified of the cancellation and will be required to refuse acceptance of such certificate in issuing bale tags.

Certificates may be validly transferred only within a county or through the national surplus certificate pool.

North Side Is Dark For Two Hours Last Evening

Street lights of a large area of the city north of DeSiard street failed to burn Saturday night when the switch controlling them was pressed. The cause of the trouble, it was reported from the electrical department, was the breaking loose of connections by strong winds prevalent in the afternoon and the hard rain which fell the previous night. The breaks in the lines were repaired and the lights were turned on in about two hours.

HAUPTMANN'S SON IS ONE YEAR OLD

Prisoner Is Allowed To Spend Fifteen Minutes With Mannfried

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Nov. 3.—(AP)—The Hauptmanns—Bruno Richard, the Lindbergh kidnap-slaying prisoner, and his wife, Anna,—celebrated their son Mannfried's first birthday anniversary today.

Hauptmann's share in the celebration was little enough. For fifteen mintues, by special permission of Sheriff John H. Curtiss, he was allowed to see his son in the bull-pen near his cell, to hold him and to talk to him.

The sight was enough for Mrs. Hauptmann to bring tears to her eyes, but when she and Mannfried emerged from the jail she was smiling. A short time later a trace of fresh hope was evident in her spirit.

As she sat at the table with Mannfried and cut his birthday cake she suddenly said to the baby:

"Let's cut a piece of cake and save it for papa. He will be with us soon."

Her eyes were bright as she watched Mannfried play with a mechanical toy, and as she showed him two knitted suits, a cap, two dolls and other little gifts received from relatives and strangers alike. There were cards of greeting for the baby from friends and from persons who did not sign their names.

There seemed to be little doubt today that James M. Fawcett, the attorney who fought against Hauptmann's extradition from New York, is definitely out of the case. Attorney General David T. Wilentz said that the matter will be settled by Monday or Tuesday, and that by that time it will have been decided who as counsel for Hauptmann will be permitted to visit him in jail.

Police Are Arresting Delinquent Fine Payers

The police department has begun a policy of arresting persons whose fines in city court were given stays of execution and who have not promptly paid their fines on the dates stipulated. Officers of the department are being given lists of the names of persons whose fines are delinquent and are arresting them and detaining them until satisfactory payment is made, or until a day for each dollar of the fines is served in jail.

During the depression, the city court has, in some cases, allowed defendants to pay fines in such a manner as to avoid undue hardship, but this policy recently has failed to receive the cooperation of defendants involved, and police, who have charge of collecting fines, have decided, with Judge W. M. Harper, of the city court, to put an end to the lax payments.

unable to get information about the charge. Then he was told it was not extraditable. He lacked funds —"of my own"—to come back to the United States.

Then he said:

"I think I would have been crucified. Attorney Swanson, (the then State's Attorney John A. Swanson), had dodgers distributed showing me being brought through the streets in chains.

"I thought there was a political situation here and it would be better to have it quiet down before I came back. And self preservation is the first law of nature."

"You weren't running away, when you left Chicago?" Salter persisted.

"I was entirely out of business," Insull said in answer.

Sir Basil Zaharoff, Greek multimillionaire and a figure in world politics, was mentioned by Salter but Insull denied Sir Basil had helped him avoid the American authorities.

Salter led Insull into a recital of how he left the United States in June, 1932, his vast utility system in ruins, sailed to Paris, and traced him across the map of Europe to Turin, Italy, Milan, and finally Greece, in a flight which was world drama in 1932 and 1933..

CENTER OFFERS MUSIC COURSES

Local College Is In Position To Provide Worthy Service

Since the department of education has placed a new emphasis on music in the schools, Northeast Center of Louisiana State university is in a position to offer worthy service to the people of northeast Louisiana, Dean C. C. Colvert said Saturday. He added that the enrollment in the music department is almost double that of last year.

"Interest in music, both at the college and in the surrounding territory is considerably on the increase," Mr. Colvert stated.

Commenting further on the work of the college here, he said:

"Northeast Center has a complete line of musical offerings, including piano, organ, violin, reeds, brass instruments, voice and public school music. In each of these the first two years are offered, fitting students to finish with a degree in music at some other institution.

"A new member has been added to the department, Miss Charlotte Elizabeth Davis having been elected to replace Mr. Blanchard as part-time instructor of voice. Miss Davis teaches full-time and has a bachelor of music degree from Louisiana State university.

"The head of the school of music is Roger C. Frisbie, with a degree from Northwestern. Mr. Frisbie was professor of organ and theoretical music in the University of Wyoming for eighteen years. Mr. Frisbie directs the glee clubs and the choral club.

"The music department makes a comparatively small charge for all private lessons, in order to give more people an opportunity to get training in these subjects. An invitation to accept this service at low cost is extended not only to college students, but to the people of Monroe, West Monroe, and all the rest of northeast Louisiana."

Local Furniture Company Named Prize-Winner In National Sales Contest

Word has been received here by the Monroe Furniture company, Ltd., that that company has been named as first prize winner in a nation-wide radio sales contest conducted by Stewart-Warner corporation of Chicago, Joe Isaacman, president, said Saturday.

The contest, which was begun in August and ended recently, was held among Stewart-Warner distributors in San Antonio, Houston, Abilene, Little Rock, Memphis, Amarillo, New Orleans and Monroe. The prize went to the firm which sold the largest percentage of sets and established the largest percentage of radio dealers.

The first prize check of $350, accompanied by a letter of congratulations from the Stewart-Warner factory, was received by Monroe Furniture company Saturday. According to Mr. Isaacman, the money will be distributed among the wholesale sales personnel who "put over" the contest.

Monroe Furniture company, a new distributor for Stewart-Warner radio, was given the line after an extremely successful year as distributor for the new Stewart-Warner electric refrigerator, during which the local organization led the entire United States in sales according to quota.

"We are unusually proud to have achieved this success," Mr. Isaacman stated, "and we are happy to be able to offer the people of this section such products as the Stewart-Warner refrigerator and the "Magic Dial" radio."

AT THE CAPITOL TODAY

AT LOCAL THEATERS

All the glory that was Egypt, all the grandeur that was Rome is shown here in a screen masterpiece, bringing to the motion picture once again all the talent of the master of spectacle.

War chariots thunder across the sands, spears glisten in the thrill of battles, dancing girls swing and swirl through grand marble halls and back of it all, in clear tones, rings the world's greatest love story that has lived throughout the ages.

With Claudette Colbert, Warren William and Henry Wilcoxon in the principal roles, the film boasts of a grand array of star talent, a veritable army of extras (more than 5,000 men women and children took part) and a supporting cast that includes Ian Keith, Joseph Schildkraut, C. Aubrey Smith, Gertrude Michael, Irving Pichel, William Farnum, Robert Warwick, Jack Mulhall, Edwin Maxwell and Harry Beresford.

The film story starts with the ambitious ruler of Egypt using the mighty Caesar as a foil against her brother and co-ruler. From Caesar, after he has been killed, Cleapatra drifts from lover to lover until Marc Antony, noble Roman soldier, falls in love with her.

And it is this love, which has echoed down through countless pages of history and fiction that takes up the greater portion of the film. In fast-moving scenes of beauty, color and spectacle this deathless love portrayed.

The manner in which the two lovers finally defy the entire world, and find perfect peace and happiness brings the film to a most sensational finale.

Highest acting honors go to Claudette Colbert, with Henry Wilcoxon and Warren William running her a close second. Good portraits are created by Ian Keith, C. Aubrey Smith and Gertrude Michael.

It might be pointed out here that DeMille has completely modernized his story and his people without losing any of the glamorous backgrounds.

AT THE CAPITOL—That fascinating Alice Faye is singing her way through "She Learned About Sailors" at the Capitol theater, with handsome Lew Ayres as the principal object of her affections. Lew's shipmates are Mitchell and Durant, the happy team of vaudeville headliners who portrayed the senators in "Stand Up and Cheer" And just for good measure, the inimitable Harry Green appears as a South American impresario.

There you have the ingredients for a most entertaining comedy. The story deals chiefly with the romance between Alice and Lew, complicated by the well-intentioned but bungling interference of Lew's buddies. The action starts in an Asiatic port, with its colorful settings. Then it jumps aboard ship to Honolulu, thence to San Pedro and finishes in an exclusive hotel in Los Angeles.

Alice Faye, the singing flame of George White's "Scandals," has another good number in this one called "Here's the Key to My Heart." And she puts it over with all the effectiveness of a great voice and an alluring personality. Of course this is just part of her charm. Her portrayal of the lass who loved a sailor puts her in the running for dramatic honors, too.

Lew Ayres is delightful as the ambitious sailor lad who wants to get out of the navy so he can earn enough to support the lovely Alice. Mitchell and Durant have plenty of opportunity for slapstick comedy and they never miss a trick. Harry Green is better than ever.

DIXIE THEATER—Today's program at the Dixie theater brings the season's greatest musical attraction "Flying Down to Rio" together with Our Gang kids in "Hi Neighbor" and chapter two of the thrilling serial photoplay "Hurricane Express." Tomorrow the screen attraction will be Zane Grey's "To the Last Man" and Cab Calloway in a featured short subject. On the stage Monday night and every Monday at 8:30 Country Store at which time various articles of merchandise contributed by your local merchants are given away. The Dixie is Monroe's only exclusive colored theater and is fast gaining popularity in the east end presenting the latest and best photoplays with Western Electric sound the same as is use in the better theaters in the larger cities.

Poultry School To Be Held This Week

A poultry school, open to the general public, will be held at the city hall in Monroe on November 7, 8 and 9, it is announced. It will be conducted by F. C. Old, formerly in charge of the poultry department at the Louisiana state university and who is considered one of the foremost poultry specialists in the south.

Two sessions will be held daily, one from 1:30 to 3 p.m., and the other from 7:30 p.m. to 9 p.m.

It is pointed out by the sponsors, Tyner-Petrus of West Monroe and the Royal Feed and Seed store of Monroe that the chicken business is at the lowest ebb in years in Louisiana and that most of the baby chicks used in the state are shipped in from other states. This is in spite of the fact that poultry raising is very profitable when conducted along advanced lines.

The school is being held to point out why the business is not profitable here and how chicken fanciers can show a profit with their flocks.

All those interested in chicken-raising are invited to attend the school. There will be no admission charge.

New Facts Discovered About Mound Builders

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—(Special)—discovery of a definite connecting link between the earliest prehistoric occupants of Louisiana and the highly cultured Mound Builders of the upper Mississippi valley was announced today by the Smithsonian institution.

Smithsonian archeologists have unearthed near Marksville, La., relics of a prehistoric civilization which appears to have had the same origin as Mississippi Mound Builders' culture, long believed to have been unique among prehistoric tribes.

After several months of excavation and study in Louisiana, Frank M. Setzler and James A. Ford, institution archeologists, have reached the definite conclusion that an unmistakable variant of the Mound Builders' culture underlies almost all of the state.

Excavations near Marksville yielded the most significant and convincing clues, Setzler declared.

"The people who built the great burial mounds of the upper Mississippi valley left behind them traces of a distinct and highly developed culture," he explained. "It was, in fact, so distinct from that of later Indians that at one time it was commonly supposed that the Mound Builders belonged to a different race which preceded the ancestors of the red men in North America and had become extinct. This fallacy has long since been exploded. The Mound Builders were true Indians; this has been proved. But the establishment of this fact hardly lessened the cloud of mystery in which they were enveloped. There did not seem to be any traces of them anywhere else. None of their village sites had survived."

But in the Marksville area, Setzler and Ford found striking similarities, too similar and too frequent to be the result of accidents, between the characteristic handiwork of the ancient Louisianians and that of the upper Mississippi men who were responsible for the so-called "Hopewell culture," the best known phase of that of the Mound Builders. The differences, however, were such as to indicate that neither was derived directly from the other, but that both may have come from a common source.

The material unearthed has been subjected to exhaustive study and analysis by Setzler at the institution here, while Ford has been continuing the search in Louisiana and Mississippi. First definite results have just been reported to authorities of the U. S. National Museum, of which the Smithsonian is a subsidiary.

Ford has been able to build up a tentative chronology connecting this aberrant "Mound Builder" culture with that actually found in the country when it was first settled by white men.

"On the basis of these data, Setzler pointed out, "I believe that Marksville is a type site exhibiting clearly a prehistoric basic complex underlying, thus far, all other southeastern phases. Until further work has been done in the allied regions, and especially a more intensive investigation made of the northern artifacts, the problem of its origin and exact relationship to northern cultures must remain unsolved."

CENTER OFFERS MUSIC COURSES

Local College Is In Position To Provide Worthy Service

Since the department of education has placed a new emphasis on music in the schools, Northeast Center of Louisiana State university is in a position to offer worthy service to the people of northeast Louisiana, Dean C. C. Colvert said Saturday. He added that the enrollment in the music department is almost double that of last year.

"Interest in music, both at the college and in the surrounding territory is considerably on the increase," Mr. Colvert stated.

Commenting further on the work of the college here, he said:

"Northeast Center has a complete line of musical offerings, including piano, organ, violin, reeds, brass instruments, voice and public school music. In each of these the first two years are offered, fitting students to finish with a degree in music at some other institution.

"A new member has been added to the department, Miss Charlotte Elizabeth Davis having been elected to replace Mr. Blanchard as part-time instructor of voice. Miss Davis teaches full-time and has a bachelor of music degree from Louisiana State university.

"The head of the school of music is Roger C. Frisbie, with a degree from Northwestern. Mr. Frisbie was professor of organ and theoretical music in the University of Wyoming for eighteen years. Mr. Frisbie directs the glee clubs and the choral club.

"The music department makes a comparatively small charge for all private lessons, in order to give more people an opportunity to get training in these subjects. An invitation to accept this service at low cost is extended not only to college students, but to the people of Monroe, West Monroe, and all the rest of northeast Louisiana."

Local Furniture Company Named Prize-Winner In National Sales Contest

Word has been received here by the Monroe Furniture company, Ltd., that that company has been named as first prize winner in a nation-wide radio sales contest conducted by Stewart-Warner corporation of Chicago, Joe Isaacman, president, said Saturday.

The contest, which was begun in August and ended recently, was held among Stewart-Warner distributors in San Antonio, Houston, Abilene, Little Rock, Memphis, Amarillo, New Orleans and Monroe. The prize went to the firm which sold the largest percentage of sets and established the largest percentage of radio dealers.

The first prize check of $350, accompanied by a letter of congratulations from the Stewart-Warner factory, was received by Monroe Furniture company Saturday. According to Mr. Isaacman, the money will be distributed among the wholesale sales personnel who "put over" the contest.

Monroe Furniture company, a new distributor for Stewart-Warner radio, was given the line after an extremely successful year as distributor for the new Stewart-Warner electric refrigerator, during which the local organization led the entire United States in sales according to quota.

"We are unusually proud to have achieved this success," Mr. Isaacman stated, "and we are happy to be able to offer the people of this section such products as the Stewart-Warner refrigerator and the 'Magic Dial' radio."

AT THE CAPITOL TODAY

AT LOCAL THEATERS

All the glory that was Egypt, all the grandeur that was Rome is shown here in a screen masterpiece, bringing to the motion picture once again all the talent of the master of spectacle.

War chariots thunder across the sands, spears glisten in the thrill of battles, dancing girls swing and swirl through grand marble halls and back of it all, in clear tones, rings the world's greatest love story that has lived throughout the ages.

With Claudette Colbert, Warren William and Henry Wilcoxon in the principal roles, the film boasts of a grand array of star talent, a veritable army of extras (more than 5,000 men women and children took part) and a supporting cast that includes Ian Keith, Joseph Schildkraut, C. Aubrey Smith, Gertrude Michael, Irving Pichel, William Farnum, Robert Warwick, Jack Mulhall, Edwin Maxwell and Harry Beresford.

The film story starts with the ambitious ruler of Egypt using the mighty Caesar as a foil against her brother and co-ruler. From Caesar, after he has been killed, Cleapatra drifts from lover to lover until Marc Antony, noble Roman soldier, falls in love with her.

And it is this love, which has echoed down through countless pages of history and fiction that takes up the greater portion of the film. In fast-moving scenes of beauty, color and spectacle this deathless love portrayed.

The manner in which the two lovers finally defy the entire world, and find perfect peace and happiness brings the film to a most sensational finale.

Highest acting honors go to Claudette Colbert, with Henry Wilcoxon and Warren William running her a close second. Good portraits are created by Ian Keith, C. Aubrey Smith and Gertrude Michael.

It might be pointed out here that DeMille has completely modernized his story and his people without losing any of the glamorous backgrounds.

AT THE CAPITOL—That fascinating Alice Faye is singing her way through "She Learned About Sailors" at the Capitol theater, with handsome Lew Ayres as the principal object of her affections. Lew's shipmates are Mitchell and Durant, the happy team of vaudeville headliners who portrayed the senators in "Stand Up and Cheer" And just for good measure, the inimitable Harry Green appears as a South American impresario.

There you have the ingredients for a most entertaining comedy. The story deals chiefly with the romance between Alice and Lew, complicated by the well-intentioned but bungling interference of Lew's buddies. The action starts in an Asiatic port, with its colorful settings. Then it jumps aboard ship to Honolulu, thence to San Pedro and finishes in an exclusive hotel in Los Angeles.

Alice Faye, the singing flame of George White's "Scandals," has another good number in this one called "Here's the Key to My Heart." And she puts it over with all the effectiveness of a great voice and an alluring personality. Of course this is just part of her charm. Her portrayal of the lass who loved a sailor puts her in the running for dramatic honors, too.

Lew Ayres is delightful as the ambitious sailor lad who wants to get out of the navy so he can earn enough to support the lovely Alice. Mitchell and Durant have plenty of opportunity for slapstick comedy and they never miss a trick. Harry Green is better than ever.

DIXIE THEATER—Today's program at the Dixie theater brings the season's greatest musical attraction "Flying Down to Rio" together with Our Gang kids in "Hi Neighbor" and chapter two of the thrilling serial photoplay "Hurricane Express." Tomorrow the screen attraction will be Zane Grey's "To the Last Man" and Cab Calloway in a featured short subject. On the stage Monday night and every Monday at 8:30 Country Store at which time various articles of merchandise contributed by your local merchants are given away. The Dixie is Monroe's only exclusive colored theater and is fast gaining popularity in the east end presenting the latest and best photoplays with Western Electric sound the same as is use in the better theaters in the larger cities.

Poultry School To Be Held This Week

A poultry school, open to the general public, will be held at the city hall in Monroe on November 7, 8 and 9, it is announced. It will be conducted by F. C. Old, formerly in charge of the poultry department at the Louisiana state university and who is considered one of the foremost poultry specialists in the south.

Two sessions will be held daily, one from 1:30 to 3 p.m., and the other from 7:30 p.m. to 9 p.m.

It is pointed out by the sponsors, Tyner-Petrus of West Monroe and the Royal Feed and Seed store of Monroe that the chicken business is at the lowest ebb in years in Louisiana and that most of the baby chicks used in the state are shipped in from other states. This is in spite of the fact that poultry raising is very profitable when conducted along advanced lines.

The school is being held to point out why the business is not profitable here and how chicken fanciers can show a profit with their flocks.

All those interested in chicken-raising are invited to attend the school. There will be no admission charge.

CITIZENS ANALYZE LAW AMENDMENTS

ment on state, parish and special taxes.' This amendment appears to have such a mixture of possible results that it might easily hurt those it is expected to help.

"This committee feels that taxes should ever be the government's share of what the country earns and that share should always be whatever is needed to pay legitimate costs of providing peace, order, health, happiness and education for its citizens. Small homes produce no earnings, hence they cannot have any increased wealth to divide with the state. Therefore, it appears right and proper that they should not be taxed. We recommend, however, that this proposed amendment in its present form be repected and that the citizens insist that the legislators of this state at the next regular session shall provide for such tax exemption on small homes, in some straightforward form without a lot of strings tied to it.

"No. 3, 'Reduction of licenses on cars of 22 horse power or less from $15 to $7.50; reduction on licenses for cars of 23 to 30 horsepower from 68 cents to 48 cents per horsepower,' etc. Takes away from the city of New Orleans $700,000 per year that is now being allowed out of licenses paid by cars and trucks in the city for the upkeep of highways and streets in the city.

"The objection to this amendment is that it covers two separate and distinct matters so mixed together that neither the city of New Orleans nor the rest of the state can, by the passing of this amendment, secure what rightly belongs to its citizens, without taking away the rights of the citizens of the other.

"Apparently putting our license reduction into a proposed amendment with the cancellation of the New Orleans $700,000 highway and street fund is a dishonest political trick to make the citizens of the rest of the state punish the city of New Orleans for not supporting the ruling political faction. It is wholly unfair to expect us to get our own rights only by taking away the rights of other citizens. New Orleans has 61,000 automobiles and 12,000 trucks on which the citizens there pay a yearly license of approximately $1,452,000 and from which the state collects a yearly gasoline tax of approximately $1,800,000 and a property tax of an unknown amount, but perhaps about $4 each making $232,000. These three taxes yield a total of $3,484,000. Many of these cars and trucks never get outside of the city and all of them spend an estimated average of 80 per cent of their mileage within the city. It seems right that New Orleans should have the $700,000 they have been accustomed to receive for their streets, as this is only about one-fifth of the taxes their cars and trucks yield.

"This committee knows how anxious each citizen is to have his license reduced, but feels that the sacrifice of honor and the betrayal of decent democratic principles of government which would be involved in the passing of this amendment would be too high a price to pay. We recommend therefore that this amendment be rejected and that the citizens of the entire state demand that the next legislature submit a separate amendment reducing licenses, and if any faction wants to have New Orleans' highway and street fund taken away, that an amendment be submitted so the people can vote on that question alone without having to be punished if they do not see fit to vote as the ruling political faction wants them to vote.

No. 4, "Exempting from state, parish and special taxes all motor vehicles used on public highways."

There appears to be no objection to this proposal except that it would not relieve the burden of the taxpayer, for the taxes omitted in this manner will have to be collected from other sources, which will add to the cost of necessities or take from the value of farm supplies or reduce wages; and otherwise spread their burden, as all taxes do, more or less uniformally over all the people. Also it will not eliminate the assessment of automobies on tax rolls because municipal and district taxes will still be levied against them.

"No. 5, 'Authorizing net income taxes with reasonable exemptions.' The committee would be disposed to recommend the passing of an income tax if the state were not already overburdened with taxes, but feels that no taxes should be added unless others are taken off at the same time. It cannot be hoped that if this tax is added that others will be reduced, for experience during recent years shows no disposition of government officials to economize.

"Nos. 6 and 7, 'Relating to the distribution and management of funds raised for school purposes.'

"These two amendments regarding schools and school funds are related and subject to the same comments. The impotrant feature of these proposals is that they would take the management of school affairs largely out of the hands of parish and local school boards and place it in hands of the state board. They would also take the collection of taxes out of hands of parish tax collectors and place it in the hands of the state supervisor of public accounts. A question of self-government is involved. If citizens feel that they can handle their own school affairs better than a board in a far-away city can handle them for them, then they should reject these two amendments. If they feel that their best interests will be served by state control of these affairs, then they should vote for these two amendments. Apparently a few of the poorer parishes would be benefitted but the great majority perhaps would not.

"No. 11, 'Allowing sale of Confederate bonds at 95 per cent instead of par.' The committee questions the wisdom of this amendment inasmuch as it vitiates the rule that all state bonds must be sold at par. It would be an invitation also to bankers and bond buyers to force prices below par before they could buy our bonds. . . . The administration should proceed to sell the bonds at par and pay the old veterans and widows the $60 per month which the constitution now says they shall receive.

"No. 12, 'On property located in limits of one or more taxing districts, allowing improvement taxes to be levied up to five mills in excess of other limitations fixed by the constitution for any one purpose and not more than 25 mills for all purposes. Also provides 8-mill maximum school tax.' There appears to be no objection to providing for a high maximum rate, provided the state does not tax us to the limit except in grave emergencies.

"No. 13, 'Authorizing parishes, cities and districts to refund all outstanding bonds by issuing new bonds for amount of old bonds, plus interest.'

"Arguments may be presented both for and against this proposal. Obviously, if the taxing subdivision does not have the money with which to retire maturing bonds, it must be given authority to satisfy the bondholders in some manner. However, since bonds are actually a form of mortgages against property or income from taxes it is usually regarded as the right of the owners of the taxable property to say whether bonds shall be issued. It might be regarded as a dangerous practice to allow authorities to issue bonds without first having the consent of the taxpayers."

The committee offers the following general comment on all the amendments:

"There seems to be little benefit to be gained for anyone by these amendments and much danger of tearing down much that is good and substantial in our established constitution. These amendments appear to have the same general direction that nearly all of our legislation has taken in the past few years. That is they propose to remove small taxes in several places and add much greater taxes in a few other places. The result has been to constantly increase the tax load.

"We are being told that it doesn't matter because it is the big corporations that are having to pay it. This is not true. Every additional assessment on industry is just another item added to the cost of doing business and must be added to what the business has to sell to all of us or taken off the prices it pays us for raw material, or made up by reducing salaries and wages. So when you sell your timber or your cotton or your livestock or when you buy clothes or food or gas you pay something on these taxes.

"No industries can be persuaded to come to our state when such tax loads are waiting for them here, and many industries already here will likely leave as fast as they can make arrangements elsewhere. Thus more and more of the burden will have to be carried by taxing property. Land values here are very low because investors don't want lands that may have to carry such a burden. Everyone feels the weight of such debts. None can escape it.

"This committee urges every voter to discourage taxation and waste by every method at his command, not only for his own present welfare but because he owes it to his children and to his grandchildren who will likely still be burdened by part of the great debts we are sure to leave them.

"These amendments are largely aimed at increasing taxation. Although they may be intended to reduce it in some forms, it is doubtful that they will in any form. In any event, each voter should study the situation very carefully before casting his vote."

INDUSTRIAL--REVIEW OF THE TWIN CITIES

EIGHT-HOUR DUTY FOR NURSES URGED

Practice Wins Approval In Centers Where It Has Been Tried

At the annual meeting of the House of Delegates of the American Nurses' association on April 28, 1934, the following resolution was enacted.

"WHEREAS, the nurses of the United States have endured inordinately long hours of service, through a period of years without complaint; and

"WHEREAS, today general conditions under the National Industrial Recovery Act demand a shorter day for public servants of every kind in order to share the work available in every field of employment; and

WHEREAS, nurses have suffered in a disproportionate degree because of conditions which have tended to over-production and under-consumption of their service; and

WHEREAS, the eight-hour day has long been generally accepted as reasonable and desirable from the standpoint of health and efficiency; and

WHEREAS, such a reasonable working day may be obtained without materially increasing the cost of such service to the patients; and

WHEREAS, this would result in more days of employment even though, at a lower daily rate of remuneration and make for a more normal life through opportunities for the use of the increased leisure time thus afforded; therefore be it

RESOLVED, that the American Nurses' association go on record as approving an eight-hour day as the regular working day of the nurses."

The progress of the eight-hour duty day since the fall of 1933 has been remarkable. The plan is now in use either wholly or in part in twenty-six states and is gradually progressing so that it is felt that in the very near future a number of states will be added to this list. It is estimated that fully 25,000 nurses are working under this system at the present time. Hospitals in which the eight-hour day functions exclusively vary in size from fifty to several hundred beds.

What does the patient think of the eight-hour duty day? The patient prefers the finer quality of nursing care; the alert nurse whose efficiency is not impaired by overfatigue; a fresh nurse comes on relief at the end of each eight hour period.

The patient also appreciates this efficient service at no increase in cost. In fact it is possible to decrease the cost to the patient to some extent as the patient nears recovery. This is possible in that first one eight-hour duty nurse can be relieved and then a second nurse relieved and the third nurse retained for a day or two longer if desired.

It is frequently desirable to retain one or two nurses on the eight-hour plan certain hours of the day being adequately covered by the institutional staff.

From the standpoint of the nurse the eight-hour duty day should be very appealing for a number of reasons. First; the nurse is not overfatigued at the end of the day which is certainly a fact in a number of cases where a very sick patient is being cared for. Second; because of this shorter working day the nurse has more opportunity for advancing herself in a professional and cultural way. She has opportunities to participate in community affairs which she would not have if nursing the full twelve-hour day.

One of the main arguments advanced by the nurses themselves for not advocating the eight hours is that their income is not as great as it would be under the twelve-hour day plan.

This argument is not in reality true, since it has been definitely shown that there is an increased number of calls for the nurses and if the eight-hour day budget was balanced over a period of a year against the twelve-hour day budget we feel that there would be no material difference in the nurse's income.

It has been definitely shown by the statistical reports from a number of the nurses' registries throughout the states using the eight-hour day that there has been an increase in calls for employment averaging thirty per cent.

The eight-hour day for private duty nurses is being sponsored locally by the Monroe District Nurses' association and while it is not being used one hundred per cent at the present time, there has been a steady increase in its use and we believe that with the progress thus far shown, that it will eventually become more popular and gradually be the major plan in vogue.

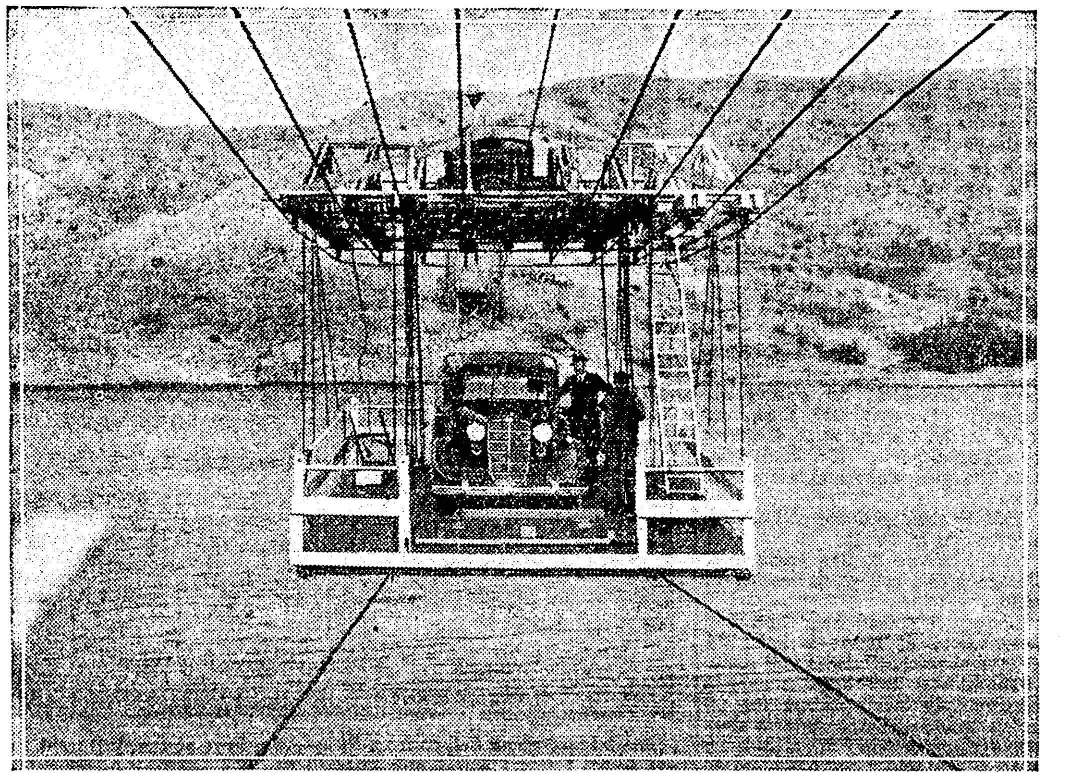
Latest Type Ferry Crosses Colorado River



Modern engineering uses steel cables where safety counts as evidenced by this picture of a "Sky Ride" for automobiles across the Colorado River near Searchlight, Nevada. Because tests prove them many times stronger than rods of equal diameter, steel cables are also used to actuate the brakes on all Nash cars. Interesting is the statement by factory engineers that the Nash in the picture could be safely suspended by one of the cables used in its braking system.

GREAT FURNITURE SALE HELD HERE

Monroe Hardware Co., Celebrates Anniversary With Values

Celebrating its 45th anniversary the Monroe Hardware company, St. John at Harrison street, is staging a storewide sale of latest styles in fall and winter furniture and house furnishings.

In addition to some of the greatest values in furniture, many inducements for the benefit of patrons are being offered, such as free taxi service in Monroe to the store, free deliveries anywhere during the sale, trade-in in homestead and building and loan stock at practically par value and an allowance of two cents per pound higher than market value of cotton. During this sale there are awards of $1,000 every year to the winner during his life or $10,000 in a lump sum or a Ford automobile and $500 in cash prizes. For details, Walter Zehner, manager of the furniture department, advises prospective participants to call at the store.

Talking of the 45th anniversary sale, Mr. Zehner said: "This is the greatest anniversary sale in the history of the store. If you like style, want quality and appreciate the greatest bargains ever offered, don't fail to attend this great event. ## LENZ AWARDED WHITING MEDAL

Chevrolet Official Wins Honor At Philadelphia Congress

Arnold Lenz, assistant manufacturing manager of the Chevrolet Motor company, was awarded the John Hill Whiting gold medal for notable contributions to the foundry industry at the recent annual meeting of the American Foundrymen's association and the Fifth International Foundry congress, in Philadelphia.

This latest honor to Mr. Lenz for noteworthy foundry developments, and especially for improvements in quantity production methods of automotive castings, follows only one year after his being awarded the honorary degree of Doctor of Engineering by the University of Aachen, Germany, for his achievements.

Mr. Lenz, who was born in Germany in 1888, was apprenticed at the age of 14 to a German foundry at Haagen. Since 1906 when he came to the United States, he has worked as molder, coremaker, melter, foreman, superintendent and manager in the foundry industry. It was under his direction that the Chevrolet gray iron foundry at Saginaw attained its position of leadership in the automotive industry, with a daily capacity of more than 2,000 tons.

In formally presenting the medal, Thomas S. Hammond, chairman of the A. F. A. board of awards, paid special tribute to Mr. Lenz for his leadership and ability "in the most difficult problem of management, that of handling the human element in the industry."

"In these days," said Mr. Hammond, "when we hear so much about doing away with rugged individuals and rugged individualism, it is a pleasure to pay our respects to a man who has made his way to the top in an industry which, from necessity, has developed many rugged individuals. It is a privilege to present the John Hill Whiting medal to a rugged individual of the type that has made industry in this country great."

Exports of men's shoes from the United States during the first seven months of the year were greater in volume than during any similar period since 1931.

NEW COLOR FOR OLD AUTOMOBILES

C. V. Ludlum, Duco Expert, Discusses Modern Trend Of Painting

It is fortunate that, with so many old cars on the roads as there are this year, the whole matter of refinishing has now undergone a tremendous change, according to C. V. Ludlum, Duco expert, at 310 North Third street. Back in the days when many automobiles were still painted, it was a major matter to renew the apparent age of a car by the use of a Duco finish. First, the old paint had to be scraped off, and then, after a clean surface was secured, the modern lacquer could be used. Those days, happily, are gone. Practically all cars, nowadays, are finished in Duco and the imposing of a new Duco finish is a more economical job. It ought to cost less than a man pays for a new suit of clothes for a small car and not over twice as much for the big fellows.

This puts the matter of refinishing on a new basis. It has become something that more people than ever are going to undertake this year, particularly as it is also now possible to get just the exact shade of color desired, provided that shade is durable. In other words, at last a complete range of colors is to be had.

This year the tendency, following the idea of simplicity, is to minimize or eliminate mouldings, to use a single all-over color, to have the radiator shell, cowl band and head lamps finished with Duco instead of using so much glittering material. For example, a purple blue car may be embellished, not only with its complementary hue, yellow, but also with yellow red, yellow red yellow, yellow green yellow, and green yellow, besides the durable hues from neighboring colors.

The use of a single all-over color and the increased tendency to make the embellishments as simple as possible, is likely to put cars on the road this season with a new distinction as to color and more appealing to the eye than ever before. The new color trend has been apparent in various automobile shows throughout the country, the New York show, earlier in the year, having not less than forty cars by many representative manufacturers finished after the new manner.

CITIZENS ANALYZE LAW AMENDMENTS

ment on state, parish and special taxes.' This amendment appears to have such a mixture of possible results that it might easily hurt those it is expected to help.

"This committee feels that taxes should ever be the government's share of what the country earns and that share should always be whatever is needed to pay legitimate costs of providing peace, order, health, happiness and education for its citizens. Small homes produce no earnings, hence they cannot have any increased wealth to divide with the state. Therefore, it appears right and proper that they should not be taxed. We recommend, however, that this proposed amendment in its present form be repected and that the citizens insist that the legislators of this state at the next regular session shall provide for such tax exemption on small homes, in some straightforward form without a lot of strings tied to it.

"No. 3, 'Reduction of licenses on cars of 22 horse power or less from $15 to $7.50; reduction on licenses for cars of 23 to 30 horsepower from 68 cents to 48 cents per horsepower,' etc. Takes away from the city of New Orleans $700,000 per year that is now being allowed out of licenses paid by cars and trucks in the city for the upkeep of highways and streets in the city.

"The objection to this amendment is that it covers two separate and distinct matters so mixed together that neither the city of New Orleans nor the rest of the state can, by the passing of this amendment, secure what rightly belongs to its citizens, without taking away the rights of the citizens of the other.

"Apparently putting our license reduction into a proposed amendment with the cancellation of the New Orleans $700,000 highway and street fund is a dishonest political trick to make the citizens of the rest of the state punish the city of New Orleans for not supporting the ruling political faction. It is wholly unfair to expect us to get our own rights only by taking away the rights of other citizens. New Orleans has 61,000 automobiles and 12,000 trucks on which the citizens there pay a yearly license of approximately $1,452,000 and from which the state collects a yearly gasoline tax of approximately $1,800,000 and a property tax of an unknown amount, but perhaps about $4 each making $232,000. These three taxes yield a total of $3,484,000. Many of these cars and trucks never get outside of the city and all of them spend an estimated average of 80 per cent of their mileage within the city. It seems right that New Orleans should have the $700,000 they have been accustomed to receive for their streets, as this is only about one-fifth of the taxes their cars and trucks yield.

"This committee knows how anxious each citizen is to have his license reduced, but feels that the sacrifice of honor and the betrayal of decent democratic principles of government which would be involved in the passing of this amendment would be too high a price to pay. We recommend therefore that this amendment be rejected and that the citizens of the entire state demand that the next legislature submit a separate amendment reducing licenses, and if any faction wants to have New Orleans' highway and street fund taken away, that an amendment be submitted so the people can vote on that question alone without having to be punished if they do not see fit to vote as the ruling political faction wants them to vote.

No. 4, "Exempting from state, parish and special taxes all motor vehicles used on public highways."

There appears to be no objection to this proposal except that it would not relieve the burden of the taxpayer, for the taxes omitted in this manner will have to be collected from other sources, which will add to the cost of necessities or take from the value of farm supplies or reduce wages; and otherwise spread their burden, as all taxes do, more or less uniformally over all the people. Also it will not eliminate the assessment of automobies on tax rolls because municipal and district taxes will still be levied against them.

"No. 5, 'Authorizing net income taxes with reasonable exemptions.' The committee would be disposed to recommend the passing of an income tax if the state were not already overburdened with taxes, but feels that no taxes should be added unless others are taken off at the same time. It cannot be hoped that if this tax is added that others will be reduced, for experience during recent years shows no disposition of government officials to economize.

"Nos. 6 and 7, 'Relating to the distribution and management of funds raised for school purposes.'

"These two amendments regarding schools and school funds are related and subject to the same comments. The impotrant feature of these proposals is that they would take the management of school affairs largely out of the hands of parish and local school boards and place it in hands of the state board. They would also take the collection of taxes out of hands of parish tax collectors and place it in the hands of the state supervisor of public accounts. A question of self-government is involved. Apparently a few of the poorer parishes would be benefitted but the great majority perhaps would not.

"No. 11, 'Allowing sale of Confederate bonds at 95 per cent instead of par.' The committee questions the wisdom of this amendment inasmuch as it vitiates the rule that all state bonds must be sold at par. It would be an invitation also to bankers and bond buyers to force prices below par before they could buy our bonds. . . . The administration should proceed to sell the bonds at par and pay the old veterans and widows the $60 per month which the constitution now says they shall receive.

"No. 12, 'On property located in limits of one or more taxing districts, allowing improvement taxes to be levied up to five mills in excess of other limitations fixed by the constitution for any one purpose and not more than 25 mills for all purposes. Also provides 8-mill maximum school tax.' There appears to be no objection to providing for a high maximum rate, provided the state does not tax us to the limit except in grave emergencies.

"No. 13, 'Authorizing parishes, cities and districts to refund all outstanding bonds by issuing new bonds for amount of old bonds, plus interest.'

"Arguments may be presented both for and against this proposal. However, since bonds are actually a form of mortgages against property or income from taxes it is usually regarded as the right of the owners of the taxable property to say whether bonds shall be issued. It might be regarded as a dangerous practice to allow authorities to issue bonds without first having the consent of the taxpayers."

The committee offers the following general comment on all the amendments:

"There seems to be little benefit to be gained for anyone by these amendments and much danger of tearing down much that is good and substantial in our established constitution. These amendments appear to have the same general direction that nearly all of our legislation has taken in the past few years. That is they propose to remove small taxes in several places and add much greater taxes in a few other places. The result has been to constantly increase the tax load.

WHEREAS, such a reasonable working day may be obtained without materially increasing the cost of such service to the patients; and

WHEREAS, this would result in more days of employment even though, at a lower daily rate of remuneration and make for a more normal life through opportunities for the use of the increased leisure time thus afforded; therefore be it

RESOLVED, that the American Nurses' association go on record as approving an eight-hour day as the regular working day of the nurses."

The progress of the eight-hour duty day since the fall of 1933 has been remarkable. The plan is now in use either wholly or in part in twenty-six states and is gradually progressing so that it is felt that in the very near future a number of states will be added to this list. It is estimated that fully 25,000 nurses are working under this system at the present time. Hospitals in which the eight-hour day functions exclusively vary in size from fifty to several hundred beds.

What does the patient think of the eight-hour duty day? The patient prefers the finer quality of nursing care; the alert nurse whose efficiency is not impaired by overfatigue; a fresh nurse comes on relief at the end of each eight hour period.

The patient also appreciates this efficient service at no increase in cost. In fact it is possible to decrease the cost to the patient to some extent as the patient nears recovery. This is possible in that first one eight-hour duty nurse can be relieved and then a second nurse relieved and the third nurse retained for a day or two longer if desired.

It is frequently desirable to retain one or two nurses on the eight-hour plan certain hours of the day being adequately covered by the institutional staff.

From the standpoint of the nurse the eight-hour duty day should be very appealing for a number of reasons. First; the nurse is not overfatigued at the end of the day which is certainly a fact in a number of cases where a very sick patient is being cared for. Second; because of this shorter working day the nurse has more opportunity for advancing herself in a professional and cultural way. She has opportunities to participate in community affairs which she would not have if nursing the full twelve-hour day.

One of the main arguments advanced by the nurses themselves for not advocating the eight hours is that their income is not as great as it would be under the twelve-hour day plan.

This argument is not in reality true, since it has been definitely shown that there is an increased number of calls for the nurses and if the eight-hour day budget was balanced over a period of a year against the twelve-hour day budget we feel that there would be no material difference in the nurse's income.

It has been definitely shown by the statistical reports from a number of the nurses' registries throughout the states using the eight-hour day that there has been an increase in calls for employment averaging thirty per cent.

The eight-hour day for private duty nurses is being sponsored locally by the Monroe District Nurses' association and while it is not being used one hundred per cent at the present time, there has been a steady increase in its use and we believe that with the progress thus far shown, that it will eventually become more popular and gradually be the major plan in vogue.

Latest Type Ferry Crosses Colorado River

Modern engineering uses steel cables where safety counts as evidenced by this picture of a "Sky Ride" for automobiles across the Colorado River near Searchlight, Nevada. Because tests prove them many times stronger than rods of equal diameter, steel cables are also used to actuate the brakes on all Nash cars. Interesting is the statement by factory engineers that the Nash in the picture could be safely suspended by one of the cables used in its braking system.

LENZ AWARDED WHITING MEDAL

Chevrolet Official Wins Honor At Philadelphia Congress

Arnold Lenz, assistant manufacturing manager of the Chevrolet Motor company, was awarded the John Hill Whiting gold medal for notable contributions to the foundry industry at the recent annual meeting of the American Foundrymen's association and the Fifth International Foundry congress, in Philadelphia.

This latest honor to Mr. Lenz for noteworthy foundry developments, and especially for improvements in quantity production methods of automotive castings, follows only one year after his being awarded the honorary degree of Doctor of Engineering by the University of Aachen, Germany, for his achievements.

Mr. Lenz, who was born in Germany in 1888, was apprenticed at the age of 14 to a German foundry at Haagen. Since 1906 when he came to the United States, he has worked as molder, coremaker, melter, foreman, superintendent and manager in the foundry industry. It was under his direction that the Chevrolet gray iron foundry at Saginaw attained its position of leadership in the automotive industry, with a daily capacity of more than 2,000 tons.

In formally presenting the medal, Thomas S. Hammond, chairman of the A. F. A. board of awards, paid special tribute to Mr. Lenz for his leadership and ability "in the most difficult problem of management, that of handling the human element in the industry."

"In these days," said Mr. Hammond, "when we hear so much about doing away with rugged individuals and rugged individualism, it is a pleasure to pay our respects to a man who has made his way to the top in an industry which, from necessity, has developed many rugged individuals. It is a privilege to present the John Hill Whiting medal to a rugged individual of the type that has made industry in this country great."

Exports of men's shoes from the United States during the first seven months of the year were greater in volume than during any similar period since 1931.

It is fortunate that, with so many old cars on the roads as there are this year, the whole matter of refinishing has now undergone a tremendous change, according to C. V. Ludlum, Duco expert, at 310 North Third street. Back in the days when many automobiles were still painted, it was a major matter to renew the apparent age of a car by the use of a Duco finish. First, the old paint had to be scraped off, and then, after a clean surface was secured, the modern lacquer could be used. Those days, happily, are gone. Practically all cars, nowadays, are finished in Duco and the imposing of a new Duco finish is a more economical job. It ought to cost less than a man pays for a new suit of clothes for a small car and not over twice as much for the big fellows.

This puts the matter of refinishing on a new basis. It has become something that more people than ever are going to undertake this year, particularly as it is also now possible to get just the exact shade of color desired, provided that shade is durable. In other words, at last a complete range of colors is to be had.

This year the tendency, following the idea of simplicity, is to minimize or eliminate mouldings, to use a single all-over color, to have the radiator shell, cowl band and head lamps finished with Duco instead of using so much glittering material. For example, a purple blue car may be embellished, not only with its complementary hue, yellow, but also with yellow red, yellow red yellow, yellow green yellow, and green yellow, besides the durable hues from neighboring colors.

The use of a single all-over color and the increased tendency to make the embellishments as simple as possible, is likely to put cars on the road this season with a new distinction as to color and more appealing to the eye than ever before. The new color trend has been apparent in various automobile shows throughout the country, the New York show, earlier in the year, having not less than forty cars by many representative manufacturers finished after the new manner.

BY EVE BRADFORD

Rosella Louise Milton was a charming little visitor in the city in the home of her grandmother, Mrs. D. M. Pritchard, last week. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Milton of Los Angeles and was accompanied by them to Monroe. Mrs. Pritchard makes her home with Mrs. J. L. Nelson on Jackson street. (Right.)

Mrs. A. W. Pierce and splendid young son Alexander are making an extended visit in the home of Mrs. Pierce's aunt, Mrs. Frederick Millsaps. Mrs. Pierce has acquired many friends since her arrival in the city and is being included in the social activities of the younger set. (Lower.) Portraits by Downing studio.

GOOD MORNING! Another Sabbath and we look back retrospectively to a week brimming with pleasantries. . . . The sands of time ran golden last week so filled were the days with happy events. . . . We wished it were possible to conspire with fate and hold time firmly in our grasp. . . . The days hasten on, however, to the year's end and, like bits of flotsam on the beach, we are caught up and tossed along with the tide, quite incapable of prolonging the happy hours that never come again. . . . The past week ushered in the first November days when thoughts take a charitable turn. . . . It also brought new friends and contact with beloved old friends at several delightful social affairs. . . . Walking over the golf links at Lakeside on these sunny autumn days is always a wonderful experience. . . . Nature's peace flows into you as sunshine flows into trees—here, too, cares drop away from you like the leaves of autumn . . . other events that made the week so thoroughly enjoyable were bridge affairs, the opportunity of mingling with happy children at Hallowe'en fetes and meeting acquaintances over the coffee cups in various homes. . . . Katie Pegram and Mable Horuff were responsible for a portion of last week's pleasures . . . they were inspired by the presence of an exceedingly lovely person, Mrs. Laurence McAtee, to gather the clan together for contract in the hospitable home of the Horuff's. . . . A priceless moment, during a pause in the bridge games was the appearance of the Horuff's granddaughter, Margaret Dell Anders, dressed in best bib and tucker and looking on starry-eyed from the safe haven of her grandmother's arms . . . the exclamations of delight that rose like a grand Amen from the lips of every one present was quite enough to bewilder a three months old infant . . . but not so Margaret Dell—evidently she has inherited Mabel's love of people. . . . Another priceless moment occurred when "Winkie" Ashcraft calling for her mother, Viola Washburn, who was attending a bridge affair, ran inside to let the hostess get a peek at her wonderful son. . . . "Winkie" with shining eyes listened to the words of admiration from the remaining guests, all of whom had to hold for a brief moment, the little bundle of blankets and embroidered linens, to say nothing of the precious cargo inside. . . . We are reminded of another splendid child, Peyton Parker, Jr., who thought enough of his friends to share his Shetland pony with them when they came to help him celebrate his birthday anniversary. . . . Watching these happy youngsters at play we marveled at the eagerness and the freshness of youth . . . how cheap their pleasures and ready their enthusiasms . . . when youth goes, so much goes with it. . . . Jennie Mitchell home from Miami, Fla., with glowing tales of the American Legion auxiliary convention . . . thousands of women dining in the patios with the moon peeping over the high walls covered with brilliant hibiscus blossoms . . . every meal was enjoyed out-of-doors with the temperature remaining at eighty degrees . . . she brought home souvenirs of orange blossom perfume with miniature corsages of waxen orange blossoms . . . one is quite overwhelmed, she said, by the opulence and color of the tropical flowers and tangle of vines (we did not catch the botanical name) . . . the hotel at Coral Gables, headquarters for the convention, is set in glorious gardens . . . all the meetings were held out-of-doors on a mammoth platform built over the water's edge. . . . Lida Oliver home from New York with a new bob . . . she went the way of all flesh and finally succumbed to the advice of a hair stylist who informed her that there was no place in the world for a woman with long hair. . . . We noticed Mrs. McAtee's becoming coiffure and remarked about the close cut bob . . . her hair of unusual luxuriance and naturally wavy is cut close to the head in the back. . . . Her sister, Edith Meyer, had her beautiful hair styled in Chicago during the summer and of course the bob is cut close with the front hair in loose, becoming waves. . . . Saw Katie Pegram in one of those popular knitted suits the other day . . . it was of the most divine shade of green and with it she wore a smart felt hat of the same shade. . . . Minta Vaughan was wearing at a social function the other day a black crepe frock of monastic trend . . . the cowl neckline and yoke was of black sequins, also the deep cuffs . . . a black off-the-face felt hat with wide flaring veil completed a most distinctive toilette. . . . Patty Miller is looking unusually well this winter in the shade of brown that was especially created for blondes. . . . Lucille Mangham, next week's bride, appeared at a supper party at the Lotus club in one of her enchanting trousseau frocks . . . the skirt of black velvet was long and clinging and the blouse was fashioned of white lame—with it she wore one of those adorable little jackets of gold cloth. . . . Saw Elizabeth Biedenharn browsing among the shimmering frocks in a shop the other day and wondered if a trousseau was in the making . . . time will tell. . . . The James Noes, with their gift o vision, purchased the Zeigan garage when the house was torn down to make room for the levee. . . . it now stands in the back yard and is being transformed into a "gym" for their young son and heir, to say nothing of the neighbors' children who are also casting eyes in that direction. . . . Saw Mrs. Courtney Oliver following her young son into a barber shop the other day . . . we say following, because in times past it was the harassed mother who led the way, dragging little junior along with promises and threats in a vain attempt to make the pride and joy behave himself. . . . Recognizing his fate in the young five-year-old bundle of kicks and screams, the barber assumed an attitude of weary resignation . . . from the corner he obtained a wide board which he fondly caressed with a malevolent gleam of the eye . . . he always thought better of it, however, and placed it across the arms of the chair. . . . The task of getting Junior anchored in the chair finally accomplished with the aid of mother and an accommodating customer who was generally rewarded for his solicitious overture with viciously administered kicks in the shins, the barber approached his re-

Claiming prominence on last week's social calendar was the beautifully planned bridge affair at the hospitable home of Mrs. Albert Horuff, who with Mrs. E. S. Pegram, entertained complimentary to Mrs. Laurence McAtee, a charming and much-feted guest in the city. Mrs. McAtee, wearing a lovely liberty blue chiffon model with grey fox scarf and flattering hat of blue stood in the midst of friends who manifested their pleasure in having her as a guest in the city. Mrs. W. K. Anders, Jr., stood at the door and presented the score cards to the arriving guests.

The bridge tables were grouped in the flower banked reception suite, library and dining room for the interesting games of contract. Handsome gifts, etched crystal urns and vases, were presented for high score, grand slam and consolation to Mrs. Bert Williams, Mrs. Walter Meyer and Mrs. A. V. Miller. For remembrance, Mrs. McAtee received from her hostesses an ornamental flask of French perfume.

Miss Courson Is Lovely Bride Of James Wyche

A wedding of exceeding interest and one that came as a surprise to their many friends was that of Miss Mildred Courson, lovely daughter of Mrs. M. Courson, and James E. Wyche, Jr., son of Mrs. J. E. Wyche of Haughton, La. The ceremony was performed at the West Monroe Methodist parsonage Sunday, October the twenty-eighth at four o'clock in the afternoon with Reverend Martin Hebert officiating.

The bride was unusually lovely in a smart tailleur with exquisite corsage of bride's roses and valley lilies.

Following a short honeymoon, Mr. and Mrs. Wyche will be at home to their friends in Minden, La., where Mr. Wyche is in the employ of the United States government.

Miss Lucille Mangham And Mr. James Trousdale Guests Of Honor At Dinner Party

Beautiful white blossoms of bridal significance formed the artistic floral plaque, centering the beautifully appointed white damask covered dinner table at the Lotus club complimentary to Miss Lucille Mangham and Mr. James Trousdale, whose marriage on the seventh of month will be an event of great social prominence. Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Allen and Mr. James M. Cobb were hosts on this occasion.

Tall white tapers in silver candlesticks encircling the centerpiece of white chrysanthemums, cast a mellow glow up and down the table, where beautiful place cards, suggestive of the approaching nuptial event, marked covers for twenty guests. Miss Mangham's beauty was enhanced on this occasion by a stunning black and white model. The skirt, fashioned along straight, slender lines, was of black velvet and the blouse was fashioned of white and lame. A short gold lame jacket was also worn. During the evening the hosts presented Miss Mangham and Mr. Trousdale with a combination mahogany end table and book rack.

The delectable five-course dinner was served to Miss Mangham and Mr. Trousdale, Mr. and Mrs. Horace Mangham, and Mrs. Wilma Francis

Dr. Gustaf Freden Addresses Fifth District P.-T. A. Meet Held In Ruston Saturday

"Parent's Responsibility" was the theme of an inspiring address Saturday when Dr. Gustaf Freden spoke to members of the Fifth District Parent-Teacher association, which met in Ruston.

"Every potential parent is the result of heredity and environment," stated Dr. Freden. "The only way we can improve stock is to improve heredity. Our girls and boys should all have training in parenthood. Diligent care and thought should be exercised by every individual in the selection of his or her mate. Every problem should be settled before marriage including the number of children. The biological inheritance of both sides should be carefully investigated."

Dr. Freden asserted that the first six years of a child's life are the most important of his life. "What goes into a child's mind is just as important as what goes into his body.

"We carry scars in our minds that have been received by parents, teachers and even nurse maids during our early years. Sixty per cent of the juvenile delinquency shows emotional conflicts that have started in the home."

Speaking of religious training, Dr. Freden said "Religion should be a growing concept. How can grown ups expect little minds to grasp religious concepts that even the adult mind has difficulty in conceiving? Why should we instill into the mind of little children the idea of fear and of hell?"

Dr. Freden concluded his remarks with the statement that "if the heredity of the child is good and the environment of the child is good, parents have little to fear."

Other addresses were made by Mrs. L. A. Maihles of Shreveport, state president, Mrs. E. S. Richardson of Minden, Miss Myrtle Rodgers, Mrs. Faye Walters, Mrs. Albert Smith of Winnfield and Mrs. J. E. Brooks of Shreveport.

The state's greetings were given by Mrs. Maihles who stated that the state organization has shown a gain of 4,000 members during the past year, bringing the total number of members up to 16,257.

"Every live and alert school maintains a live and active P.-T. A.," stated Mrs. Maihles, "and it is the purpose of the association to study the child in the school in a spirit of cooperation rather than to run the school."

E. S. Richardson of Minden spoke briefly on the importance of the library extension. "All persons should have library service," declared Mr. Richardson, "and a library that is vital will play an important part in the practical side of the life in the community as well as the cultural. Library service is a democratic idea and one that should be encouraged by every live organization."

Mrs. Albert Smith of Winnfield, state membership chairman, spoke on "Membership and Its Value."

She said: "Benefits derived from membership in the national organization are inspiration, volunteer service, expert advice program service and aids in study groups, as well as leaflets covering every phase of P.-T. A. work."

Miss Myrtle Rodgers, state motion picture chairman, dwelt upon the plans and outline of motion picture work as promulgated by the national motion picture committee. "Over seventy-seven million people see the movies in America every week," stated Miss Rodgers. "Motion pictures have much more influence upon the minds of children than books. The bad and pretty girl is pictured as attractive to men. . . .The modern trend of our pictures contributes to delinquency and frequently incites racial hatred."

Mrs. J. R. Rooks of Shreveport, state chairman of the summer round up, outlined in detail the importance of the summer round up, by which means physical defects in the child are remedied before he enters school.

A brief resume of the work of the publications committee was given by Mrs. Faye Walters, who is the state chairman of this committee.

Mrs. Harvey McDonald of West Monroe, fifth district chairman, presided during the meeting. Other officers of the district are Mrs. R. L. McHenry, secretary and treasurer, and Mrs. Leon Vincent, vice-chairman. Musical selections were given by Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Nelson and a reading by Mrs. James Plummer.

The next meeting of the district organization will be held in the early spring in Monroe.

Feminine Cigarette Has Brought New Gestures And New Rituals In Last Decade

Find the play or the book or the short story now written where the cigarette isn't a vital accessory to the feminine fact. Women smoking. Women laughing through the tenuous blue screen. Women's hands languidly reaching for their cigarette-cases. Women pressing out a stub, meditatively, finally, their red nails so alive against the drying ash.

In the last decade, it has reached such proportions this puffing of women—that a woman without a cigarette has a strange, unnatural repose; making other women wonder what she does with her hands.

The feminine cigarette has brought with it a host of gestures that never existed before. New rituals, new pauses have come into being. Smoking, for women is an adornment, an opiate, a defense, a weapon, a concealment, depending on her inner chemistry. She can not seem to do without it. The striking of a match has become as unconscious a feminine gesture as the raising of the hand to the hair.

Just as women are different, so is their smoking and their approach to smoking. Watch the woman with her cigarette and you will know her general quality and her specific mood. There is something in the way she holds it in her mouth, lights it, takes it in her fingers, puts it out.

Her reasons for smoking, too, are different. Sometimes the sense of companionship with men motivates her: in the mutual gesture of lighting and puffing and watching the grey spirals, there is a certain peace and contentment.

When she is nervous, she smokes to be soothed. When she is hurt, she smokes to hide imminent tears. When she is bored, she smokes to have something to do. And when she is happy, a cigarette somehow crowns her happiness. As the finale to a long walk in the rain, or a hard day's work a cigarette and a couch and an open fire can together achieve a certain ecstasy.

Some women work better, think better, enjoy better when they smoke. It stimulates them. Others having no reason, merely like the sensation of smoking, the taste of tobacco, the smell of the smoke, the feel of the white paper.

When smoking has become a vice, it is ugly. There is no beauty in the woman whose appetite for cigarettes is insatiable; whose, tense, thin hands are unhappy without the little white cylinder in them. She is more than apt to be too thin, haggard, hard-lipped, somehow desiccated. Her movements are harsh. When, by chance, her case is empty and her friends have none, a look of panic springs up in her eyes. She smokes a cigarette to the end, and no sooner have her manicured (but yellowed) finger-tips pressed out the stub than she is shaking down a fresh one on her wrist.

Judging from American advertising, next to Beauty and Cleanliness, the indispensable, supremely desirable, quality in a woman is not godliness but a passion for smoking. The great cigarette advertisers have not lost a single trick in their vast campaign to make women smoke-conscious. All the psychological wiles of the highest paid copywriters in the country have been used to convince Mrs. Smith that she's no lady, no siren, no sport if she doesn't smoke this or that brand.

The great minds of advertising have thought of almost everything. Thats' it's healthy, it's sexy, it's soothing, it's modern, it's sporty to smoke. And we hope that their next move will be to listen to that still small feminine voice that says, quite simply, "It's fun to smoke." But maybe that won't fit in with good clean American morality. You do things because they're good for you, not because they're fun.

All of which points no moral. Thousands of women smoke. Thousands of women really like it. Thousands of women benefit by it, either actually or imaginatively. The right or wrong of it takes you back to that most trustworthy of all axioms; it's not what you do so much as how you do it.

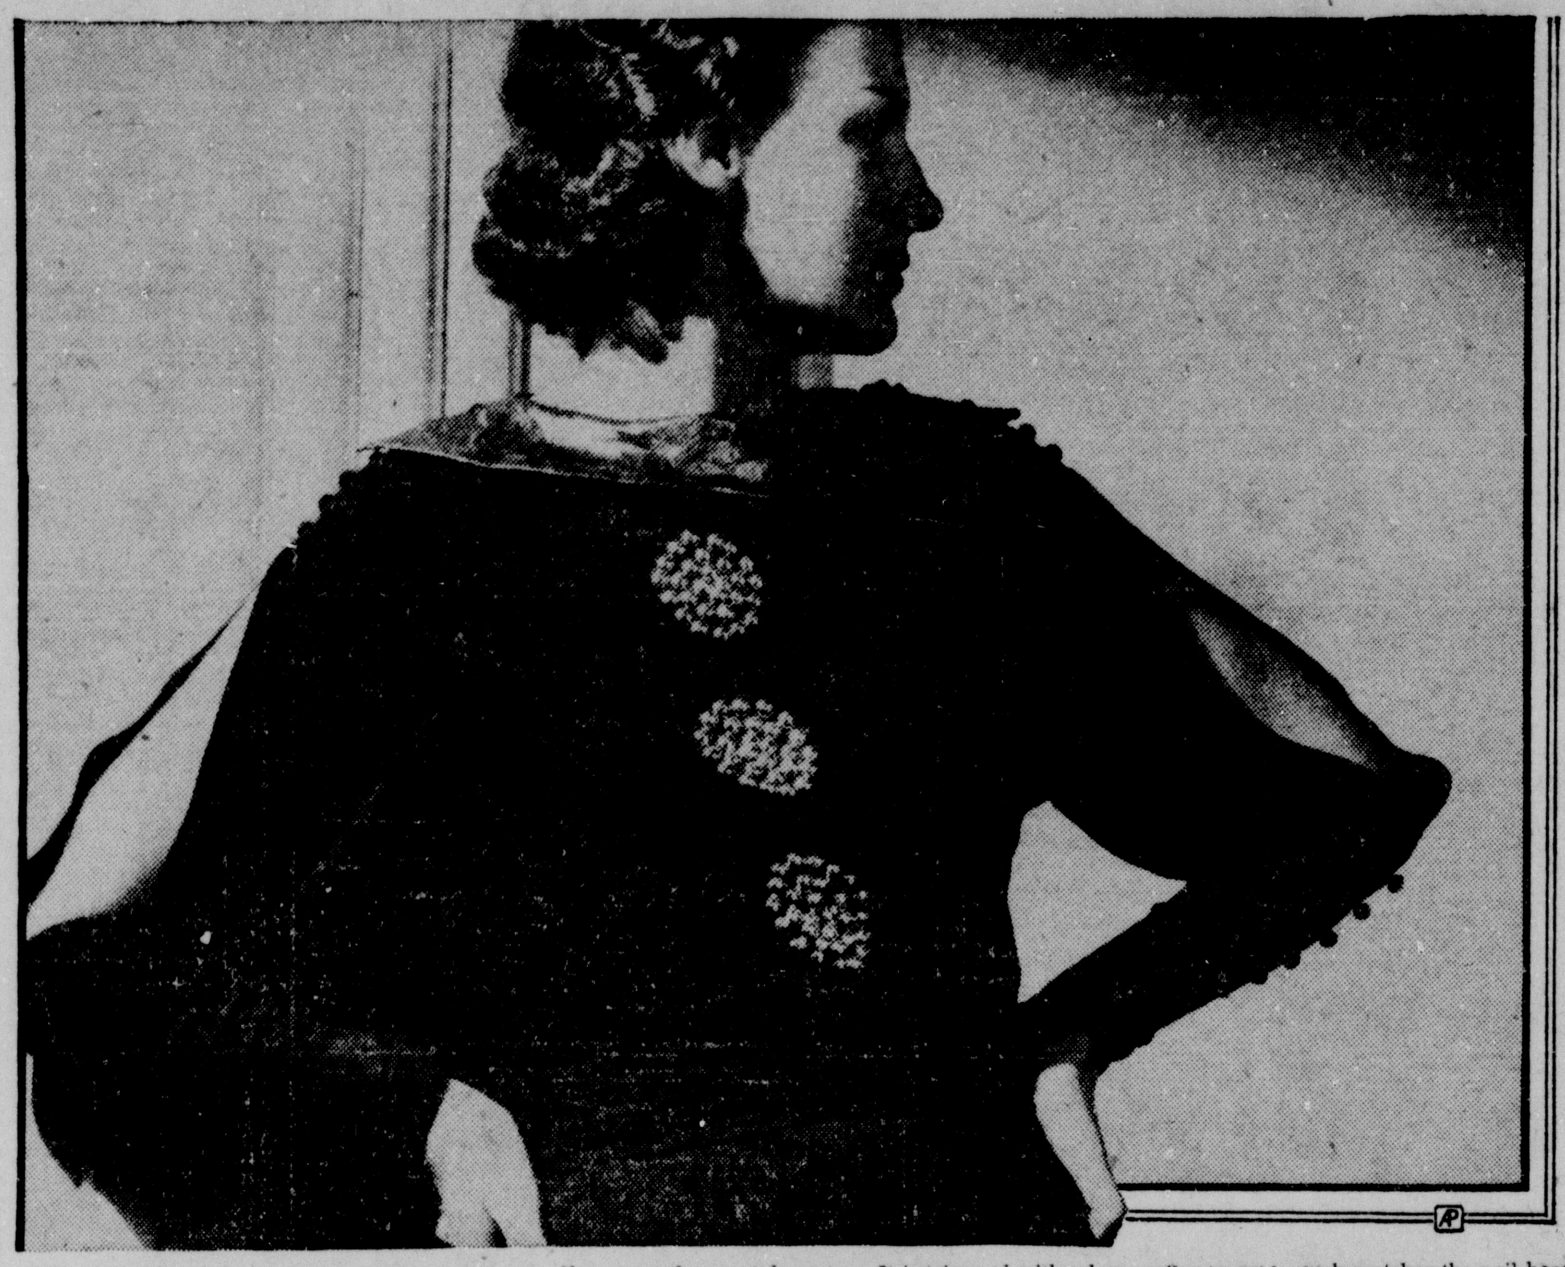
THIS DRESS OFFERS A HANDFUL OF STYLE NOTES



This dark brown dress of yarn in popcorn weave offers several new style notes. It is trimmed with a lame collar in gold which matches the nail heads on the blouse. The covered buttons start down the sleeves and are interrupted by the wide slash, continuing on the tight cuffs. The sash is wide and soft and the front broken by a flat inverted pleat.

Pioneer Citizen Observes Anniversary

Mrs. Gus Swayze gathered old friends together, Thursday afternoon in commemoration of the seventy-third birthday anniversary of her mother, Mrs. Turbiville.

Beautiful gift flowers banked the reception suite where Mrs. Swayze received her guests. Mrs. Turbiville occupied the place of honor in the midst of old friends who spent the entire afternoon in pleasant reminiscences. Pioneer days in Monroe were discussed at length and resulted in many interesting naratives. Mrs. Turbiville has the distinction of being one of the first members of the Christian church in this city and is one of the most beloved members due to her splendid Christian character.

Guests were invited to the dining room where the beautiful birthday cake with its flaming tapers was cut by the celebrant. Delicious refreshments were served at this time. One of the outstanding features of this happy day was the number of beautiful gifts bestowed upon Mrs. Turbiville.

Dr. Gustaf Freden Addresses Fifth District P.-T. A. Meet Held In Ruston Saturday

"Parent's Responsibility" was the theme of an inspiring address Saturday when Dr. Gustaf Freden spoke to members of the Fifth District Parent-Teacher association, which met in Ruston.

"Every potential parent is the result of heredity and environment," stated Dr. Freden. "The only way we can improve stock is to improve heredity. Our girls and boys should all have training in parenthood. Diligent care and thought should be exercised by every individual in the selection of his or her mate. Every problem should be settled before marriage including the number of children. The biological inheritance of both sides should be carefully investigated."

Dr. Freden asserted that the first six years of a child's life are the most important of his life. "What goes into a child's mind is just as important as what goes into his body.

"We carry scars in our minds that have been received by parents, teachers and even nurse maids during our early years. Sixty per cent of the juvenile delinquency shows emotional conflicts that have started in the home."

Speaking of religious training, Dr. Freden said "Religion should be a growing concept. How can grown ups expect little minds to grasp religious concepts that even the adult mind has difficulty in conceiving? Why should we instill into the mind of little children the idea of fear and of hell?"

Dr. Freden concluded his remarks with the statement that "if the heredity of the child is good and the environment of the child is good, parents have little to fear."

Other addresses were made by Mrs. L. A. Maihles of Shreveport, state president, Mrs. E. S. Richardson of Minden, Miss Myrtle Rodgers, Mrs. Faye Walters, Mrs. Albert Smith of Winnfield and Mrs. J. E. Brooks of Shreveport.

The state's greetings were given by Mrs. Maihles who stated that the state organization has shown a gain of 4,000 members during the past year, bringing the total number of members up to 16,257.

"Every live and alert school maintains a live and active P.-T. A.," stated Mrs. Maihles, "and it is the purpose of the association to study the child in the school in a spirit of cooperation rather than to run the school."

E. S. Richardson of Minden spoke briefly on the importance of the library extension. "All persons should have library service," declared Mr. Richardson, "and a library that is vital will play an important part in the practical side of the life in the community as well as the cultural. Library service is a democratic idea and one that should be encouraged by every live organization."

Mrs. Albert Smith of Winnfield, state membership chairman, spoke on "Membership and Its Value."

She said: "Benefits derived from membership in the national organization are inspiration, volunteer service, expert advice program service and aids in study groups, as well as leaflets covering every phase of P.-T. A. work."

Miss Myrtle Rodgers, state motion picture chairman, dwelt upon the plans and outline of motion picture work as promulgated by the national motion picture committee. "Over seventy-seven million people see the movies in America every week," stated Miss Rodgers. "Motion pictures have much more influence upon the minds of children than books. The bad and pretty girl is pictured as attractive to men. . . .The modern trend of our pictures contributes to delinquency and frequently incites racial hatred."

Mrs. J. R. Rooks of Shreveport, state chairman of the summer round up, outlined in detail the importance of the summer round up, by which means physical defects in the child are remedied before he enters school.

A brief resume of the work of the publications committee was given by Mrs. Faye Walters, who is the state chairman of this committee.

Mrs. Harvey McDonald of West Monroe, fifth district chairman, presided during the meeting. Other officers of the district are Mrs. R. L. McHenry, secretary and treasurer, and Mrs. Leon Vincent, vice-chairman. Musical selections were given by Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Nelson and a reading by Mrs. James Plummer.

The next meeting of the district organization will be held in the early spring in Monroe.

Feminine Cigarette Has Brought New Gestures And New Rituals In Last Decade

Find the play or the book or the short story now written where the cigarette isn't a vital accessory to the feminine fact. Women smoking. Women laughing through the tenuous blue screen. Women's hands languidly reaching for their cigarette-cases. Women pressing out a stub, meditatively, finally, their red nails so alive against the drying ash.

In the last decade, it has reached such proportions this puffing of women—that a woman without a cigarette has a strange, unnatural repose; making other women wonder what she does with her hands.

The feminine cigarette has brought with it a host of gestures that never existed before. New rituals, new pauses have come into being. Smoking, for women is an adornment, an opiate, a defense, a weapon, a concealment, depending on her inner chemistry. She can not seem to do without it. The striking of a match has become as unconscious a feminine gesture as the raising of the hand to the hair.

Just as women are different, so is their smoking and their approach to smoking. Watch the woman with her cigarette and you will know her general quality and her specific mood. There is something in the way she holds it in her mouth, lights it, takes it in her fingers, puts it out.

Her reasons for smoking, too, are different. Sometimes the sense of companionship with men motivates her: in the mutual gesture of lighting and puffing and watching the grey spirals, there is a certain peace and contentment.

When she is nervous, she smokes to be soothed. When she is hurt, she smokes to hide imminent tears. When she is bored, she smokes to have something to do. And when she is happy, a cigarette somehow crowns her happiness. As the finale to a long walk in the rain, or a hard day's work a cigarette and a couch and an open fire can together achieve a certain ecstasy.

Some women work better, think better, enjoy better when they smoke. It stimulates them. Others having no reason, merely like the sensation of smoking, the taste of tobacco, the smell of the smoke, the feel of the white paper.

When smoking has become a vice, it is ugly. There is no beauty in the woman whose appetite for cigarettes is insatiable; whose, tense, thin hands are unhappy without the little white cylinder in them. She is more than apt to be too thin, haggard, hard-lipped, somehow desiccated. Her movements are harsh. When, by chance, her case is empty and her friends have none, a look of panic springs up in her eyes. She smokes a cigarette to the end, and no sooner have her manicured (but yellowed) finger-tips pressed out the stub than she is shaking down a fresh one on her wrist.

Judging from American advertising, next to Beauty and Cleanliness, the indispensable, supremely desirable, quality in a woman is not godliness but a passion for smoking. The great cigarette advertisers have not lost a single trick in their vast campaign to make women smoke-conscious. All the psychological wiles of the highest paid copywriters in the country have been used to convince Mrs. Smith that she's no lady, no siren, no sport if she doesn't smoke this or that brand.

The great minds of advertising have thought of almost everything. Thats' it's healthy, it's sexy, it's soothing, it's modern, it's sporty to smoke. And we hope that their next move will be to listen to that still small feminine voice that says, quite simply, "It's fun to smoke." But maybe that won't fit in with good clean American morality. You do things because they're good for you, not because they're fun.

All of which points no moral. Thousands of women smoke. Thousands of women really like it. Thousands of women benefit by it, either actually or imaginatively. The right or wrong of it takes you back to that most trustworthy of all axioms; it's not what you do so much as how you do it.

Wanda Tremaine is so devoted to her parents she is willing to sacrifice the pleasure of a few debutante balls in Jackson, Miss., just to spend a few precious hours with them during the week-end. . . . Wanda is a student at Millsaps college and is making her home with her aunt whose lovely daughter is making her debut this winter. . . . India Stubbs is attracted to San Antonio like a moth to flame . . . and no wonder, she was one of the most feted "debs" in San Antonio last winter and is now attending the balls planned for this year's crop.

MUSIC EXTENSION COURSE WILL OPEN AT PARISH SCHOOL

The first session of an extension course in public school music, offered through Northeast Center of Louisiana State university, will be held Wednesday afternoon beginning at 4 o'clock at the Ouachita parish grammar school auditorium, according to announcement Saturday. Roger C. Frisbie, in charge of the music department at Northeast Center, will conduct the course, for which a full college credit will be given.

Sixteen lessons will be covered in the course, one lesson being held each week. The cost of the course for each person is $8 and it is open to all teachers.

Primarily the course is intended to assist teachers of various grades in the different schools. All parish schools have inaugurated the teaching of music in the first, second and third grades and this makes it necessary for teachers in these grades to have an understanding of music. It is expected that music instruction will be extended one grade higher each year until it is eventually being taught in all the grades, thus making it necessary for all the teachers to be able to teach music.

A number of teachers in the schools had asked for a course of this kind and it was decided to offer college credit and make it open to all teachers. A large attendance is expected.

PATTERN 2013

This slenderizing dress, although it really opens just to the waist, takes its inspiration from the vogue for coat frocks which is sweeping the fashion world today, and looks for all the world as though it opened all the way down the front. Buttons emphasize its smart closing and its nicely-cut sleeves. A smoothly flattering collar tops its trim bodice—two well-tailored pleats front its slim skirt. This dress would be lovely made in a roughish crepe with metal buttons and satin collar. Or if you use a rugged wool fabric, velveteen for the collar and covered buttons would be a smart choice.

Pattern 2013 is available in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44. Size 36 takes 2 5-8 yards 54 inch fabric and 3-4 yard 39 inch contrasting. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

SOPHIE KERR'S GREAT NOVEL "STAY OUT OF MY LIFE!"

By Sophie Kerr

CHAPTER XXXI

Walking with Alice made Amy think of Jane, because she and Jane had so often taken this same path. Watching Alice with Nancy reminded Amy of Jane, too, and with a kinder feeling than she had had in the summer. Now and then Mary spoke of Jane, reported something Miss Rosa had told her, something glittering and spectacular. Jane was head of a special committee of business women to sell Liberty Bonds. Jane was making speeches on the steps of the Public Library. Jane's business was growing. She meant to enlarge her offices. Everything was to Janes importance and success. Amy listened with an amused twinkle. She could perfectly see Jane swanking around, playing her part with dashing conviction, but she felt no tingle of envy. But when, one day late in November, Mary said that Jane was coming to stay with her aunt for the holidays, Amy only commented absently: "That'll please Miss Rosa," and thought no more about it.

The holidays this year meant only to Amy that Howard was sure of his leave for that time. No matter how she felt toward Jane, toward anyone, she could include nothing from outside in that prospect.

With Howard's coming in view Amy first went through her house like a stern and captious stranger, and then, with lists beside her, began a series of renovations which would, she determined, bring it back to the freshness of their honeymoon days.

She planned her meals, too, of the dishes Howard liked best. "And if," she said to Mary, "the food administration comes along and puts me in jail for it, I'm not going to use a single substitute while Howards here. Butter, sugar, white flour—all he wants. I'm going to make a cocoanut cake as big as a mountain and thousands of raisin cookies. And pecan caramels. And he's going to have popovers and waffles, and roast turkey and duck and all the fresh vegetables and fruit I can find here or in Hopkinsville."

"Go ahead," replied Mary, "I'll aid and abet you and go to jail with you if it's necessary." Presently she added: "Rosa would like us to come to her for Christmas dinner, but I told her we wouldn't think of it."

"I'd rather have no dinner at all than go out anywhere. Mother spoke of having us there, too, but she said she knew it was only a gesture."

Mary answered hesitatingly: "Amy—how would it be if I went to Rosa's that day—and let you and Howard to be to yourselves? And I could take Nancy—"

"Oh, you make me feel a pig! Do I seem to be trying to crowd you out? Oh no, Mary, please. You belong here. And I want you. It would spoil everything if you went out—and I wouldn't like to send Nancy away either. Especially to Miss Rosa's, while Jane's there—" she went on quickly—"Jane doesn't care much for children, and she rubbed me the wrong way the only time she ever saw Nancy. Very foolish of me, I suppose, but she—well, she said that Nancy wasn't a pretty child and I resented it. I keep on resenting it, too, in a small-minded maternal way."

"Amy, you're funny!"

"But Nancy is pretty, even if it isn't in the pink-and-white cherub style. And I won't have Jane Terry criticizing her. You think Nancy's pretty—I asked you a while ago, remember? Of course pretty isn't the adjective for her. It's too obvious and limited. It's a tinkling sort of word—"

"Why Amy, you of all people let a chance remark like that rankle so! Does it matter what Jane thinks?"

"Oh no, it doesn't, of course. Not really. But if anyone had told you Howard was a plain little boy would you have been pleased?"

"I'd have been as mad as hops."

"There—you see? And even if it wasn't any question of exposing Nancy to Jane's comments, I woudn't have you go anywhere else for Christmas for the world."

There was such earnestness and sincerity in her voice that Mary Jackson smiled with gratification. "It's very sweet to have you say that. But truthfully, it doesn't matter so vitally to me to spend the time with Howard as it does you. Ever since he's been grown I've trained myself to be contented just to know that he's well and happy somewhere, even when he's not with me. It saves such a lot of emotional wear and tear on both of us."

Amy shook her head doubtfully. "I don't believe I'll ever feel that way about my son," she said.

If she had not had so many things to do, Amy could hardly have existed through the last weeks before Howard came. To everything else she added the making of two new frocks for herself, but at this her mother took a firm stand. "I'll give them to you for a Christmas gift," she said, "provided that you don't set a single stitch in them yourself. I mean it, not one stitch."

So that matter was settled, but it did mean visits to the dressmaker for fittings. Both dresses were blue, one very dark and the other the shade of Chinese coolie cotton, bright, yet soft.

Her beauty boomed in expectance. Sometimes Mary Jackson and her mother spoke of it. There was something beyond reality in it. Her eyes did not see them but only her great happiness, her mouth was curved and red and soft, her skin was translucently fair. She was luminous, radiant, waiting. In the very last days she did not talk very much. She was with Howard as he took his way toward her. She knew the hour when he started, the moment of each stop, just where his train would be every mile of the way.

He would come in the evening. She made a last turn of the house, drew the blinds, lit the lights and looked about her approvingly. The room had order and color and warmth and comfort. There were wreaths in the windows and a garland over the mantel. Professor Ellert had sent her a box of wine-roses and she had cut off the dead branches of the magnolia tree in the garden to burn in the hearth fire for their good smell. Howard's books waited staidly on their shelves, his copper smoking tray was on the table by his chair. It was almost as if he were there.

And then, miracle, he was there! Tall and strong, cold from the keen winter outside, but with a living and hearty cold that is akin to heat, dropping his cap, his gloves on the floor, smothering her against his great coat, holding her, saying her name—"Amy, Amy—Amy—Amy!" telling her all that she needed to know in that one word.

"Oh, but let me look at you!" she said, drawing away a little, but holding him tight. "Why, I do believe you've grown! And what a proud, elegant uniform! And the wings! Oh, Howard—you're grand!"

He could say nothing but her name, and he had tears in his eyes like a child wanting consolation. Finally he stammered: "It was too long. I felt as if all this—and you—didn't exist any more. That I'd never see you again."

After his mother and Nancy came in he found coherence, but all of them were too excited and overwrought to do much but begin sentences and leave them half spoken, forgetting what they meant to say in the overwhelming joy of reunion. Nancy was the calmest of the four, but a little awed by the intense feeling of the grownups. She looked at them in surprise and question. But presently it was easier. They could begin to breathe, to be natural.

Howard sat on the sofa between Mary and Amy, Nancy on his knees. "Everything looks so wonderful!" he kept exclaiming. "Here it is, just as I dreamed about it! It's all real!"

Later in the evening people began to come to see Howard—Professor Ellert first of all, beaming at him, lamenting his own age that he could not enlist, working out schemes to get Howard another step in rank—"It's largely pulling the right wires, my boy"—fingering Howard's insignia covetously and unwilling to say a word about college affairs or anything but the army and the war. Professor and Mrs. Lowe came in and the Dean and two or three more of the faculty with their wives. Amy noted that the men were obsessed by the war, but that the women listened with a sort of futile angry impatience. She was glad when they were all gone and Mary, yawning, had kissed her son and gone to bed.

Then Amy and Howard sat down before the fire, her head on his shoulder, their hands clasped. "While I'm here and when we're alone," he said, "we're going to pretend that it's just as always. I don't want to talk about airplanes or guns or soldiers with you, Amy. I want just my wife and my home. Let's forget everything else."

"Tell me one thing first. Is there any chance that you'll be sent over, any time soon? I don't want that in the background, threatening me. If it's there, I'd rather face it."

"I honestly don't know, darling. Nobody can tell a thing. My work seems to be going all right and I may be kept right at it indefinitely, or I might be ordered up to the Long Island camp—that's where they give the final training, you know—and even if I go there I might be kept right on as an instructor—or I might get overseas orders. I won't say a word, or do a thing to try to stay in Texas. It wouldn't be decent. I've been seeing too many fellows who seem to think this war is a great chance to wangle something slick for themselves, and not a war at all. I do my stuff the best I know, and if the orders come—well, they come. There's the whole truth, Amy darling, and the minute I know anything else I'll tell you. And now let's forget it. My time with you is too precious to spoil. I want to have every bit of it, taste it, feel it, look at it, this room with a fire and flowers—these walls safe around us, and you, my very own, with me. I've starved with longing for you."

MUSIC EXTENSION COURSE WILL OPEN AT PARISH SCHOOL

The first session of an extension course in public school music, offered through Northeast Center of Louisiana State university, will be held Wednesday afternoon beginning at 4 o'clock at the Ouachita parish grammar school auditorium, according to announcement Saturday. Roger C. Frisbie, in charge of the music department at Northeast Center, will conduct the course, for which a full college credit will be given.

Sixteen lessons will be covered in the course, one lesson being held each week. The cost of the course for each person is $8 and it is open to all teachers.

Primarily the course is intended to assist teachers of various grades in the different schools. All parish schools have inaugurated the teaching of music in the first, second and third grades and this makes it necessary for teachers in these grades to have an understanding of music. It is expected that music instruction will be extended one grade higher each year until it is eventually being taught in all the grades, thus making it necessary for all the teachers to be able to teach music.

A number of teachers in the schools had asked for a course of this kind and it was decided to offer college credit and make it open to all teachers. A large attendance is expected.

News-Star--World Pattern

PATTERN 2013

This slenderizing dress, although it really opens just to the waist, takes its inspiration from the vogue for coat frocks which is sweeping the fashion world today, and looks for all the world as though it opened all the way down the front. Buttons emphasize its smart closing and its nicely-cut sleeves. A smoothly flattering collar tops its trim bodice—two well-tailored pleats front its slim skirt. This dress would be lovely made in a roughish crepe with metal buttons and satin collar. Or if you use a rugged wool fabric, velveteen for the collar and covered buttons would be a smart choice.

Pattern 2013 is available in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44. Size 36 takes 2 5-8 yards 54 inch fabric and 3-4 yard 39 inch contrasting. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

SOPHIE KERR'S GREAT NOVEL "STAY OUT OF MY LIFE!"

By Sophie Kerr

CHAPTER XXXI

Walking with Alice made Amy think of Jane, because she and Jane had so often taken this same path. Watching Alice with Nancy reminded Amy of Jane, too, and with a kinder feeling than she had had in the summer. Now and then Mary spoke of Jane, reported something Miss Rosa had told her, something glittering and spectacular. Jane was head of a special committee of business women to sell Liberty Bonds. Jane was making speeches on the steps of the Public Library. Jane's business was growing. She meant to enlarge her offices. Everything was to Janes importance and success. Amy listened with an amused twinkle. She could perfectly see Jane swanking around, playing her part with dashing conviction, but she felt no tingle of envy. But when, one day late in November, Mary said that Jane was coming to stay with her aunt for the holidays, Amy only commented absently: "That'll please Miss Rosa," and thought no more about it.

The holidays this year meant only to Amy that Howard was sure of his leave for that time. No matter how she felt toward Jane, toward anyone, she could include nothing from outside in that prospect.

With Howard's coming in view Amy first went through her house like a stern and captious stranger, and then, with lists beside her, began a series of renovations which would, she determined, bring it back to the freshness of their honeymoon days.

She planned her meals, too, of the dishes Howard liked best. "And if," she said to Mary, "the food administration comes along and puts me in jail for it, I'm not going to use a single substitute while Howards here. Butter, sugar, white flour—all he wants. I'm going to make a cocoanut cake as big as a mountain and thousands of raisin cookies. And pecan caramels. And he's going to have popovers and waffles, and roast turkey and duck and all the fresh vegetables and fruit I can find here or in Hopkinsville."

"Go ahead," replied Mary, "I'll aid and abet you and go to jail with you if it's necessary." Presently she added: "Rosa would like us to come to her for Christmas dinner, but I told her we wouldn't think of it."

"I'd rather have no dinner at all than go out anywhere. Mother spoke of having us there, too, but she said she knew it was only a gesture."

Mary answered hesitatingly: "Amy—how would it be if I went to Rosa's that day—and let you and Howard to be to yourselves? And I could take Nancy—"

"Oh, you make me feel a pig! Do I seem to be trying to crowd you out? Oh no, Mary, please. You belong here. And I want you. It would spoil everything if you went out—and I wouldn't like to send Nancy away either. Especially to Miss Rosa's, while Jane's there—" she went on quickly—"Jane doesn't care much for children, and she rubbed me the wrong way the only time she ever saw Nancy. Very foolish of me, I suppose, but she—well, she said that Nancy wasn't a pretty child and I resented it. I keep on resenting it, too, in a small-minded maternal way."

"But Nancy is pretty, even if it isn't in the pink-and-white cherub style. And I won't have Jane Terry criticizing her. You think Nancy's pretty—I asked you a while ago, remember? Of course pretty isn't the adjective for her. It's too obvious and limited. It's a tinkling sort of word—"

"Why Amy, you of all people let a chance remark like that rankle so! Does it matter what Jane thinks?"

"Oh no, it doesn't, of course. Not really. But if anyone had told you Howard was a plain little boy would you have been pleased?"

"I'd have been as mad as hops."

"There—you see? And even if it wasn't any question of exposing Nancy to Jane's comments, I woudn't have you go anywhere else for Christmas for the world."

There was such earnestness and sincerity in her voice that Mary Jackson smiled with gratification. "It's very sweet to have you say that. But truthfully, it doesn't matter so vitally to me to spend the time with Howard as it does you. Ever since he's been grown I've trained myself to be contented just to know that he's well and happy somewhere, even when he's not with me. It saves such a lot of emotional wear and tear on both of us."

Amy shook her head doubtfully. "I don't believe I'll ever feel that way about my son," she said.

If she had not had so many things to do, Amy could hardly have existed through the last weeks before Howard came. To everything else she added the making of two new frocks for herself, but at this her mother took a firm stand. "I'll give them to you for a Christmas gift," she said, "provided that you don't set a single stitch in them yourself. I mean it, not one stitch."

So that matter was settled, but it did mean visits to the dressmaker for fittings. Both dresses were blue, one very dark and the other the shade of Chinese coolie cotton, bright, yet soft.

Her beauty boomed in expectance. Sometimes Mary Jackson and her mother spoke of it. There was something beyond reality in it. Her eyes did not see them but only her great happiness, her mouth was curved and red and soft, her skin was translucently fair. She was luminous, radiant, waiting. In the very last days she did not talk very much. She was with Howard as he took his way toward her. She knew the hour when he started, the moment of each stop, just where his train would be every mile of the way.

He would come in the evening. She made a last turn of the house, drew the blinds, lit the lights and looked about her approvingly. The room had order and color and warmth and comfort. There were wreaths in the windows and a garland over the mantel. Professor Ellert had sent her a box of wine-roses and she had cut off the dead branches of the magnolia tree in the garden to burn in the hearth fire for their good smell. Howard's books waited staidly on their shelves, his copper smoking tray was on the table by his chair. It was almost as if he were there.

And then, miracle, he was there! Tall and strong, cold from the keen winter outside, but with a living and hearty cold that is akin to heat, droping his cap, his gloves on the floor, smothering her against his great coat, holding her, saying her name—"Amy, Amy—Amy—Amy!" telling her all that she needed to know in that one word.

"Oh, but let me look at you!" she said, drawing away a little, but holding him tight. "Why, I do believe you've grown! And what a proud, elegant uniform! And the wings! Oh, Howard—you're grand!"

He could say nothing but her name, and he had tears in his eyes like a child wanting consolation. Finally he stammered: "It was too long. I felt as if all this—and you—didn't exist any more. That I'd never see you again."

After his mother and Nancy came in he found coherence, but all of them were too excited and overwrought to do much but begin sentences and leave them half spoken, forgetting what they meant to say in the overwhelming joy of reunion. Nancy was the calmest of the four, but a little awed by the intense feeling of the grownups. She looked at them in surprise and question. But presently it was easier. They could begin to breathe, to be natural.

Howard sat on the sofa between Mary and Amy, Nancy on his knees. "Everything looks so wonderful!" he kept exclaiming. "Here it is, just as I dreamed about it! It's all real!"

Later in the evening people began to come to see Howard—Professor Ellert first of all, beaming at him, lamenting his own age that he could not enlist, working out schemes to get Howard another step in rank—"It's largely pulling the right wires, my boy"—fingering Howard's insignia covetously and unwilling to say a word about college affairs or anything but the army and the war. Professor and Mrs. Lowe came in and the Dean and two or three more of the faculty with their wives. Amy noted that the men were obsessed by the war, but that the women listened with a sort of futile angry impatience. She was glad when they were all gone and Mary, yawning, had kissed her son and gone to bed.

Then Amy and Howard sat down before the fire, her head on his shoulder, their hands clasped. "While I'm here and when we're alone," he said, "we're going to pretend that it's just as always. I don't want to talk about airplanes or guns or soldiers with you, Amy. I want just my wife and my home. Let's forget everything else."

"Tell me one thing first. Is there any chance that you'll be sent over, any time soon? I don't want that in the background, threatening me. If it's there, I'd rather face it."

"I honestly don't know, darling. Nobody can tell a thing. My work seems to be going all right and I may be kept right at it indefinitely, or I might be ordered up to the Long Island camp—that's where they give the final training, you know—and even if I go there I might be kept right on as an instructor—or I might get overseas orders. I won't say a word, or do a thing to try to stay in Texas. It wouldn't be decent. I've been seeing too many fellows who seem to think this war is a great chance to wangle something slick for themselves, and not a war at all. I do my stuff the best I know, and if the orders come—well, they come. There's the whole truth, Amy darling, and the minute I know anything else I'll tell you. And now let's forget it. My time with you is too precious to spoil. I want to have every bit of it, taste it, feel it, look at it, this room with a fire and flowers—these walls safe around us, and you, my very own, with me. I've starved with longing for you."

TIGERS SCORE IN EVERY PERIOD TO DEFEAT MAROONS

L. S. U. Flashes Too Much Power For Invaders; Mickal Hurt

By Quincy Ewing
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

BATON ROUGE, La., Nov. 3.—Scoring with passes and power in every quarter, Louisiana State university tonight overran Mississippi State 25 to 3.

The Mississippians fought their hearts out and repeatedly threatened in the first half, but fell short of goal strikes in the face of tightened Tiger resistance, and had to be content with a field goal in the second period when it looked like they had a chance to win.

Louisiana struck first when Mickal spun a pass that traveled a net 17 yards to Fatherree who caught it on the three-yard line, fell and slipped across the goal. Mickal committed what is for him the rarity of missing the kick.

The Maroons lashed back with brilliant running feats by Armstrong and Day, and an anticipated passing duel between Armstrong and Louisiana's sharp-shooting Mickal materialized.

Armstrong alternated bullseye throws to Keenan with the running plays to advance the ball to Louisiana's 11-yard line early in the second quarter. Armstrong shot one to Walters who caught it on the 4-yard line for an apparent sure touchdown, but fumbled to give the ball to Louisiana, who punted.

Armstrong's deadly heaves got the ball to the 13 and the stellar Mississippi passer booted a field goal to reduce the Tiger lead to six to three.

That was the Maroon highwater mark, however. Soon afterwards Mickal zoomed a 30-yard pass to Sullivan who sprinted 30 yards more for Louisiana's second touchdown. Mickal's kick was good.

In the third quarter Louisiana really got to work, despite continued Armstrong passing threats. Starting the power steam roller to rumbling after Fatherree intercepted a Mississippi pass on the 25-yard line, Crass, sub for Mickal, slashed and tore his way to the one-yard line, and then dived over center for a touchdown. He failed to kick goal.

Crass led another line-cracking drive from the Louisiana 45-yard line and Sullivan made three yards at center for a touchdown soon after the fourth period opened. Seago's kick try was bad.

Mississippi State was kept on the defensive the rest of the game and Louisiana was battering for another touchdown from the five-yard line as the contest ended.

Senator Huey P. Long, arch-patron of the Louisianians, saw the game from the sideline squad bench, while Lieut.-Gov. and Mrs. Dennis Murphree and other prominent Mississippians saw the game from boxes.

The edge of victory was dulled for Louisiana supporters when the brilliant Abe Mickal was forced out of the game with an injured leg in the third quarter. The team's physician later said his injury did not appear serious and that he would probably be able to play next Saturday against George Washington university.

Jonesboro Eleven Beats Oak Grove By 36-6 Score

JONESBORO, La., Nov. 3.—(Special)—The undefeated Tiger team from the Jonesboro high school added another victory to those already won so far this season, by defeating the Tiger team from the Oak Grove high school by a score of 36 to 6.

At no time was the Jonesboro team hard pressed, marching almost at will down the field for a score. The first and third quarters found the first string eleven piling up the score, while the second and fourth quarters found the second team driving far into the opposition territory.

During the last five minutes of the last quarter, Coach Patison sent in his third string boys and gave them a taste of battle for the first time. Quarterback Michaud, halfback Fowler and Peacock of the local team were the outstanding ground gainers during the game. Tight Patison the six foot and six inch left end for the Jonesboro team, easily outshone any other wingman of the game during the afternoon, accounting for two of the touchdowns.

Jonesboro plays her first game of the season away from home next Friday afternoon when they meet the Crimson Tigers of the Winnfield high school. If Jonesboro succeeds in winning this game, she will be well on the way towards contending for the Class "A" honors of the north Louisiana area.

Three Big Teams Toppled From List Of Undefeated

By Herbert W. Barker
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Army, Dartmouth and Chicago toppled from the undefeated list in another day of savage football warfare yesterday, but the leaders otherwise tramped on in close to routine fashion.

Perfect record collided with perfect record as Army's Cadets, led by Texas Jack Buckler, clashed with Bob Zuppke's Illini, paced by Jack Beynon and Les Lindberg, and when it was all over the Big Ten contenders still were riding high, wide and handsome. Illinois took advantage of a blocked kick in the first period to snare a 7-0 victory in a game played for the most part in a pouring rain.

Dartmouth, with its best team in years, once more failed to overcome the Yale jinx and finished on the short end of a 7-2 score after being decisively outplayed practically the whole way. Yale thus earned its 15th victory in a series where Dartmouth has only three ties to show for its efforts over a period of 50 years.

Led once more by their two great backs, Duane Purvis and Jim Carter, Purdue's Boilermakers ruined Chicago's hopes of a Big Ten championship by nosing out the Maroons in a brilliant duel, 26 to 20.

The Gophers set the pace for National championship contenders by trouncing Michigan, 34 to 0, after the Wolverines had held them scoreless in the first half. Once Lund, Alphonse and company got under way, however, there was nothing to it.

With Minnesota battling along the undefeated trail were Navy, Princeton and Syracuse in the east; Michigan State in the midwest; Alabama and Tulane in the south; Rice in the southwest; Utah Aggies in the Rocky Mountain district, and Stanford and Washington in the far west.

Renewing football relations with Harvard after an eight-year lapse, Princeton's high-geared array wore down the Crimson's fighting defense finally to win, 19-0. Navy looked more and more impressive as the Midshipmen buried, 26 to 0, a Washington and Lee outfit that Princeton recently was lucky to beat, 14-12. Syracuse's veterans stopped Penn State, 16-0.

Michigan State rallied after a shaky start to steam past Marquette, 13-7, while Rice took its "breather" with Texas A. and I., in stride, 27-0. Alabama and Tulane both won about as expected, the Crimson Tide burying Kentucky, 34-14, while Tulane was whipping Mississippi, 15-0. The Utah Aggies continued their march at Brigham Young's expense, 15-0. Stanford and Washington, meantime, remained in the Pacific Coast conference race along with Washington State. Stanford's powerful aggregation trounced U. C. L. A., 27-0, but Washington needed a fourth period touchdown to turn back Oregon State, 14-7.

Fordham's Rams and the Pittsburgh Panthers gave the east two major intersectional triumphs. Fordham, coming back in brilliant style after successive defeats by St. Mary's and Southern Methodist, nosed out Bob Neyland's Tennessee Volunteers, 13-12, while Pittsburgh's fleet backs carried the Panthers to a 19-0 conquest of Notre Dame before a capacity crowd of 64,000.

Southern teams handed two other eastern arrays their initial defeats of the campaign as George Washington dropped a heartbreaker to Vanderbilt, 7-6, and Georgetown bowed to Richmond's stirring last quarter rally, 14-13. Temple and Western Maryland, both tied once but not defeated, scored over Holy Cross, 14-0, and Catholic university, 2-0, respectively. Boston college's 6-0 setback of Villanova came under the head of a major surprise and few expected Bucknell to emerge victor over Furman, 19-0, in the Southerners' home field.

Duke and North Carolina gave the Southern conference two more victories over the Southeastern group as the Blue Devils beat Auburn, 13-6, and North Carolina snowed under Georgia Tech, 26-0. Maryland topped Virginia in a Southern conference engagement, 20-0, but South Carolina's 20-0 trouncing of Virginia Poly and Clemson's 12-6 victory over North Carolina State caused some eyebrow raising. Georgia's passing stopped Florida, 14-0.

In the Southwest, Texas A. and M. shocked the experts for the second successive week by holding Arkansas to a 7-7 tie. Southern Methodist and Texas played to another 7-7 deadlock but Texas Christian ran over Baylor, 34-0.

Northwestern finally won a ball game, beating Wisconsin, 7-0, but Iowa disappointed again in a scoreless draw with Indiana. Oklahoma routed Missouri, 31-0, while Kansas jolted Iowa State by holding the Cyclones to a scoreless tie in Big Six engagements. Oklahoma A. and M.'s 19-0 triumph over Detroit was a surprise to most.

Blocked Kick Gives Illini Scoring Break In First Period

By Charles Dunkley
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Nov. 3.—In a corral drenched with driving rain and fetlock deep in mud and water, Illinois addled the Army mule with a touchdown handicap in the first five minutes of battle today and then rode him over a spectacular finish to hang on for a 7 to 0 victory before 41,000 soaked spectators.

The Illini won with great football, but never will they forget their ride for life in the closing minutes of play when the mule kicked back even with its famous Jack Buckler relegated to the sidelines by injuries. The final mulish kick sent the Illini reeling to their own five-yard line, but they finally got their second winds and lashed the mule back to square their four-game series with Army and remain standing among the ranks of the nation's gridiron undefeated.

Illinois, forever on the alert for breaks over the treacherous gridiron, manufactured the big one that produced the victory. Engaged in a series of punt exchanges, Buckler paused with the rain and wind at his back. Through the cadet line rushed Ken Nelson, who blocked the kick. The mud-covered ball bounced toward the Army goal and Gene Dykstra recovered for the Illini and ran it to Army's 14.

Into the battle then stepped Crain Portman, who ran interference for two plays and then swung into action on the Army 12 and raced around his left end for a touchdown behind interference that toppled the cadets. The kick for the extra point was scored by Les Lindberg with Jack Beynon holding the ball.

Illinois made another big threat in the closing minutes of the second period after Sayre had intercepted one of Buckler's desperately tossed passes and ran it back to Army's 32 and even pushed over a touchdown on a 17-yard pass, Beynon to Dykstra, but it was nullified by offside.

NORTH CAROLINA TRIMS ENGINEERS

Tar Heels Roll Up 26 Points Against Georgia Tech Eleven

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 3.—(AP)—Displaying powerful offensive thrusts and guarded by a line that warded off all scoring threats, North Carolina drove to a one-sided 26 to 0 victory over Georgia Tech in an inter-conference gridiron battle today.

Led by Harry Montgomery, a brother of Cliff, quarterback and captain of Columbia university's Rose Bowl gridders of 1933, the Tar Heels rolled up a 14 to 0 lead in the first half and took things easy against the Golden Tornado the rest of the way, at the same time adding two more touchdowns in the fourth period.

Georgia Tech threatened only once throughout the 60 minutes of play, driving to North Carolina's seven-yard line early in the second quarter but the Tar Heel defense stood and North Carolina took the ball on downs.

Montgomery, a junior who performed in the role of an understudy for Charlie Shaffer, regular halfback, left at home because of injuries, accounted for the first two touchdowns as he ploughed through Tech's line twice in the opening period. Each time Babe Daniel added the extra point from placement.

Midway the third period, Don Jackson, North Carolina halfback, grabbed the ball on a reverse play at the 50-yard line and followed perfect interference for a touchdown. Daniel's placekick was blocked. After an exchange of punts, the Tar Heels got the ball on Tech's 29-yard line near the end of the period. A lateral pass and a forward advanced the ball to Tech's four. A penalty put the ball on the two-yard stripe and then Jim Hutchins, North Carolina fullback, lunged through tackle for a touchdown. Daniel's placekick for the extra point was low.

Eddie Moore To Manage Atlanta Club In 1935

ATLANTA, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Appointment of Eddie Moore, aggressive little third baseman, as manager of the Atlanta club of the Southern association for 1935 was announced today by the board of directors of the Atlanta Baseball corporation.

The announcement came as no surprise to local fans for it had been considered a foregone conclusion that Moore, who was named acting manager of the Crackers near the end of the past season, and led the Atlanta club to a whirlwind finish, would be chosen.

When Wilbert Robinson, head of the Atlanta club, died early last August, Manager Spencer Abbott was named acting president and Moore was appointed acting manager. At that time the directors said the arrangement was a temporary one and that any chance of its becoming permanent depended upon the success of the experiment.

GREENIES STAGE ANOTHER SORRY FOOTBALL SHOW

Wave's Offense Bogs Down Several Times In Scoring Territory

By Ed Desobry
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

NEW ORLEANS, La., Nov. 3.—A battered and unheralded little football team from the University of Mississippi threw a scare into Tulane's highly vaunted Southeastern conference squad here today before it succumbed to superior man-power by a 15 to 0 score.

Tulane, the "luck" eleven of the conference, was clearly superior to the visitors in every department, but the Wave put on the sorriest exhibition of football seen in the local field in a decade.

The Greenies repeatedly ran the ball to the shadow of Mississippi's goal, but bad passes and worse juggling of perfect tosses robbed them of several scores.

Mississippi was almost always on the defense, and in the first half the best Tulane could do was to shove back to its own 16 yard line where Ned Peters, quarter, missed a high pass from center as he was ready to punt and Harold Memtsas, Tulane end, fell on him behind the goal for a safety.

Tulane opened up in the second half, but found the same stubborn Mississippi resistance, which broadened several times into a fine offensive centered around its pile-driving fullback, Earl Hutson, and the fleet-footed halfback, G. A. Gunter.

Tulane kept crowding up to the goal for a touchdown, but couldn't set off the scoring spark again until "Bucky" Bryan, Tulane half, took the ball in mid-field and sprinted along the edge of the field to the one-yard line where he was pulled down. "Little Monk" Simons, half, then cut around left end for the score. Simons' place kick was low.

In the fourth quarter, Joe Loftin, Tulane fullback, took the oval on the Mississippi 41-yard line and galloped for touchdown. Barney Mintz place-kicked for the extra point.

James Henderson, Tulane sub-halfback, made a pretty 60-yard run in the same quarter for a touchdown, but the play was called back and Tulane penalized 15 yards for holding.

Peters punted over Tulane's goal and the ball was given to the visitors on the five-yard line because Tulane was clipping. A penalty shoved Mississippi back to the 20-yard line and the ball finally went over after several futile thrusts before the attack.

Tulane's vaunted defense looked sorry before the attack of Mississippi, and the score would probably have

Fourth Quarter Touchdown Gives Aggies 7-7 Draw With Hogs

COLLEGE STATION, Texas, Nov. 3.—(AP)—An alert band of Texas Aggies who could not admit defeat dropped the University of Arkansas into a tie for the Southwest conference football leadership by deadlocking the invaders, 7 to 7, here today in a furious fourth-quarter rally.

The underdog Aggies, who had been punchless most of the afternoon, got their chance late in the fourth period when Elvin Geiser, veteran Arkansas back, fumbled on his own 25-yard line. Selmer Kirby, sophomore tackle from Amarillo, recovered for A. and M.

On the first play, Fowler, a southpaw, shot a pass to Stringfellow, who squirmed to the Arkansas five-yard line. Fowler dived through right tackle for four yards. The Arkansas line, a sturdy defensive array, rose in all its might and threw Fowler and Stringfellow back without gain. Fowler was hurt and Nash Thompson, junior from Fort Worth, replaced him. It was the fourth and one as Thompson plowed through right tackle for the touchdown. He kicked the tying extra point.

Until those last few minutes, it appeared as though the seven-point Razorback lead was sufficient to get them by until their home-coming test against Rice next Saturday. A 76-yard drive in the second quarter had culminated in a 23-yard touchdown pass from Al Harriss, sub back, to Paul Rucker, Arkansas' mighty end.

TOO BIG TO CART AROUND

There's slight chance that Michigan will lose its new Little (?) Brown Jug. The traditional trophy played for by the Wolverines and Minnesota each year has had the annoying habit of turning up missing after the two teams' annual clash. But the new one, shown at right alongside the original held by Henry Hatch, Michigan property man, weighs half a ton, is five feet one inch in height and has a capacity of 264 gallons. It is to remain at Ann Arbor—unless loyal Gophers can "spirit" it away.

GOPHERS WALLOP MICHIGAN, 34-0

Minnesota Turns On Power In Last Half To Rout Wolverines

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Nov. 3.—(AP)—Bottled for two periods, Minnesota exploded the full fury of its battering, bruising attack in the last half today, to bewilder a fighting Michigan football team with a 34 to 0 triumph before a Gopher homecoming throng of 59,000.

It was the first Minnesota victory on its home field over a Michigan team since 1892 and the amazing exhibition by the Gopher backs brought back to the Maroon and Gold the Little Brown Jug, most famed of football trophies.

Kostka, the human battering ram, ripped the Wolverine line to shreds in the second half, but it was Alfonse who electrified the stands with a brilliant 76-yard run through the entire Michigan team for the Gopher's second touchdown in the third period.

A few moments before, a 38-yard pass, Lund to Maurice Johnson, Gopher end, brought the oval to Michigan's 16 and Lund, Minnesota's all-American captain, scampered sixteen yards to the goal line behind perfect interference.

The same passing play, Lund to Maurice Johnson, after Alfonse's brilliant run, netted the third Gopher score, Johnson crossing the line standing up.

With Kostka showing the way with explosive bursts through the line in the fourth period, the game became a rout as Roscoe skipped 15 yards for a touchdown, followed a few plays later by Profitt's four-yard plunge through the line for the last Minnesota score.

The line-ups:

Independent Cagers Beat Spearsville High School

SPEARSVILLE, La., Nov. 3.—(Special)—The Spearsville high school basketball team lost its fourth game of the season when it was beaten, 31 to 26, by the Spearsville Independents here this week.

The Independents were led by J. R. Futch in their goal storming spree while D. Senn was the oustanding performer for the school team.

The high school team is not expected to make as good an impression this year as the team that was turned out by Spearsville last season but the present team will be a credit to the school, it was said, and already are getting together a schedule for their winter campaign. High school teams wishing to complete their basketball schedule are requested to write C. W. Causey here for arrangements.

ALABAMA ROUTS KENTUCKY, 34-14

Crimson Tide Runs Wild To Pile Up 21 Points In First Half

LEXINGTON, Ky., Nov. 3.—(AP)—Alabama's Crimson Tide lashed Kentucky's Wildcats for a 34 to 14 victory here today and continued its march towards a possible national championship before 12,000 spectators at Stoll field.

After his charges had taken a 21 to 0 lead in the first half with the aid of the great Dixie Howell, Coach Frank Thomas sent in his second team and followed up with some of the third string players.

Howell led Alabama's first quarter scoring drive. The All-American candidate flung a perfect pass to Hutson for 22 yards and put the oval on Kentucky's 14 yard stripe. He then crashed through the line for four yards, and Hutson went around his right end for the initial score. Smith place kicked the extra point.

A few minutes later, a pass from Howell to Angelich netted fifteen yards. Two plays later Howell ripped off 18 yards around right end and after another play Campbell, who had replaced Smith at quarterback, scored. Hutson converted.

In the second half, against the visitors' subs, the Wildcats made two consecutive first downs and a pass from Johnson to Long gained 35 yards to put them on the Tide's 11 yard line. Johnson ripped off five through tackle and Hay crashed through for two more before Johnson scored around right end. Ayers converted.

At the start of the final period, Bryant scored on a triple pass after a battering drive from Kentucky's 27 yard line. Smith's try for the extra point was wide.

The Tide clamped down from then on and scored again, on a 25 yard pass from Riley to Boozer. Only a fumble on Kentucky's 13 yard stripe kept the Tide from scoring twice in the last quarter.

VANDERBILT WINS FROM COLONIALS BY 7-TO-6 SCORE

By Dillion Graham
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—A single point, earned by a perfect kick after touchdown, spelled victory for Vanderbilt university here today and defeat for the first time this season of George Washington university, 7 to 6.

Alert to warnings of Vanderbilt's aerial barrage, the Colonial defenders broke up or intercepted the Commodores' first nine passing endeavors but the tenth, a slanting toss by Dixon to the left as he circled toward his right end, floated nine yards over the goal into Willie Geny's arms.

Dick Plasman, the six foot four inch sophomore flankman, calmly place-kicked the extra point that stood up as the Commodores' narrow but sufficient margin.

It was the charging through of this same, Plasman a few seconds before that enabled him to block Alphone (Tuffy) Leemans' kick that gave Vanderbilt possession of the ball on the nine yard line as Leo Dickison, husky guard, recovered the bouncing pigskin.

Quarterback Rand Dixon, with the ball poised in his outstretched hand, started out around right end, offering the Colonials the problem of either a sweep or a toss. Defenders covered their men around the right side but suddenly Dixon turned and whipped the ball obliquely to Geny for the score.

The Colonials came storming back as the third period opened with a pass-scoring attack that was even more surprising and spectacular than had been Vanderbilt's. Standing on his 40-yard line after a nice return of the kickoff, Leeman's—the individual star of the game—lopped a 35-yard floater to End Bill Parrish who took it on the run over his shoulder and trotted along the remaining 25 yards over an unblocked route.

Harry Deming, the big tackle whose kicking has been a big aid in other games, struck the ball slightly off angle and it whizzed away, wide of the goal posts.

Four times George Washington, showing a more powerful offensive, drove within Vanderbilt's 30-yard line but on every occasion the attack either bogged down or a pass interception halted it. Except for its single scoring thrust, Vanderbilt slipped past George Washington's 30 only once and that the result of a pass interception.

Dixon's long punts, several traveling more than 60 yards, eased Vanderbilt out of several tight spots.

Crowd Of 64,000 Watches Panthers' Spectacular Scoring Tactics

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 3.—(AP)—The golden hosts of Pittsburgh, sturdy as steel, today broke up Notre Dame's victory march, 19 to 0, but only after the hard bitten Hoosiers warned the gridiron world by their die-hard play that the stars of Notre Dame will shine again.

More than 64,000 shouting fans filled the stadium for the homecoming battle which marked the 25th anniversary of the first football battle between the schools.

After a scoreless first quarter in which Miller Munjas, Pitt field general, and Wallace Fromhart and Buddy Bonar, Notre Dame quarterbacks, probed the weak and strong spots, and a punting battle, Pitt swung into action in the second period.

Early in the second period Leon Shedlosky, substitute halfback, took Andy Pilney's punt on his 35 and weaved and sprinted 65 yards for the first touchdown of the afternoon. Izzy Weinstock was wide on his kick.

Pilney brought the fans to their feet at this juncture with successive dashes of 12 and 11 yards.

L. S. U. TROUNCES MISSISSIPPI STATE TEAM, 25 TO 3

TIGERS SCORE IN EVERY PERIOD TO DEFEAT MAROONS

L. S. U. Flashes Too Much Power For Invaders; Mickal Hurt

By Quincy Ewing
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

BATON ROUGE, La., Nov. 3.—Scoring with passes and power in every quarter, Louisiana State university tonight overran Mississippi State 25 to 3.

The Mississippians fought their hearts out and repeatedly threatened in the first half, but fell short of goal strikes in the face of tightened Tiger resistance, and had to be content with a field goal in the second period when it looked like they had a chance to win.

Louisiana struck first when Mickal spun a pass that traveled a net 17 yards to Fatherree who caught it on the three-yard line, fell and slipped across the goal. Mickal committed what is for him the rarity of missing the kick.

The Maroons lashed back with brilliant running feats by Armstrong and Day, and an anticipated passing duel between Armstrong and Louisiana's sharp-shooting Mickal materialized.

Armstrong alternated bullseye throws to Keenan with the running plays to advance the ball to Louisiana's 11-yard line early in the second quarter. Armstrong shot one to Walters who caught it on the 4-yard line for an apparent sure touchdown, but fumbled to give the ball to Louisiana, who punted.

Armstrong's deadly heaves got the ball to the 13 and the stellar Mississippi passer booted a field goal to reduce the Tiger lead to six to three.

That was the Maroon highwater mark, however. Soon afterwards Mickal zoomed a 30-yard pass to Sullivan who sprinted 30 yards more for Louisiana's second touchdown. Mickal's kick was good.

In the third quarter Louisiana really got to work, despite continued Armstrong passing threats. Starting the power steam roller to rumbling after Fatherree intercepted a Mississippi pass on the 25-yard line, Crass, sub for Mickal, slashed and tore his way to the one-yard line, and then dived over center for a touchdown. He failed to kick goal.

Crass led another line-cracking drive from the Louisiana 45-yard line and Sullivan made three yards at center for a touchdown soon after the fourth period opened. Seago's kick try was bad.

Mississippi State was kept on the defensive the rest of the game and Louisiana was battering for another touchdown from the five-yard line as the contest ended.

Senator Huey P. Long, arch-patron of the Louisianians, saw the game from the sideline squad bench, while Lieut.-Gov. and Mrs. Dennis Murphree and other prominent Mississippians saw the game from boxes.

The edge of victory was dulled for Louisiana supporters when the brilliant Abe Mickal was forced out of the game with an injured leg in the third quarter. The team's physician later said his injury did not appear serious and that he would probably be able to play next Saturday against George Washington university.

Jonesboro Eleven Beats Oak Grove By 36-6 Score

JONESBORO, La., Nov. 3.—(Special)—The undefeated Tiger team from the Jonesboro high school added another victory to those already won so far this season, by defeating the Tiger team from the Oak Grove high school by a score of 36 to 6.

At no time was the Jonesboro team hard pressed, marching almost at will down the field for a score. The first and third quarters found the first string eleven piling up the score, while the second and fourth quarters found the second team driving far into the opposition territory.

During the last five minutes of the last quarter, Coach Patison sent in his third string boys and gave them a taste of battle for the first time. Quarterback Michaud, halfback Fowler and Peacock of the local team were the outstanding ground gainers during the game. Tight Patison the six foot and six inch left end for the Jonesboro team, easily outshone any other wingman of the game during the afternoon, accounting for two of the touchdowns.

Jonesboro plays her first game of the season away from home next Friday afternoon when they meet the Crimson Tigers of the Winnfield high school. If Jonesboro succeeds in winning this game, she will be well on the way towards contending for the Class "A" honors of the north Louisiana area.

By Herbert W. Barker
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Army, Dartmouth and Chicago toppled from the undefeated list in another day of savage football warfare yesterday, but the leaders otherwise tramped on in close to routine fashion.

Perfect record collided with perfect record as Army's Cadets, led by Texas Jack Buckler, clashed with Bob Zuppke's Illini, paced by Jack Beynon and Les Lindberg, and when it was all over the Big Ten contenders still were riding high, wide and handsome. Illinois took advantage of a blocked kick in the first period to snare a 7-0 victory in a game played for the most part in a pouring rain.

Dartmouth, with its best team in years, once more failed to overcome the Yale jinx and finished on the short end of a 7-2 score after being decisively outplayed practically the whole way. Yale thus earned its 15th victory in a series where Dartmouth has only three ties to show for its efforts over a period of 50 years.

Led once more by their two great backs, Duane Purvis and Jim Carter, Purdue's Boilermakers ruined Chicago's hopes of a Big Ten championship by nosing out the Maroons in a brilliant duel, 26 to 20.

The Gophers set the pace for National championship contenders by trouncing Michigan, 34 to 0, after the Wolverines had held them scoreless in the first half. Once Lund, Alphonse and company got under way, however, there was nothing to it.

With Minnesota battling along the undefeated trail were Navy, Princeton and Syracuse in the east; Michigan State in the midwest; Alabama and Tulane in the south; Rice in the southwest; Utah Aggies in the Rocky Mountain district, and Stanford and Washington in the far west.

Renewing football relations with Harvard after an eight-year lapse, Princeton's high-geared array wore down the Crimson's fighting defense finally to win, 19-0. Navy looked more and more impressive as the Midshipmen buried, 26 to 0, a Washington and Lee outfit that Princeton recently was lucky to beat, 14-12. Syracuse's veterans stopped Penn State, 16-0.

Michigan State rallied after a shaky start to steam past Marquette, 13-7, while Rice took its "breather" with Texas A. and I., in stride, 27-0. Alabama and Tulane both won about as expected, the Crimson Tide burying Kentucky, 34-14, while Tulane was whipping Mississippi, 15-0. The Utah Aggies continued their march at Brigham Young's expense, 15-0. Stanford and Washington, meantime, remained in the Pacific Coast conference race along with Washington State. Stanford's powerful aggregation trounced U. C. L. A., 27-0, but Washington needed a fourth period touchdown to turn back Oregon State, 14-7.

Fordham's Rams and the Pittsburgh Panthers gave the east two major intersectional triumphs. Fordham, coming back in brilliant style after successive defeats by St. Mary's and Southern Methodist, nosed out Bob Neyland's Tennessee Volunteers, 13-12, while Pittsburgh's fleet backs carried the Panthers to a 19-0 conquest of Notre Dame before a capacity crowd of 64,000.

Southern teams handed two other eastern arrays their initial defeats of the campaign as George Washington dropped a heartbreaker to Vanderbilt, 7-6, and Georgetown bowed to Richmond's stirring last quarter rally, 14-13. Temple and Western Maryland, both tied once but not defeated, scored over Holy Cross, 14-0, and Catholic university, 2-0, respectively. Boston college's 6-0 setback of Villanova came under the head of a major surprise and few expected Bucknell to emerge victor over Furman, 19-0, in the Southerners' home field.

Duke and North Carolina gave the Southern conference two more victories over the Southeastern group as the Blue Devils beat Auburn, 13-6, and North Carolina snowed under Georgia Tech, 26-0. Maryland topped Virginia in a Southern conference engagement, 20-0, but South Carolina's 20-0 trouncing of Virginia Poly and Clemson's 12-6 victory over North Carolina State caused some eyebrow raising. Georgia's passing stopped Florida, 14-0.

In the Southwest, Texas A. and M. shocked the experts for the second successive week by holding Arkansas to a 7-7 tie. Southern Methodist and Texas played to another 7-7 deadlock but Texas Christian ran over Baylor, 34-0.

Northwestern finally won a ball game, beating Wisconsin, 7-0, but Iowa disappointed again in a scoreless draw with Indiana. Oklahoma routed Missouri, 31-0, while Kansas jolted Iowa State by holding the Cyclones to a scoreless tie in Big Six engagements. Oklahoma A. and M.'s 19-0 triumph over Detroit was a surprise to most.

Blocked Kick Gives Illini Scoring Break In First Period

By Charles Dunkley
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Nov. 3.—In a corral drenched with driving rain and fetlock deep in mud and water, Illinois addled the Army mule with a touchdown handicap in the first five minutes of battle today and then rode him over a spectacular finish to hang on for a 7 to 0 victory before 41,000 soaked spectators.

The Illini won with great football, but never will they forget their ride for life in the closing minutes of play when the mule kicked back even with its famous Jack Buckler relegated to the sidelines by injuries. The final mulish kick sent the Illini reeling to their own five-yard line, but they finally got their second winds and lashed the mule back to square their four-game series with Army and remain standing among the ranks of the nation's gridiron undefeated.

Illinois, forever on the alert for breaks over the treacherous gridiron, manufactured the big one that produced the victory. Engaged in a series of punt exchanges, Buckler paused with the rain and wind at his back. Through the cadet line rushed Ken Nelson, who blocked the kick. The mud-covered ball bounced toward the Army goal and Gene Dykstra recovered for the Illini and ran it to Army's 14.

Into the battle then stepped Crain Portman, who ran interference for two plays and then swung into action on the Army 12 and raced around his left end for a touchdown behind interference that toppled the cadets. The kick for the extra point was scored by Les Lindberg with Jack Beynon holding the ball.

Illinois made another big threat in the closing minutes of the second period after Sayre had intercepted one of Buckler's desperately tossed passes and ran it back to Army's 32 and even pushed over a touchdown on a 17-yard pass, Beynon to Dykstra, but it was nullified by offside.

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 3.—(AP)—Displaying powerful offensive thrusts and guarded by a line that warded off all scoring threats, North Carolina drove to a one-sided 26 to 0 victory over Georgia Tech in an inter-conference gridiron battle today.

Led by Harry Montgomery, a brother of Cliff, quarterback and captain of Columbia university's Rose Bowl gridders of 1933, the Tar Heels rolled up a 14 to 0 lead in the first half and took things easy against the Golden Tornado the rest of the way, at the same time adding two more touchdowns in the fourth period.

Georgia Tech threatened only once throughout the 60 minutes of play, driving to North Carolina's seven-yard line early in the second quarter but the Tar Heel defense stood and North Carolina took the ball on downs.

Montgomery, a junior who performed in the role of an understudy for Charlie Shaffer, regular halfback, left at home because of injuries, accounted for the first two touchdowns as he ploughed through Tech's line twice in the opening period. Each time Babe Daniel added the extra point from placement.

Midway the third period, Don Jackson, North Carolina halfback, grabbed the ball on a reverse play at the 50-yard line and followed perfect interference for a touchdown. Daniel's placekick was blocked. After an exchange of punts, the Tar Heels got the ball on Tech's 29-yard line near the end of the period. A lateral pass and a forward advanced the ball to Tech's four. A penalty put the ball on the two-yard stripe and then Jim Hutchins, North Carolina fullback, lunged through tackle for a touchdown. Daniel's placekick for the extra point was low.

Eddie Moore To Manage Atlanta Club In 1935

ATLANTA, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Appointment of Eddie Moore, aggressive little third baseman, as manager of the Atlanta club of the Southern association for 1935 was announced today by the board of directors of the Atlanta Baseball corporation.

The announcement came as no surprise to local fans for it had been considered a foregone conclusion that Moore, who was named acting manager of the Crackers near the end of the past season, and led the Atlanta club to a whirlwind finish, would be chosen.

When Wilbert Robinson, head of the Atlanta club, died early last August, Manager Spencer Abbott was named acting president and Moore was appointed acting manager. At that time the directors said the arrangement was a temporary one and that any chance of its becoming permanent depended upon the success of the experiment.

GREENIES STAGE ANOTHER SORRY FOOTBALL SHOW

Wave's Offense Bogs Down Several Times In Scoring Territory

By Ed Desobry
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

NEW ORLEANS, La., Nov. 3.—A battered and unheralded little football team from the University of Mississippi threw a scare into Tulane's highly vaunted Southeastern conference squad here today before it succumbed to superior man-power by a 15 to 0 score.

Tulane, the "luck" eleven of the conference, was clearly superior to the visitors in every department, but the Wave put on the sorriest exhibition of football seen in the local field in a decade.

The Greenies repeatedly ran the ball to the shadow of Mississippi's goal, but bad passes and worse juggling of perfect tosses robbed them of several scores.

Mississippi was almost always on the defense, and in the first half the best Tulane could do was to shove back to its own 16 yard line where Ned Peters, quarter, missed a high pass from center as he was ready to punt and Harold Memtsas, Tulane end, fell on him behind the goal for a safety.

Tulane opened up in the second half, but found the same stubborn Mississippi resistance, which broadened several times into a fine offensive centered around its pile-driving fullback, Earl Hutson, and the fleet-footed halfback, G. A. Gunter.

Tulane kept crowding up to the goal for a touchdown, but couldn't set off the scoring spark again until "Bucky" Bryan, Tulane half, took the ball in mid-field and sprinted along the edge of the field to the one-yard line where he was pulled down. "Little Monk" Simons, half, then cut around left end for the score. Simons' place kick was low.

In the fourth quarter, Joe Loftin, Tulane fullback, took the oval on the Mississippi 41-yard line and galloped for touchdown. Barney Mintz place-kicked for the extra point.

James Henderson, Tulane sub-halfback, made a pretty 60-yard run in the same quarter for a touchdown, but the play was called back and Tulane penalized 15 yards for holding.

Peters punted over Tulane's goal and the ball was given to the visitors on the five-yard line because Tulane was clipping. A penalty shoved Mississippi back to the 20-yard line and the ball finally went over after several futile thrusts before the attack.

Tulane's vaunted defense looked sorry before the attack of Mississippi, and the score would probably have

Fourth Quarter Touchdown Gives Aggies 7-7 Draw With Hogs

COLLEGE STATION, Texas, Nov. 3.—(AP)—An alert band of Texas Aggies who could not admit defeat dropped the University of Arkansas into a tie for the Southwest conference football leadership by deadlocking the invaders, 7 to 7, here today in a furious fourth-quarter rally.

The underdog Aggies, who had been punchless most of the afternoon, got their chance late in the fourth period when Elvin Geiser, veteran Arkansas back, fumbled on his own 25-yard line. Selmer Kirby, sophomore tackle from Amarillo, recovered for A. and M.

On the first play, Fowler, a southpaw, shot a pass to Stringfellow, who squirmed to the Arkansas five-yard line. Fowler dived through right tackle for four yards. The Arkansas line, a sturdy defensive array, rose in all its might and threw Fowler and Stringfellow back without gain. Fowler was hurt and Nash Thompson, junior from Fort Worth, replaced him. It was the fourth and one as Thompson plowed through right tackle for the touchdown. He kicked the tying extra point.

Until those last few minutes, it appeared as though the seven-point Razorback lead was sufficient to get them by until their home-coming test against Rice next Saturday. A 76-yard drive in the second quarter had culminated in a 23-yard touchdown pass from Al Harriss, sub back, to Paul Rucker, Arkansas' mighty end.

TOO BIG TO CART AROUND

There's slight chance that Michigan will lose its new Little (?) Brown Jug. The traditional trophy played for by the Wolverines and Minnesota each year has had the annoying habit of turning up missing after the two teams' annual clash. But the new one, shown at right alongside the original held by Henry Hatch, Michigan property man, weighs half a ton, is five feet one inch in height, and has a capacity of 264 gallons. It is to remain at Ann Arbor—unless loyal Gophers can "spirit" it away.

Minnesota Turns On Power In Last Half To Rout Wolverines

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Nov. 3.—(AP)—Bottled for two periods, Minnesota exploded the full fury of its battering, bruising attack in the last half today, to bewilder a fighting Michigan football team with a 34 to 0 triumph before a Gopher homecoming throng of 59,000.

It was the first Minnesota victory on its home field over a Michigan team since 1892 and the amazing exhibition by the Gopher backs brought back to the Maroon and Gold the Little Brown Jug, most famed of football trophies.

Kostka, the human battering ram, ripped the Wolverine line to shreds in the second half, but it was Alfonse who electrified the stands with a brilliant 76-yard run through the entire Michigan team for the Gopher's second touchdown in the third period.

A few moments before, a 38-yard pass, Lund to Maurice Johnson, Gopher end, brought the oval to Michigan's 16 and Lund, Minnesota's all-American captain, scampered sixteen yards to the goal line behind perfect interference.

The same passing play, Lund to Maurice Johnson, after Alfonse's brilliant run, netted the third Gopher score, Johnson crossing the line standing up.

With Kostka showing the way with explosive bursts through the line in the fourth period, the game became a rout as Roscoe skipped 15 yards for a touchdown, followed a few plays later by Profitt's four-yard plunge through the line for the last Minnesota score.

Independent Cagers Beat Spearsville High School

SPEARSVILLE, La., Nov. 3.—(Special)—The Spearsville high school basketball team lost its fourth game of the season when it was beaten, 31 to 26, by the Spearsville Independents here this week.

The Independents were led by J. R. Futch in their goal storming spree while D. Senn was the oustanding performer for the school team.

The high school team is not expected to make as good an impression this year as the team that was turned out by Spearsville last season but the present team will be a credit to the school, it was said, and already are getting together a schedule for their winter campaign. High school teams wishing to complete their basketball schedule are requested to write C. W. Causey here for arrangements.

Crimson Tide Runs Wild To Pile Up 21 Points In First Half

LEXINGTON, Ky., Nov. 3.—(AP)—Alabama's Crimson Tide lashed Kentucky's Wildcats for a 34 to 14 victory here today and continued its march towards a possible national championship before 12,000 spectators at Stoll field.

After his charges had taken a 21 to 0 lead in the first half with the aid of the great Dixie Howell, Coach Frank Thomas sent in his second team and followed up with some of the third string players.

Howell led Alabama's first quarter scoring drive. The All-American candidate flung a perfect pass to Hutson for 22 yards and put the oval on Kentucky's 14 yard stripe. He then crashed through the line for four yards, and Hutson went around his right end for the initial score. Smith place kicked the extra point.

A few minutes later, a pass from Howell to Angelich netted fifteen yards. Two plays later Howell ripped off 18 yards around right end and after another play Campbell, who had replaced Smith at quarterback, scored. Hutson converted.

In the second half, against the visitors' subs, the Wildcats made two consecutive first downs and a pass from Johnson to Long gained 35 yards to put them on the Tide's 11 yard line. Johnson ripped off five through tackle and Hay crashed through for two more before Johnson scored around right end. Ayers converted.

At the start of the final period, Bryant scored on a triple pass after a battering drive from Kentucky's 27 yard line. Smith's try for the extra point was wide.

The Tide clamped down from then on and scored again, on a 25 yard pass from Riley to Boozer. Only a fumble on Kentucky's 13 yard stripe kept the Tide from scoring twice in the last quarter.

VANDERBILT WINS FROM COLONIALS BY 7-TO-6 SCORE

By Dillion Graham
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—A single point, earned by a perfect kick after touchdown, spelled victory for Vanderbilt university here today and defeat for the first time this season of George Washington university, 7 to 6.

Alert to warnings of Vanderbilt's aerial barrage, the Colonial defenders broke up or intercepted the Commodores' first nine passing endeavors but the tenth, a slanting toss by Dixon to the left as he circled toward his right end, floated nine yards over the goal into Willie Geny's arms.

Dick Plasman, the six foot four inch sophomore flankman, calmly place-kicked the extra point that stood up as the Commodores' narrow but sufficient margin.

It was the charging through of this same, Plasman a few seconds before that enabled him to block Alphone (Tuffy) Leemans' kick that gave Vanderbilt possession of the ball on the nine yard line as Leo Dickison, husky guard, recovered the bouncing pigskin.

Quarterback Rand Dixon, with the ball poised in his outstretched hand, started out around right end, offering the Colonials the problem of either a sweep or a toss. Defenders covered their men around the right side but suddenly Dixon turned and whipped the ball obliquely to Geny for the score.

The Colonials came storming back as the third period opened with a pass-scoring attack that was even more surprising and spectacular than had been Vanderbilt's. Standing on his 40-yard line after a nice return of the kickoff, Leeman's—the individual star of the game—lopped a 35-yard floater to End Bill Parrish who took it on the run over his shoulder and trotted along the remaining 25 yards over an unblocked route.

Harry Deming, the big tackle whose kicking has been a big aid in other games, struck the ball slightly off angle and it whizzed away, wide of the goal posts.

Four times George Washington, showing a more powerful offensive, drove within Vanderbilt's 30-yard line but on every occasion the attack either bogged down or a pass interception halted it. Except for its single scoring thrust, Vanderbilt slipped past George Washington's 30 only once and that the result of a pass interception.

Dixon's long punts, several traveling more than 60 yards, eased Vanderbilt out of several tight spots.

Crowd Of 64,000 Watches Panthers' Spectacular Scoring Tactics

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 3.—(AP)—The golden hosts of Pittsburgh, sturdy as steel, today broke up Notre Dame's victory march, 19 to 0, but only after the hard bitten Hoosiers warned the gridiron world by their die-hard play that the stars of Notre Dame will shine again.

More than 64,000 shouting fans filled the stadium for the homecoming battle which marked the 25th anniversary of the first football battle between the schools.

After a scoreless first quarter in which Miller Munjas, Pitt field general, and Wallace Fromhart and Buddy Bonar, Notre Dame quarterbacks, probed the weak and strong spots, and a punting battle, Pitt swung into action in the second period.

Early in the second period Leon Shedlosky, substitute halfback, took Andy Pilney's punt on his 35 and weaved and sprinted 65 yards for the first touchdown of the afternoon. Izzy Weinstock was wide on his kick.

Pilney brought the fans to their feet at this juncture with successive dashes of 12 and 11 yards.

BULLDOGS HOLD HEAVIER MAJORS TO TWO SCORES

Long Pass Gives Crippled Techmen Touchdown In First Period

RUSTON, Nov. 3.—(Special)—Fighting stubbornly with every ounce of energy was all the Louisiana Tech Bulldogs could do in a great Homecoming day feature here Saturday against Millsaps, but their fine scrap failed to stop the strong Mississippians who came from behind to smash out a 13 to 7 victory over the Canines. Tech scored in the first period and made the extra point, but their crippled condition and the excess weight carried by the Majors turned the tide of battle to the visitors in the third period.

Seldom has Louisiana Tech witnessed a more impressive program of events and features carried out through the Homecoming day. Thousands of graduates thronged the campus during the day renewing old acquaintences and meeting new students.

In the afternoon a mammoth parade, headed by the queen of Homecoming, Miss Irene Taylor and her maids, Misses Jean Craighead, Sara Hammons, Frances McCarty and Pauline Forrest, wended its way through Ruston and ended at the football field. There the queen presented the football to be used during the game to the Tech captain, Harold Lowery.

An estimated crowd of 3,500 filled the stadium and witnessed the heartening fight on the field by Coach McLane's Bulldogs. For a moment before the game the stands stood silently in respect to the memory of the late S. D. Lott, father of Marcus Lott, Tech player, who died Friday.

Between halves the Tech band, led by Miss Myrtle Braswell, drum major, paraded with the white-dressed Tech cheering unit.

The game was played with a high cross wind placing a handicap on the punting as well as passing.

Hardly before the fans had settled after the opening kickoff, the Bulldogs flashed across Millsaps' goal line for the first score. After an exchange of punts in which the Techman gained 15 yards, Mitchell made a first down for Tech on a seven-yard run for the first down on Millsaps' 46-yard line.

On third down, Mitchell passed 35 yards to Cotton and the receiver sped the remaining distance across the goal line. Turner converted the point on a placement kick.

Millsaps launched a driving attack near the close of the opening period with Houston chalking up most of the yardage on spinner plays. A punt into the wind that went out of bounds gave the Majors the ball on Tech's 28-yard line and Houston gained six on the last play of the quarter.

A fake reverse the first play of the second quarter with Houston carrying the ball was good for a touchdown when the carrier fell across the goal line with Mitchell making the tackle. The try for point was blocked.

A Tech fumble recovered by Millsaps on Tech's 21-yard line almost caused a second score in this period when the Majors completed a pass to Tech's nine-yard line for first down. Three unsuccessful line bucks failed to gain a yard for the Majors and on the fourth and last down, Tech gained the ball when the visitors tried for a field goal. For the remainder of the half the Bulldogs played within their own territory and were forced to punt from their end zone several times. Once the Majors blocked a punt by Thigpen, but the kicker recovered on his own 10-yard line.

A pass, Swayze to Sneed, midway in the third quarter gave the Majors a 29-yard gain at the Tech's 30-yard line. Houston tried spinner after spinner to bring the ball up on successive first down to the Tech six-yard line and Houston carried it over from there. Womack made the extra point from placement.

Tech's two chances of scoring in the last half started with Deas recovering a Millsaps' fumble on the Majors' 36-yard line. Millsaps stopped a passing attack and the effort failed to bring a score. Thigpen put the visitors in a tough spot by kicking 50 yards to the Millsaps' 12-yard line shortly after and the ball was killed at that point. After a short gain, Millsaps was penalized back to their own two-yard line and on the punt out the ball went out on Tech's 20-yard line. A pass series was broken up by Millsaps and the Majors gained the ball when a punt went into their end zone.

Millsaps was in possession of the ball on their own 33-yard line when the game ended.

Southerners Outplay Rams But Lose By Score Of 13 To 12

By Bob Cavagnaro
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

POLO GROUNDS, NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—(AP)—After wallowing in the depths of defeat for two weeks Fordham's football team combined power with deception today and scored a 13 to 12 victory over a game and desperate University of Tennessee eleven before a crowd of 25,000.

Tony Sarausky led Fordham to a brilliant triumph over the southern Volunteers in a remarkable form upset made possible by Sarausky's 61-yard run for a touchdown.

In every detail of the game with the exception of kicking, in which Sarausky excelled with some punts that spiralled 65 yards, the Vols outplayed and outmaneuvered Fordham.

Midway through the first quarter from Tennessee's 36-yard line Sarausky flipped a short forward to End Leo Paquin who in turn threw a lateral to Captain Lester Borden, to score. Sarausky converted a placement for the extra point.

Using good, old-fashioned football methods, the Vols took the ball on their own 28 and with Bill Lippe and Phil Dickens, a pair of reserve ball-toters, carrying the ball most of the way, staged a 72-yard drive to a touchdown. The Fordham line was completely squashed by the southern steamroller. Dorsey missed the kick for the try for an extra point.

Charlie Vaughan, the Vols' great halfback, threw a 30-yard pass into the waiting arms of Fullback Ed Palmer, who stepped over the goal line for the Vols' second score and a 12-7 lead as Craig, this time, missed the kick from placement.

Fordham's forces appeared doomed to another intersectional defeat until on the first play in the last quarter when Sarausky, from punt formation, ran around his right end and with two Tennessee players on his shoulders part of the way, galloped 61 yards to a touchdown and missed the try from placement.

Trailing by a point, the Vols fought back and appeared headed for a touchdown until Vaughan was abruptly removed from the game by Umpire John Pitts.

It was the Vols' last down and Vaughan had skirted his left end for a gain of eight yards and what he thought was a first down. Referee J. P. Eagan ruled he missed the mark by half-a-foot and Vaughan heaved the ball at him and then was heaved from the game.

Purdue Stops Chicago's Comeback March, 26-20

CHICAGO, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Those famous "touchdown twins" from Purdue, Duane Purvis and Jimmy Carter, wrecked Chicago's gridiron comeback march today, but only after a raging battle with a pair of Maroon score makers, Jay Berwanger and Tiny Tommy Flinn.

The score, after the most dazzling offensive struggle of the Big Ten season, was Purdue 26, Chicago 20.

A crowd of 32,000 was just nicely seated when the Carter half of the "twin" combination scored. Purvis' passes had set the stage, a few moments later Carter burst through the Chicago line, and outran the Maroon secondary to complete a sixty yard touchdown journey.

The shock of two period touchdowns brought the Maroons to life. On the first play of the second period, Berwanger fired a 21-yard pass to Flinn who ran six yards to score. Late in the same session, Berwanger tossed again to Flinn for 22 yards. This time the tiny quarterback scampered 45 yards to score.

Just before the end of the period Purvis' arm put the Boilermakers back in the lead with a 35 yard pass to Haas, who had only to step over the goal line.

WILDCATS BEAT S'WESTERN, 12-7

Louisiana College Breaks Bulldogs' Three-Year Winning Streak

ALEXANDRIA, La., Nov. 3.—(AP)—Louisiana college broke Southwestern Louisiana's three-year winning streak in Pineville tonight when the Wildcats turned back the Bulldogs, 12 to 7, in a battle of passes. It was homecoming day and 4,500 saw the battle.

Frank Whatley, Leesville sophomore, tallied both touchdowns for the Cats on plunges through the line in the second quarter after the Cats had completed passes to place the ball in scoring position.

S. L. I. scored first on a pass, Cella to Jeansonne. The pass was good for 20 yards and Jeansonne ran the remaining distance across the goal line. Honeycutt booted the point.

Southwestern chalked up 11 first downs to the Cats' 7 and kept the ball in Wildcat territory in the third and fourth quarters, threatening repeatedly.

The victory gave the Cats six contests in the last thirteen played by the two schools. S. L. I.'s veteran club, composed almost entirely of seniors, had beaten the Cats three straight years. This was the first S. I. A. A. victory for the husky Pineville sophomores.

RAYVILLE BEATS DELHI, 14 TO 6

Hornets Chalk Up First Victory Of Year Against Old Rivals

RAYVILLE, Nov. 3.—(Special)—The Rayville Hornets won their first victory of the session Friday when they defeated the strong Delhi Bears 14-6.

The scoring was done in the first half. Rayville scored first as a result of a long pass from Earle to Greer, which put the ball in scoring distance, and was carried over by Connell. Earle passed to Rainer for the extra point. A few plays later the Hornets recovered a Bear fumble deep in the Bear's territory, and Earle raced around end for a touchdown, on the first play. He then kicked the extra point.

With two minutes to play in the first half the Rayville substitutes went in to relieve the regulars and the Bears completed a long pass to the three-yard line and from there they scored on the fourth play. They failed to make the extra point as the half ended.

The last half was a real battle with both teams trying hard to again drive the ball across the goal. The Bears turned loose a regular barrage of passes that threatened the Hornets throughout the half. The Hornets also threatened several times with a strong running attack.

Rayville's star fullback, Earle, was again the best back on the field. Greer, who is playing his first year, was also a star performer. Captain Kalil played his usual great game at center.

Bruce was the big threat for the Bears and his all around play was dangerous at all times. Ingram and Woods also starred in the Bears' backfield and on the line.

Middlekauff Meets Harbin In Main Event Wednesday Night

FORMER FLORIDA GRID STAR WILL OPPOSE GEORGIAN

Bruscato Trying To Book Billy Sledge For Semi-Final Bout

Bill Middlekauff, the 235-pound former all-America football star from Florida subdued husky Jack McCarthy in straight falls last week, will meet George Harbin, 219, of Chamblee, Ga., in the main event of the weekly mat show at Roosevelt stadium Wednesday night, Promoter Charlie Bruscato announced last night.

Middlekauff made an impressive debut here last week in defeating McCarthy. In fact, it was about as good an exhibition as has been staged here in some time. The former football star is exceptionally fast for his size, and he apparently knows all the holds. He uses his long legs and his great strength to excellent advantage.

Middlekauff won all-America honors in 1926, when Florida's great team included Van Sickle, an all-America end; Crabtree, Newton and other outstanding performers. Bill was named on the first team of two all-America selections and won honorable mention on all the others.

Harbin will spot Middlekauff some 16 pounds but his record indicates that he can do that safely and still stand a good chance to knock off the Floridan. It will be Harbin's first appearance here.

According to advance dope, the Georgian is plenty fast and will make Middlekauff step. He can be tough when the occasion demands, and he also can take it, according to Art Mondt, the Beaumont matchmaker who handles that end of the business for Bruscato. Harbin has an impressive record, having defeated some of the best boys who are now working in the south and southwest.

Bruscato also announced that he is attempting to bring Billy Sledge back here for Wednesday's semi-final. Sledge, who also is a former football star, having won all-Southwest conference honors while a member of the Rice institute team several years ago, also won in straight falls last week. He has won quite a following here and undoubtedly will help "pack 'em in" if he is booked for the Wednesday show. However, it isn't definite that he can be booked, Bruscato said.

Both bouts will be the usual best two out of three falls, with a two-hour time limit on the main event and the semi-final limited to one hour. Officials for the show have not been announced.

FAVORITES WIN IN SOUTHEASTERN

Leaders Encounter Little Difficulties In Saturday Schedule

(By Associated Press)

Southeastern conference football Saturday saw favorites rolling along without serious difficulties as Alabama, Louisiana State, Georgia and Tulane trampled opposition.

The Crimson Tide from Alabama took Kentucky 34 to 14 with the Wildcats showing new ability to score. It was the fifth straight conference victory for the undefeated Alabamians.

Huey Long's Louisiana State Tigers, tied with Alabama for the leadership in the Southeastern group, played at night against Mississippi State. L. S. U. won handily.

At Jacksonville, Fla., the University of Georgia tripped the University of Florida 14 to 0 and at New Orleans Tulane handed Mississippi a 15 to 0 drubbing, with the big Green Wave doing nothing spectacular until the latter stage of the conflict.

Tennessee and Vanderbilt stepped into intersectional combat with Vandy nosing out George Washington 7 to 6 and Tennessee losing to Fordham by 13 to 12.

In the two interconference games, the powerful Blue Devils of Duke university of the Southern conference took a fall out of Auburn of the Southeastern 13 to 6, overcoming an early Auburn lead. North Carolina of the Southern rapped Georgia Tech 26 to 0, showing even more drive than previously.

Sewanee barely won from Tennessee Tech 7 to 6.

Colored High Bulldogs Wallop Arcadia Eleven

Showing improved form in running and blocking the revamped Monroe colored high school Bulldogs crushed the highly touted Arcadia Tigers under an avalanche of 5 points. The local team held the Tigers to one first down. The Arcadia eleven was entirely outclassed.

Clifford Scott, brilliant first year end recently converted into a halfback, was the spark of the Bulldog attack. Scott scored the first touchdown three minutes after the opening whistle on a 55-yard dash through the line. Perfect blocking aided him on his jaunt. Scott and John L. Welch scored three touchdowns each. Welch added three extra points to Scott's two.

The Bulldogs seemed to have gained the form necessary for their stiff battle with the Merill high school Tigers of Pine Bluff, Ark., on November 12. The Arkansas school team has twice been national scholastic champions.

L. S. U. INVADES EAST THIS WEEK

Jones Risks Brilliant Record Against George Washington

BATON ROUGE, La., Nov. 3.—(Special)—Capt. Lawrence (Biff) Jones' Louisiana State Tigers, who have not lost a football game since 1931, will make their first eastern invasion in three years this week when they journey to Washington for a clash with the heavy Geo. Washington Colonials.

Just what a fine job the former West Pointer has done in the bayou country can be seen from a glance at his record. Capt. Jones has not lost a conference game since he took the reins here three years ago; his charges went through a tough ten-game campaign last year without defeat and are undefeated thus far this fall, making it 16 straight battles with their "flag still flying." Last year's eleven was the first Jones-coached team to go through undefeated.

Dispell any doubts you may have about the opposition not being there. Anytime you run into teams like Tulane, Tennessee, Rice, Southern Methodist, Centenary, Vanderbilt and Arkansas you are inviting plenty of trouble.

The only ball club to hold the Tigers scoreless in two years was the gallant Centenary Gentlemen of 1933, and they were aided by an off-sides ruling that called an L. S. U. touchdown back. The Bengals have scored two or more touchdowns on all their opponents, save Rice, this fall. The powerful Owls, present leaders in the Southwest, held L. S. U. to nine points in the season's opener.

The Bengal defense has been just as brilliant. No team has scored more than two touchdowns against L. S. U. since the arrival of Jones. The best any team could do in 1933 was seven points. S. M. U. scored 14 points this fall in tying the Tigers, but such teams as the veteran Arkansas squad, 1933 Southwest champion, and Vanderbilt never got inside the Tigers' 20-yard stripe.

Princeton Scores Late To Beat Harvard, 19-0

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 3.—(AP)—Princeton came back to the football wars with Harvard today, after a lapse of eight years and celebrated the end of an historic gridiron feud by whipping the gallant but powerless Crimson team, 19 to 0.

For three periods, Harvard's courageous and unexpectedly effective defense stemmed the flood-tide of Princeton power and thrilled a crowd of 35,000, one of the smallest that has seen these old rivals meet in 30 years. For three-quarters of the game, this subborn Crimson team held the burly sons of Old Nassau to a single touchdown, turning back no less than eight other menacing marches, but the wary sons of John Harvard weakened and were swamped in the final period.

The steadily applied pressure of Princeton's steam roller attack, combining an aerial barrage with smashing line plays, broke down Harvard's resistance and produced two touchdowns in the last quarter.

TEXAS, S. M. U. BATTLE TO TIE

Longhorns Score Early But Are Unable To Protect Their Lead

AUSTIN, Tex., Nov. 3.—(AP)—The University of Texas and Southern Methodist university deadlocked at 7-7 today in a Southwest conference game.

Texas scored shortly after the game opened and place kicked the extra point. For nearly three periods the Texans fought doggedly to stave a charging Southern Methodist attack but faltered in the closing minutes of the third period and Bobby Wilson, phantom triple threat Mustang back, slashed around his right end, cut back through a gaping hole in the secondary and rambled 31 yards for a touchdown. Orr tied the count with a place kick.

Texas lost no time in pushing over a touchdown. Hadlock broke through left tackle for a first down on the Pony 21 and then passed to Pitzer for another first down on the Mustang eight-yard line. Hadlock threw himself at the center of the Mustang line but fumbled as he crossed the goal and Coates, Texas center, fell on the ball for the touchdown. Hadlock place kicked the extra point.

PLANS MADE FOR VICKSBURG TRAIN

Neville Students And Supporters To Make Holiday Trip Friday

Neville high school's plans for a special train invasion of Vicksburg, Miss., when the Neville Tigers engage the Carr high school eleven of Vicksburg there Friday, were nearing completion yesterday as pledges from students and fans who wish to make the trip began to come in.

However, the quota required before the special train can be chartered is still short, and W. C. Spight, who, in cooperation with the Neville student council, is in charge of arrangements for the invasion, said last night that at least 150 prospective passengers for the special would have to make deposits for the trip by Tuesday or plans for the special would be discarded.

Round trip rates for the affair, which will last practically all afternoon and part of the night and include a tour of the National Memorial park and an inspection of the government's flood protection project, were announced at $1.45 for adults and 75c for students under 11 years of age.

If the train is secured, school is expected to close at 11:30 a.m. Friday and the train will leave here at 1 p.m. The tour of the park and city will take place as soon as the students and fans arrive at Vicksburg. Immediately after the game, which is scheduled to be played at night, the special will start home.

CHOCTAWS LOSE TO CHATTANOOGA

Heavier Moccasin Eleven Scores Twice To Win At Jackson

JACKSON, Miss., Nov. 3.—(AP)—The University of Chattanooga's powerful Moccasins won a hard-fought Dixie conference football game here today from a lighter but scrappy Mississippi college eleven, 13 to 0.

In the final period the Tribesmen, led by Craft and Hitt, pushed the ball deep into Chattanooga territory twice, only to lose it, once through a fumble and again on downs.

DUKE WINS FROM AUBURN, 13 TO 6

Blue Devils Score Twice In Fourth Period For Close Victory

BIRMINGHAM, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Duke university's Blue Devils won a fourth period victory over the Plainsmen of Alabama Polytechnic institute, 13 to 6, in a drenching rain here today.

Not until the fourth period did Duke capitalize on the breaks. Kilgore fumbled as the period ended on his own 29, and Duke recovered.

Parker, Cornelius and Alexander in the three line plunges made seven yards. Then Parker faded back for the first attempted Blue Devil pass to Cornelius for 15 yards and the speedy halfback sprinted seven yards to a touchdown.

CENTENARY BEATS OUACHITA TIGERS IN HARD BATTLE

Gentlemen Score But Eight Points Against Arkansas Eleven

SHREVEPORT, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Centenary college Gentlemen battered down a stubborn defense furnished by the Ouachita college Tigers of Arkadelphia, Ark., today and won, 8-0, turning in their fourth consecutive victory this season.

The Tigers had only one opportunity to score, but it was wasted when Arnett dropped a pass from Perry on the Centenary 10-yard line in the last quarter, after he had eluded the Gents' safety man and was in the open.

Captain Buddy Parker, hard-driving Maroon and White fullback, who gained 98 yards on 19 plays despite the strong defense of the opposition, scored Centenary's touchdown on a four-yard plunge. Parker failed to gain on three previous trials and the touchdown ended a march of 70 yards that featured Eddie Townson in the role of ground gainer.

The Gents scored their safety in the third period after they had been twice held for downs within the Tigers' five-yard mark. Roy White attempted to punt from behind his own goal line and Fred Williams blocked the kick. The ball rolled out of bounds in the end zone and went as a safety for the Shreveport collegians.

Centenary lost a scoring chance in the first quarter when L. Corkle fumbled on the Tigers' nine yard stripe, following a march of 41 yards. They were checked on the Tigers' 15 in the fourth quarter when Captain Parker fumbled and J. Floyd recovered. It ended a 70-yard march for the Gents.

Columbia Beats Stubborn Grayson Eleven, 21 To 0

COLUMBIA, La., Nov. 3.—(Special)—In a clean but listless game Columbia subdued a fighting Grayson eleven Friday at Columbia, 21 to 0. The game went through the first quarter with Columbia hammering away for good gains but not enough to score. Grayson was not being moved without a struggle.

The second quarter saw Columbia coming out of its lethargy to score, after Victor Adams, Culpepper, and Gordon Adams, alternating smoothly behind a harder charging line, marched the ball 65 yards down the field, Gordon Adams going over standing up from the 7 yard line.

In the third quarter Gordon Adams again went over standing up and Culpepper bucked through for the extra point. Grayson again received the kickoff, was held for downs, punted to Victor Adams on his own 40 yard line, and he ran the ball back for 30 yards, from where the ball was worked down to a score by straight football, Gordon Adams again going over.

Archeologists have found a pocket-knife with a folding blade which is estimated to be more than 1,000 years old in excavations near Arnau, East Prussia.

Long Pass Gives Crippled Techmen Touchdown In First Period

RUSTON, Nov. 3.—(Special)—Fighting stubbornly with every ounce of energy was all the Louisiana Tech Bulldogs could do in a great Homecoming day feature here Saturday against Millsaps, but their fine scrap failed to stop the strong Mississippians who came from behind to smash out a 13 to 7 victory over the Canines. Tech scored in the first period and made the extra point, but their crippled condition and the excess weight carried by the Majors turned the tide of battle to the visitors in the third period.

Seldom has Louisiana Tech witnessed a more impressive program of events and features carried out through the Homecoming day. Thousands of graduates thronged the campus during the day renewing old acquaintences and meeting new students.

In the afternoon a mammoth parade, headed by the queen of Homecoming, Miss Irene Taylor and her maids, Misses Jean Craighead, Sara Hammons, Frances McCarty and Pauline Forrest, wended its way through Ruston and ended at the football field. There the queen presented the football to be used during the game to the Tech captain, Harold Lowery.

An estimated crowd of 3,500 filled the stadium and witnessed the heartening fight on the field by Coach McLane's Bulldogs. For a moment before the game the stands stood silently in respect to the memory of the late S. D. Lott, father of Marcus Lott, Tech player, who died Friday.

Between halves the Tech band, led by Miss Myrtle Braswell, drum major, paraded with the white-dressed Tech cheering unit.

The game was played with a high cross wind placing a handicap on the punting as well as passing.

Hardly before the fans had settled after the opening kickoff, the Bulldogs flashed across Millsaps' goal line for the first score. After an exchange of punts in which the Techman gained 15 yards, Mitchell made a first down for Tech on a seven-yard run for the first down on Millsaps' 46-yard line.

On third down, Mitchell passed 35 yards to Cotton and the receiver sped the remaining distance across the goal line. Turner converted the point on a placement kick.

Millsaps launched a driving attack near the close of the opening period with Houston chalking up most of the yardage on spinner plays. A punt into the wind that went out of bounds gave the Majors the ball on Tech's 28-yard line and Houston gained six on the last play of the quarter.

A fake reverse the first play of the second quarter with Houston carrying the ball was good for a touchdown when the carrier fell across the goal line with Mitchell making the tackle. The try for point was blocked.

A Tech fumble recovered by Millsaps on Tech's 21-yard line almost caused a second score in this period when the Majors completed a pass to Tech's nine-yard line for first down. Three unsuccessful line bucks failed to gain a yard for the Majors and on the fourth and last down, Tech gained the ball when the visitors tried for a field goal. For the remainder of the half the Bulldogs played within their own territory and were forced to punt from their end zone several times. Once the Majors blocked a punt by Thigpen, but the kicker recovered on his own 10-yard line.

A pass, Swayze to Sneed, midway in the third quarter gave the Majors a 29-yard gain at the Tech's 30-yard line. Houston tried spinner after spinner to bring the ball up on successive first down to the Tech six-yard line and Houston carried it over from there. Womack made the extra point from placement.

Tech's two chances of scoring in the last half started with Deas recovering a Millsaps' fumble on the Majors' 36-yard line. Millsaps stopped a passing attack and the effort failed to bring a score. Thigpen put the visitors in a tough spot by kicking 50 yards to the Millsaps' 12-yard line shortly after and the ball was killed at that point. After a short gain, Millsaps was penalized back to their own two-yard line and on the punt out the ball went out on Tech's 20-yard line. A pass series was broken up by Millsaps and the Majors gained the ball when a punt went into their end zone.

Southerners Outplay Rams But Lose By Score Of 13 To 12

By Bob Cavagnaro
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

POLO GROUNDS, NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—(AP)—After wallowing in the depths of defeat for two weeks Fordham's football team combined power with deception today and scored a 13 to 12 victory over a game and desperate University of Tennessee eleven before a crowd of 25,000.

Tony Sarausky led Fordham to a brilliant triumph over the southern Volunteers in a remarkable form upset made possible by Sarausky's 61-yard run for a touchdown.

In every detail of the game with the exception of kicking, in which Sarausky excelled with some punts that spiralled 65 yards, the Vols outplayed and outmaneuvered Fordham.

Midway through the first quarter from Tennessee's 36-yard line Sarausky flipped a short forward to End Leo Paquin who in turn threw a lateral to Captain Lester Borden, to score. Sarausky converted a placement for the extra point.

Using good, old-fashioned football methods, the Vols took the ball on their own 28 and with Bill Lippe and Phil Dickens, a pair of reserve balltoters, carrying the ball most of the way, staged a 72-yard drive to a touchdown. The Fordham line was completely squashed by the southern steamroller. Dorsey missed the kick for the try for an extra point.

Charlie Vaughan, the Vols' great halfback, threw a 30-yard pass into the waiting arms of Fullback Ed Palmer, who stepped over the goal line for the Vols' second score and a 12-7 lead as Craig, this time, missed the kick from placement.

Fordham's forces appeared doomed to another intersectional defeat until on the first play in the last quarter when Sarausky, from punt formation, ran around his right end and with two Tennessee players on his shoulders part of the way, galloped 61 yards to a touchdown and missed the try from placement.

Trailing by a point, the Vols fought back and appeared headed for a touchdown until Vaughan was abruptly removed from the game by Umpire John Pitts.

It was the Vols' last down and Vaughan had skirted his left end for a gain of eight yards and what he thought was a first down. Referee J. P. Eagan ruled he missed the mark by half-a-foot and Vaughan heaved the ball at him and then was heaved from the game.

Purdue Stops Chicago's Comeback March, 26-20

CHICAGO, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Those famous "touchdown twins" from Purdue, Duane Purvis and Jimmy Carter, wrecked Chicago's gridiron comeback march today, but only after a raging battle with a pair of Maroon score makers, Jay Berwanger and Tiny Tommy Flinn.

The score, after the most dazzling offensive struggle of the Big Ten season, was Purdue 26, Chicago 20.

A crowd of 32,000 was just nicely seated when the Carter half of the "twin" combination scored. Purvis' passes had set the stage, a few moments later Carter burst through the Chicago line, and outran the Maroon secondary to complete a sixty yard touchdown journey.

The shock of two period touchdowns brought the Maroons to life. On the first play of the second period, Berwanger fired a 21-yard pass to Flinn who ran six yards to score. Late in the same session, Berwanger tossed again to Flinn for 22 yards. This time the tiny quarterback scampered 45 yards to score.

Just before the end of the period Purvis' arm put the Boilermakers back in the lead with a 35 yard pass to Haas, who had only to step over the goal line.

Louisiana College Breaks Bulldogs' Three-Year Winning Streak

ALEXANDRIA, La., Nov. 3.—(AP)—Louisiana college broke Southwestern Louisiana's three-year winning streak in Pineville tonight when the Wildcats turned back the Bulldogs, 12 to 7, in a battle of passes. It was homecoming day and 4,500 saw the battle.

Frank Whatley, Leesville sophomore, tallied both touchdowns for the Cats on plunges through the line in the second quarter after the Cats had completed passes to place the ball in scoring position.

S. L. I. scored first on a pass, Cella to Jeansonne. The pass was good for 20 yards and Jeansonne ran the remaining distance across the goal line. Honeycutt booted the point.

Southwestern chalked up 11 first downs to the Cats' 7 and kept the ball in Wildcat territory in the third and fourth quarters, threatening repeatedly.

The victory gave the Cats six contests in the last thirteen played by the two schools. S. L. I.'s veteran club, composed almost entirely of seniors, had beaten the Cats three straight years. This was the first S. I. A. A. victory for the husky Pineville sophomores.

RAYVILLE BEATS DELHI, 14 TO 6

Hornets Chalk Up First Victory Of Year Against Old Rivals

RAYVILLE, Nov. 3.—(Special)—The Rayville Hornets won their first victory of the session Friday when they defeated the strong Delhi Bears 14-6.

The scoring was done in the first half. Rayville scored first as a result of a long pass from Earle to Greer, which put the ball in scoring distance, and was carried over by Connell. Earle passed to Rainer for the extra point. A few plays later the Hornets recovered a Bear fumble deep in the Bear's territory, and Earle raced around end for a touchdown, on the first play. He then kicked the extra point.

With two minutes to play in the first half the Rayville substitutes went in to relieve the regulars and the Bears completed a long pass to the three-yard line and from there they scored on the fourth play. They failed to make the extra point as the half ended.

The last half was a real battle with both teams trying hard to again drive the ball across the goal. The Bears turned loose a regular barrage of passes that threatened the Hornets throughout the half. The Hornets also threatened several times with a strong running attack.

Rayville's star fullback, Earle, was again the best back on the field. Greer, who is playing his first year, was also a star performer. Captain Kalil played his usual great game at center.

Bruce was the big threat for the Bears and his all around play was dangerous at all times. Ingram and Woods also starred in the Bears' backfield and on the line.

FORMER FLORIDA GRID STAR WILL OPPOSE GEORGIAN

Bruscato Trying To Book Billy Sledge For Semi-Final Bout

Bill Middlekauff, the 235-pound former all-America football star from Florida subdued husky Jack McCarthy in straight falls last week, will meet George Harbin, 219, of Chamblee, Ga., in the main event of the weekly mat show at Roosevelt stadium Wednesday night, Promoter Charlie Bruscato announced last night.

Middlekauff made an impressive debut here last week in defeating McCarthy. In fact, it was about as good an exhibition as has been staged here in some time. The former football star is exceptionally fast for his size, and he apparently knows all the holds. He uses his long legs and his great strength to excellent advantage.

Middlekauff won all-America honors in 1926, when Florida's great team included Van Sickle, an all-America end; Crabtree, Newton and other outstanding performers. Bill was named on the first team of two all-America selections and won honorable mention on all the others.

Harbin will spot Middlekauff some 16 pounds but his record indicates that he can do that safely and still stand a good chance to knock off the Floridan. It will be Harbin's first appearance here.

According to advance dope, the Georgian is plenty fast and will make Middlekauff step. He can be tough when the occasion demands, and he also can take it, according to Art Mondt, the Beaumont matchmaker who handles that end of the business for Bruscato. Harbin has an impressive record, having defeated some of the best boys who are now working in the south and southwest.

Bruscato also announced that he is attempting to bring Billy Sledge back here for Wednesday's semi-final. Sledge, who also is a former football star, having won all-Southwest conference honors while a member of the Rice institute team several years ago, also won in straight falls last week. He has won quite a following here and undoubtedly will help "pack 'em in" if he is booked for the Wednesday show. However, it isn't definite that he can be booked, Bruscato said.

Both bouts will be the usual best two out of three falls, with a two-hour time limit on the main event and the semi-final limited to one hour. Officials for the show have not been announced.

FAVORITES WIN IN SOUTHEASTERN

Leaders Encounter Little Difficulties In Saturday Schedule

(By Associated Press)

Southeastern conference football Saturday saw favorites rolling along without serious difficulties as Alabama, Louisiana State, Georgia and Tulane trampled opposition.

The Crimson Tide from Alabama took Kentucky 34 to 14 with the Wildcats showing new ability to score. It was the fifth straight conference victory for the undefeated Alabamians.

Huey Long's Louisiana State Tigers, tied with Alabama for the leadership in the Southeastern group, played at night against Mississippi State. L. S. U. won handily.

At Jacksonville, Fla., the University of Georgia tripped the University of Florida 14 to 0 and at New Orleans Tulane handed Mississippi a 15 to 0 drubbing, with the big Green Wave doing nothing spectacular until the latter stage of the conflict.

Tennessee and Vanderbilt stepped into intersectional combat with Vandy nosing out George Washington 7 to 6 and Tennessee losing to Fordham by 13 to 12.

In the two interconference games, the powerful Blue Devils of Duke university of the Southern conference took a fall out of Auburn of the Southeastern 13 to 6, overcoming an early Auburn lead. North Carolina of the Southern rapped Georgia Tech 26 to 0, showing even more drive than previously.

Sewanee barely won from Tennessee Tech 7 to 6.

Colored High Bulldogs Wallop Arcadia Eleven

Showing improved form in running and blocking the revamped Monroe colored high school Bulldogs crushed the highly touted Arcadia Tigers under an avalanche of 5 points. The local team held the Tigers to one first down. The Arcadia eleven was entirely outclassed.

Clifford Scott, brilliant first year end recently converted into a halfback, was the spark of the Bulldog attack. Scott scored the first touchdown three minutes after the opening whistle on a 55-yard dash through the line. Perfect blocking aided him on his jaunt. Scott and John L. Welch scored three touchdowns each. Welch added three extra points to Scott's two.

The Bulldogs seemed to have gained the form necessary for their stiff battle with the Merill high school Tigers of Pine Bluff, Ark., on November 12. The Arkansas school team has twice been national scholastic champions.

L. S. U. INVADES EAST THIS WEEK

Jones Risks Brilliant Record Against George Washington

BATON ROUGE, La., Nov. 3.—(Special)—Capt. Lawrence (Biff) Jones' Louisiana State Tigers, who have not lost a football game since 1931, will make their first eastern invasion in three years this week when they journey to Washington for a clash with the heavy Geo. Washington Colonials.

Just what a fine job the former West Pointer has done in the bayou country can be seen from a glance at his record. Capt. Jones has not lost a conference game since he took the reins here three years ago; his charges went through a tough ten-game campaign last year without defeat and are undefeated thus far this fall, making it 16 straight battles with their "flag still flying." Last year's eleven was the first Jones-coached team to go through undefeated.

Dispell any doubts you may have about the opposition not being there. Anytime you run into teams like Tulane, Tennessee, Rice, Southern Methodist, Centenary, Vanderbilt and Arkansas you are inviting plenty of trouble.

The only ball club to hold the Tigers scoreless in two years was the gallant Centenary Gentlemen of 1933, and they were aided by an off-sides ruling that called an L. S. U. touchdown back. The Bengals have scored two or more touchdowns on all their opponents, save Rice, this fall. The powerful Owls, present leaders in the Southwest, held L. S. U. to nine points in the season's opener.

The Bengal defense has been just as brilliant. No team has scored more than two touchdowns against L. S. U. since the arrival of Jones. The best any team could do in 1933 was seven points. S. M. U. scored 14 points this fall in tying the Tigers, but such teams as the veteran Arkansas squad, 1933 Southwest champion, and Vanderbilt never got inside the Tigers' 20-yard stripe.

Princeton Scores Late To Beat Harvard, 19-0

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 3.—(AP)—Princeton came back to the football wars with Harvard today, after a lapse of eight years and celebrated the end of an historic gridiron feud by whipping the gallant but powerless Crimson team, 19 to 0.

For three periods, Harvard's courageous and unexpectedly effective defense stemmed the flood-tide of Princeton power and thrilled a crowd of 35,000, one of the smallest that has seen these old rivals meet in 30 years. For three-quarters of the game, this subborn Crimson team held the burly sons of Old Nassau to a single touchdown, turning back no less than eight other menacing marches, but the wary sons of John Harvard weakened and were swamped in the final period.

The steadily applied pressure of Princeton's steam roller attack, combining an aerial barrage with smashing line plays, broke down Harvard's resistance and produced two touchdowns in the last quarter.

TEXAS, S. M. U. BATTLE TO TIE

Longhorns Score Early But Are Unable To Protect Their Lead

AUSTIN, Tex., Nov. 3.—(AP)—The University of Texas and Southern Methodist university deadlocked at 7-7 today in a Southwest conference game.

Texas scored shortly after the game opened and place kicked the extra point. For nearly three periods the Texans fought doggedly to stave a charging Southern Methodist attack but faltered in the closing minutes of the third period and Bobby Wilson, phantom triple threat Mustang back, slashed around his right end, cut back through a gaping hole in the secondary and rambled 31 yards for a touchdown. Orr tied the count with a place kick.

Texas lost no time in pushing over a touchdown. Hadlock broke through left tackle for a first down on the Pony 21 and then passed to Pitzer for another first down on the Mustang eight-yard line. Hadlock threw himself at the center of the Mustang line but fumbled as he crossed the goal and Coates, Texas center, fell on the ball for the touchdown. Hadlock place kicked the extra point.

Neville Students And Supporters To Make Holiday Trip Friday

Neville high school's plans for a special train invasion of Vicksburg, Miss., when the Neville Tigers engage the Carr high school eleven of Vicksburg there Friday, were nearing completion yesterday as pledges from students and fans who wish to make the trip began to come in.

However, the quota required before the special train can be chartered is still short, and W. C. Spight, who, in cooperation with the Neville student council, is in charge of arrangements for the invasion, said last night that at least 150 prospective passengers for the special would have to make deposits for the trip by Tuesday or plans for the special would be discarded.

Round trip rates for the affair, which will last practically all afternoon and part of the night and include a tour of the National Memorial park and an inspection of the government's flood protection project, were announced at $1.45 for adults and 75c for students under 11 years of age.

If the train is secured, school is expected to close at 11:30 a.m. Friday and the train will leave here at 1 p.m. The tour of the park and city will take place as soon as the students and fans arrive at Vicksburg. Immediately after the game, which is scheduled to be played at night, the special will start home.

CHOCTAWS LOSE TO CHATTANOOGA

Heavier Moccasin Eleven Scores Twice To Win At Jackson

JACKSON, Miss., Nov. 3.—(AP)—The University of Chattanooga's powerful Moccasins won a hard-fought Dixie conference football game here today from a lighter but scrappy Mississippi college eleven, 13 to 0.

The Moccasins, carrying a decided weight advantage, drove 40 yards through the Choctaw line in the second period for their first touchdown, Nelson Hinds, fleet Moccasin halfback, carrying the ball over from the two-yard marker.

Chattanooga scored again early in the fourth period when Hinds intercepted a Choctaw pass on his own 43-yard line and cut through the entire Mississippi college team, crossing the goal line unmolested.

In the final period the Tribesmen, led by Craft and Hitt, pushed the ball deep into Chattanooga territory twice, only to lose it, once through a fumble and again on downs.

First downs were evenly divided, each team marking up ten, while the Choctaws held a slight advantage in yards gained from scrimmage.

Blue Devils Score Twice In Fourth Period For Close Victory

BIRMINGHAM, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Duke university's Blue Devils won a fourth period victory over the Plainsmen of Alabama Polytechnic institute, 13 to 6, in a drenching rain here today.

In the second period Auburn's Mutt Morris recovered Alexander's fumble of a bad pass from center on Duke's 13. Karam made a yard at right tackle, and Whitten made three at right end. Karam then sliced right tackle for nine yards and a touchdown. A bad pass from center with the slippery ball, prevented an attempted conversion.

Not until the fourth period did Duke capitalize on the breaks. Kilgore fumbled as the period ended on his own 29, and Duke recovered.

Parker, Cornelius and Alexander in the three line plunges made seven yards. Then Parker faded back for the first attempted Blue Devil pass to Cornelius for 15 yards and the speedy halfback sprinted seven yards to a touchdown.

Gentlemen Score But Eight Points Against Arkansas Eleven

SHREVEPORT, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Centenary college Gentlemen battered down a stubborn defense furnished by the Ouachita college Tigers of Arkadelphia, Ark., today and won, 8-0, turning in their fourth consecutive victory this season.

The Tigers had only one opportunity to score, but it was wasted when Arnett dropped a pass from Perry on the Centenary 10-yard line in the last quarter, after he had eluded the Gents' safety man and was in the open.

Captain Buddy Parker, hard-driving Maroon and White fullback, who gained 98 yards on 19 plays despite the strong defense of the opposition, scored Centenary's touchdown on a four-yard plunge. Parker failed to gain on three previous trials and the touchdown ended a march of 70 yards that featured Eddie Townson in the role of ground gainer.

The Gents scored their safety in the third period after they had been twice held for downs within the Tigers' five-yard mark. Roy White attempted to punt from behind his own goal line and Fred Williams blocked the kick. The ball rolled out of bounds in the end zone and went as a safety for the Shreveport collegians.

Centenary lost a scoring chance in the first quarter when L. Corkle fumbled on the Tigers' nine yard stripe, following a march of 41 yards. They were checked on the Tigers' 15 in the fourth quarter when Captain Parker fumbled and J. Floyd recovered. It ended a 70-yard march for the Gents.

Starting lineups:

Columbia Beats Stubborn Grayson Eleven, 21 To 0

COLUMBIA, La., Nov. 3.—(Special)—In a clean but listless game Columbia subdued a fighting Grayson eleven Friday at Columbia, 21 to 0. The game went through the first quarter with Columbia hammering away for good gains but not enough to score. Grayson was not being moved without a struggle.

The second quarter saw Columbia coming out of its lethargy to score, after Victor Adams, Culpepper, and Gordon Adams, alternating smoothly behind a harder charging line, marched the ball 65 yards down the field, Gordon Adams going over standing up from the 7 yard line.

In the third quarter Gordon Adams again went over standing up and Culpepper bucked through for the extra point. Grayson again received the kickoff, was held for downs, punted to Victor Adams on his own 40 yard line, and he ran the ball back for 30 yards, from where the ball was worked down to a score by straight football, Gordon Adams again going over.

New York Stocks

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—(AP)—The stock market finished a week of slow, hesitant advances today with a little further uplift, concentrated chiefly in a few specialties. The final tone was firm, with gains of fractions to a point or more predominating. Transfers for the two-hour session approximated 270,000 shares.

News at the end of the week of a character to influence share prices was meagre, but the recent improvement in Wall street sentiment was bolstered by continued high levels of retail trade over much of the country, the staving off of any serious controversy over the automobile code by President Roosevelt's order continuing the expiring code until February 1, and a moderately firm bond market.

Activity in shares was chiefly in minor or special issues. Budd Manufacturing issues were traded in some volume, evidently reflecting the attention received by the company's steam-lined stainless-steel train business. The common rose a point and the preferred more than 4.

Stocks of a few companies in receivership were also bid up, notably Celotex common and preferred, rising about 1 and 4 points respectively, and American Typefounders preferred up about 3.

A few tobacco stocks were higher, brokerage gossip mentioning the recent rise in wholesale tobacco prices. American Sumatra and Universal Leaf touched new highs for the year.

Oils and alcohols were a little higher. Standard Oil of New Jersey got up a point, and Schenley distillers and American Commercial Alcohol advanced as much. In merchandising issues, McCrory Stores, in which the Morrow group has acquired an interest, was again firm, the preferred touching a new high.

Leading industrials and rails were narrowly changed. Small fractional gains appeared in American Can, Bethlehem, Sears Roebuck, General Motors, Johns Manville, American Sugar, New York Central, Santa Fe and a few others.

In commodities, cotton was slightly firm, closing 20 to 40 cents a bale higher. Rubber futures, however, declined nearly 1-2 cent a pound. In foreign exchange dealings, most currencies firmed a little against the dollar, in quiet markets.

Hogs 8,000, including 7,500 direct; practically no good or choice hogs on sale; market nominally steady; all quotations nominal; nominal top 5.80.

Sugar

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Raw sugar was dull today and no sales were reported. Prices were nominally unchanged at 2.80 for spots.

The feature in futures was the exchanging between months which accounted for over three-quarters of the day's business. Prices showed little variation and after opening at unchanged to 1 point decline there was no further change except in September, which sold from 1.79 to 1.80, recovering the initial decline.

The selling liked liquidation by tired longs, while the buying was by trade interests and week-end covering.

Potatoes

CHICAGO, Nov. 3.—(AP)—(USDA)—Potatoes 99, on track 255, total U. S. shipments 665; russets and McClures firm, other stock dull; supplies liberal, demand and trading rather slow; Wisconsin round whites U. S. No. 1, .75-.85; commercial grade .72 1-2 to 74; Idaho russets U. S. No. 1, 1.60-70; U. S. No. 2, 1.25; Colorado McClures U. S. No. 1, 1.85; poor color 1.67 1-2.

RECTOR RESIGNS

TALLULAH, La., Nov. 3.—(Special)—After serving over six years as rector of the Episcopal churches in Tallulah and Lake Providence, Rev. David E. Holt has resigned and accepted a call to the First Episcopal church at Texarkana.

James Angus, a barber of Peterhead, Scotland, who died recently, made violins as a hobby, and some were used by leading Scottish concert artists.

Cotton

New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 3.—(AP)—The cotton market was comparatively quiet today in the brief session and prices fluctuated rather narrowly in the absence of fresh market influences.

Although Liverpool cables were slightly better than due, the market here opened 2 to 3 points down and after fluctuating within a very narrow range, eased off to 12.07 for December, 12.15 for March and 12.16 for May, or 2 to 4 points below yesterday's close.

Late in the second hour prices firmed somewhat owing to shorts covering and October traded up to 12.14, March to 12.24 and May to 12.26, which was 7 to 9 points above the early lows.

Prices eased off a point or two at the end on realizing and the close was steady at net advances of 3 to 5 points for the day. October showed the greatest gain.

New York Stocks

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—(AP)—The stock market finished a week of slow, hesitant advances today with a little further uplift, concentrated chiefly in a few specialties. The final tone was firm, with gains of fractions to a point or more predominating. Transfers for the two-hour session approximated 270,000 shares.

News at the end of the week of a character to influence share prices was meagre, but the recent improvement in Wall street sentiment was bolstered by continued high levels of retail trade over much of the country, the staving off of any serious controversy over the automobile code by President Roosevelt's order continuing the expiring code until February 1, and a moderately firm bond market.

Activity in shares was chiefly in minor or special issues. Budd Manufacturing issues were traded in some volume, evidently reflecting the attention received by the company's steam-lined stainless-steel train business. The common rose a point and the preferred more than 4.

Stocks of a few companies in receivership were also bid up, notably Celotex common and preferred, rising about 1 and 4 points respectively, and American Typefounders preferred up about 3.

A few tobacco stocks were higher, brokerage gossip mentioning the recent rise in wholesale tobacco prices. American Sumatra and Universal Leaf touched new highs for the year.

Oils and alcohols were a little higher. Standard Oil of New Jersey got up a point, and Schenley distillers and American Commercial Alcohol advanced as much. In merchandising issues, McCrory Stores, in which the Morrow group has acquired an interest, was again firm, the preferred touching a new high.

Leading industrials and rails were narrowly changed. Small fractional gains appeared in American Can, Bethlehem, Sears Roebuck, General Motors, Johns Manville, American Sugar, New York Central, Santa Fe and a few others.

In commodities, cotton was slightly firm, closing 20 to 40 cents a bale higher. Rubber futures, however, declined nearly 1-2 cent a pound. In foreign exchange dealings, most currencies firmed a little against the dollar, in quiet markets.

The selling liked liquidation by tired longs, while the buying was by trade interests and week-end covering.

TECH NEWSPAPER HEADLINE LAUDED

'Yes, Tech Lost; So What?' Is Given Commendatory Comment

RUSTON, La., Nov. 3.—(Special.)—"Yes, Tech Lost; So What?"

That headline appearing over an editorial in The Tech Talk, Louisiana Tech newspaper, attracted commendatory comment in a recent release of the College News Service, which supplies news to school publications from coast to coast. Staff members not only appreciate "the compliment paid to The Tech Talk" but are pleased to observe that "our idea has gained acceptance."

Written by James Crenshaw of Los Angeles, editor of the College News Service, the comment on the editorial, in part, is as follows:

"Well! We blinked our editorial eyes in astonishment—and read the most remarkable headline of the season:

"'Yes, Tech Lost; So What?'

"'Although Tech's varsity football team suffered the "slings and arrows of outrageous fortune" at the hands of Southwestern Louisiana institute last Friday night,' said The Tech Talk, 'it is gratifying to observe that the college this week is going right ahead with the fulfillment of its major purpose—the educating of 1,116 young men and women who are here to learn something. Yes, sir, we're still plugging along with high spirits—just as if nothing so terrible had happened. . . .

"'Just because Tech loses one game, or two games, or three games, or four games this year, no student is going to pull up stakes and go to some other school. Our record-breaking enrollment certainly is not due to any spectacular football team in the recent history of Louisiana Tech. . . .'

"Those paragraphs have earth-shaking significance," says the College News Service editor. "They mean that football once more will become a sport, rather than an industry. They mean that football is about to be returned to the colleges.

"There was never a more ardent grid fan than the writer of these lines," Mr. Crenshaw continues. "We have boosted and written about football teams and players for years, but so help us! We have never been able to see the all-fired life-and-death necessity of any college winning every game.

"The Tech Talk does not represent an isolated attitude, we realize now. On the contrary, it represents a new understanding of sportsmanship—a sportsmanship that spells the end of the kick-and-kill-'em era when we cheered the team if it won and fired the coach if it didn't.

"There is something Browningesque in this new philosophy," the California news editor concludes.

Local Masons To Hold Ceremonies On Tuesday

Joint re-obligation and re-dedication ceremonies will be held Tuesday night at 8 o'clock by the Western Star lodge and Graham Surghnor lodge of Monroe at the Masonic temple. Rev. J. T. Harris of Rayville will be the principle speaker. This is an annual event in the Masonic lodges.

An effort is being made to obtain the attendance of all Masons of Monroe. Notices were sent out to those whose names were known but there probably are a number of either here who are not members of either of the local lodges. A request is made that they also attend and Masons of the West Monroe lodge, as well as those of other neighboring cities are invited.

Special Texas Rangers Include Noted Persons

Elliott Roosevelt And Kate Smith Are Entitled To Tote Guns

AUSTIN, Texas, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Whoa thar Kentucky! You with the famous "Cunnels," and admirals of unnavigable streams.

At least they used to wear the hats and boots and tote the guns. Some of the regulars still do, but the special rangers—that's another story.

If Elliott Roosevelt paid his father a visit, or Kate Smith, singer, went to work in the traditional equipment of the Texas man hunters, there might be questions asked and explanations made.

Same with Wintrop Rockefeller, heir to millions, Lieutenant Colonel James J. Mattern, who flew around the world with Wiley Post, and the Weaver brothers of Missouri, Leon Abner and Frank Cicero, who know what it's like to get a hand across vaudeville footlights.

Yet they all have a legal right to strap a six-gun around their middles and make arrests anywhere in Texas. Along with 2,000 others, they're members of the Ranger force of Texas.

Lawyers, doctors, aviators, millionaires, radio stars, policemen, newspapermen and vaudeville performers—they've crashed the organization originally recruited 100 years ago to clean Indians and bandits out of the southwest.

Each is sworn to "faithfully and impartially discharge and perform all the duties incumbent" on them as members of the Rangers. Not only that, but they have pledged they never fought or assisted in a duel.

They have distinguished precedent for the last detail. Every member of every legislature and all officers of the government have taken the oath with regard to duels. It's a requirement of the state constitution.

Grizzled Ranger quartermaster at headquarters, Captain R. W. Aldrich, who used to walk sidewise in the Big Bend country to get through bandits' bullets, isn't sure how there came to be 2,000 Rangers. Captain D. E. Hamer, commander of headquarters company, just laughs.

Some of the commissions apparently were requested by the governor to honor friends. There is the one to Mrs. Alice Townsend of Alpine, Texas, who gives her occupation as "housewife." Instructions for its issuance are in the penciled handwriting of Governor Miriam A. Ferguson.

Mrs. Townsend isn't expected to go gunning for Texas bad men, nor is Mrs. Louis Walton Warnken of Austin, employe of the Texas division of child welfare, or Mrs. Lillian Golvert of Houston, dealer in real estate. It's altogether honorary insofar as the women folk and many of the men are concerned.

Mostly the specials have been given men seeking jobs as bank guards or night watchmen. The status of special ranger carries weight, and the recommendation of a county sheriff isn't hard to get.

While their comrades in service carry on far afield, however, the 32 regular rangers, including six captains, one sergant and 25 privates keep on sawing wood. They're still on the job in times of trouble as they were back in 1821 when first mention of them creeps into the letters of Stephen F. Austin, the father of Texas.

Handelman Store Goes Over Top During Sale

Stanley Bryant, local manager of the Handelman store on DeSiard street, was informed last week that his store had gone over the top in the quota sales contest conducted by the Handelman organization in its recent fall opening sales.

Winning a total of $50 in connection with the different store contest, Mr. Bryant received a letter of congratulations from Charles Handelman, head of the vast Handelman chain. He is also receiving the congratulations of his friends.

INTERNATIONAL ROAD PLANNED

Proposed Highway Would Stretch From Alaska To Argentina

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 3.—(AP)—An international highway extending from Fairbanks, Alaska, just under the Arctic Circle, to Buenos Aires, Argentina, looms as a probability within the next few years, the Automobile Club of Southern California said today.

Already, a survey revealed 83 per cent, or nearly 11,000 miles of the far-flung route is traversable by motorists in dry weather. Of this 11,000 miles, nearly 50 per cent has graded or paved surface.

When, through the cooperation of the 14 nations the international highway will traverse, the immense undertaking will have been completed, motorists will be able to drive more than 13,000 miles over good, all-weather roads.

Starting at Fairbanks, the highway will cross the western part of Alaska, entering the dominion of Canada near Dawson, thence it will proceed southward through Whitehorse to Hazelton, B. C., from which point an excellent highway already leads to Vancouver.

Entering the United States, the route leads through Seattle and Portland to San Francisco, Los Angeles and San Diego. It enters Mexico at Nogales, Ariz., and leads southward to Guaymas, Mazatlan, Guadalajara and Mexico, D. F.

From Mexico, D. F., the motorist now may drive to Puebla, and an expedition of auto club engineers and officials recently continued on to Oazaca, then penetrated to Guatemala, the principal city of the Central American republic of the same name.

The expedition was halted a few miles south of El Salvador, San Salvador, but plans are afoot to complete the route through the republics of Nicaragua and Costa Rica to Panama and then into South America.

Good highways already stretch through portions of Colombia and Ecuador, while Peru and Chile boast splendid roads except for small impassable sections. Already a first class highway leads from Santiago, Chile, on the west coast of South America, across the Andes mountains to Buenos Aires, on the east coast.

Motorists of the eastern United States will be afforded on alternate route to Mexico, D. F., by the close of this year, when a highway will link Laredo, Tex., and the Mexican capital. When that highway is completed, Mexican authorities have promised the west coast route between Mexico, D. F., and Nogales, Ariz., will be greatly improved.

'Yes, Tech Lost; So What?' Is Given Commendatory Comment

RUSTON, La., Nov. 3.—(Special.)—"Yes, Tech Lost; So What?"

That headline appearing over an editorial in The Tech Talk, Louisiana Tech newspaper, attracted commendatory comment in a recent release of the College News Service, which supplies news to school publications from coast to coast. Staff members not only appreciate "the compliment paid to The Tech Talk" but are pleased to observe that "our idea has gained acceptance."

Written by James Crenshaw of Los Angeles, editor of the College News Service, the comment on the editorial, in part, is as follows:

"Well! We blinked our editorial eyes in astonishment—and read the most remarkable headline of the season:

"'Yes, Tech Lost; So What?'

"That amazing caption topped an editorial in a recent issue of The Tech Talk of Louisiana Tech. It literally spells the dawn of a new day!

"'Although Tech's varsity football team suffered the "slings and arrows of outrageous fortune" at the hands of Southwestern Louisiana institute last Friday night,' said The Tech Talk, 'it is gratifying to observe that the college this week is going right ahead with the fulfillment of its major purpose—the educating of 1,116 young men and women who are here to learn something. Yes, sir, we're still plugging along with high spirits—just as if nothing so terrible had happened. . . .

"'Just because Tech loses one game, or two games, or three games, or four games this year, no student is going to pull up stakes and go to some other school. Our record-breaking enrollment certainly is not due to any spectacular football team in the recent history of Louisiana Tech. . . .'

"Those paragraphs have earth-shaking significance," says the College News Service editor. "They mean that football once more will become a sport, rather than an industry. They mean that football is about to be returned to the colleges.

"There was never a more ardent grid fan than the writer of these lines," Mr. Crenshaw continues. "We have boosted and written about football teams and players for years, but so help us! We have never been able to see the all-fired life-and-death necessity of any college winning every game.

"The Tech Talk does not represent an isolated attitude, we realize now. On the contrary, it represents a new understanding of sportsmanship—a sportsmanship that spells the end of the kick-and-kill-'em era when we cheered the team if it won and fired the coach if it didn't.

Local Masons To Hold Ceremonies On Tuesday

Joint re-obligation and re-dedication ceremonies will be held Tuesday night at 8 o'clock by the Western Star lodge and Graham Surghnor lodge of Monroe at the Masonic temple. Rev. J. T. Harris of Rayville will be the principle speaker. This is an annual event in the Masonic lodges.

An effort is being made to obtain the attendance of all Masons of Monroe. Notices were sent out to those whose names were known but there probably are a number of either here who are not members of either of the local lodges. A request is made that they also attend and Masons of the West Monroe lodge, as well as those of other neighboring cities are invited.

Special Texas Rangers Include Noted Persons

Elliott Roosevelt And Kate Smith Are Entitled To Tote Guns

AUSTIN, Texas, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Whoa thar Kentucky! You with the famous "Cunnels," and admirals of unnavigable streams.

At least they used to wear the hats and boots and tote the guns. Some of the regulars still do, but the special rangers—that's another story.

If Elliott Roosevelt paid his father a visit, or Kate Smith, singer, went to work in the traditional equipment of the Texas man hunters, there might be questions asked and explanations made.

Same with Wintrop Rockefeller, heir to millions, Lieutenant Colonel James J. Mattern, who flew around the world with Wiley Post, and the Weaver brothers of Missouri, Leon Abner and Frank Cicero, who know what it's like to get a hand across vaudeville footlights.

Yet they all have a legal right to strap a six-gun around their middles and make arrests anywhere in Texas. Along with 2,000 others, they're members of the Ranger force of Texas.

Lawyers, doctors, aviators, millionaires, radio stars, policemen, newspapermen and vaudeville performers—they've crashed the organization originally recruited 100 years ago to clean Indians and bandits out of the southwest.

Each is sworn to "faithfully and impartially discharge and perform all the duties incumbent" on them as members of the Rangers. Not only that, but they have pledged they never fought or assisted in a duel.

They have distinguished precedent for the last detail. Every member of every legislature and all officers of the government have taken the oath with regard to duels. It's a requirement of the state constitution.

Grizzled Ranger quartermaster at headquarters, Captain R. W. Aldrich, who used to walk sidewise in the Big Bend country to get through bandits' bullets, isn't sure how there came to be 2,000 Rangers. Captain D. E. Hamer, commander of headquarters company, just laughs.

Some of the commissions apparently were requested by the governor to honor friends. There is the one to Mrs. Alice Townsend of Alpine, Texas, who gives her occupation as "housewife." Instructions for its issuance are in the penciled handwriting of Governor Miriam A. Ferguson.

Mrs. Townsend isn't expected to go gunning for Texas bad men, nor is Mrs. Louis Walton Warnken of Austin, employe of the Texas division of child welfare, or Mrs. Lillian Golvert of Houston, dealer in real estate. It's altogether honorary insofar as the women folk and many of the men are concerned.

Mostly the specials have been given men seeking jobs as bank guards or night watchmen. The status of special ranger carries weight, and the recommendation of a county sheriff isn't hard to get.

While their comrades in service carry on far afield, however, the 32 regular rangers, including six captains, one sergant and 25 privates keep on sawing wood. They're still on the job in times of trouble as they were back in 1821 when first mention of them creeps into the letters of Stephen F. Austin, the father of Texas.

INTERNATIONAL ROAD PLANNED

Proposed Highway Would Stretch From Alaska To Argentina

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 3.—(AP)—An international highway extending from Fairbanks, Alaska, just under the Arctic Circle, to Buenos Aires, Argentina, looms as a probability within the next few years, the Automobile Club of Southern California said today.

Already, a survey revealed 83 per cent, or nearly 11,000 miles of the far-flung route is traversable by motorists in dry weather. Of this 11,000 miles, nearly 50 per cent has graded or paved surface.

When, through the cooperation of the 14 nations the international highway will traverse, the immense undertaking will have been completed, motorists will be able to drive more than 13,000 miles over good, all-weather roads.

Starting at Fairbanks, the highway will cross the western part of Alaska, entering the dominion of Canada near Dawson, thence it will proceed southward through Whitehorse to Hazelton, B. C., from which point an excellent highway already leads to Vancouver.

Entering the United States, the route leads through Seattle and Portland to San Francisco, Los Angeles and San Diego. It enters Mexico at Nogales, Ariz., and leads southward to Guaymas, Mazatlan, Guadalajara and Mexico, D. F.

From Mexico, D. F., the motorist now may drive to Puebla, and an expedition of auto club engineers and officials recently continued on to Oazaca, then penetrated to Guatemala, the principal city of the Central American republic of the same name.

The expedition was halted a few miles south of El Salvador, San Salvador, but plans are afoot to complete the route through the republics of Nicaragua and Costa Rica to Panama and then into South America.

Good highways already stretch through portions of Colombia and Ecuador, while Peru and Chile boast splendid roads except for small impassable sections. Already a first class highway leads from Santiago, Chile, on the west coast of South America, across the Andes mountains to Buenos Aires, on the east coast.

Motorists of the eastern United States will be afforded on alternate route to Mexico, D. F., by the close of this year, when a highway will link Laredo, Tex., and the Mexican capital. When that highway is completed, Mexican authorities have promised the west coast route between Mexico, D. F., and Nogales, Ariz., will be greatly improved.

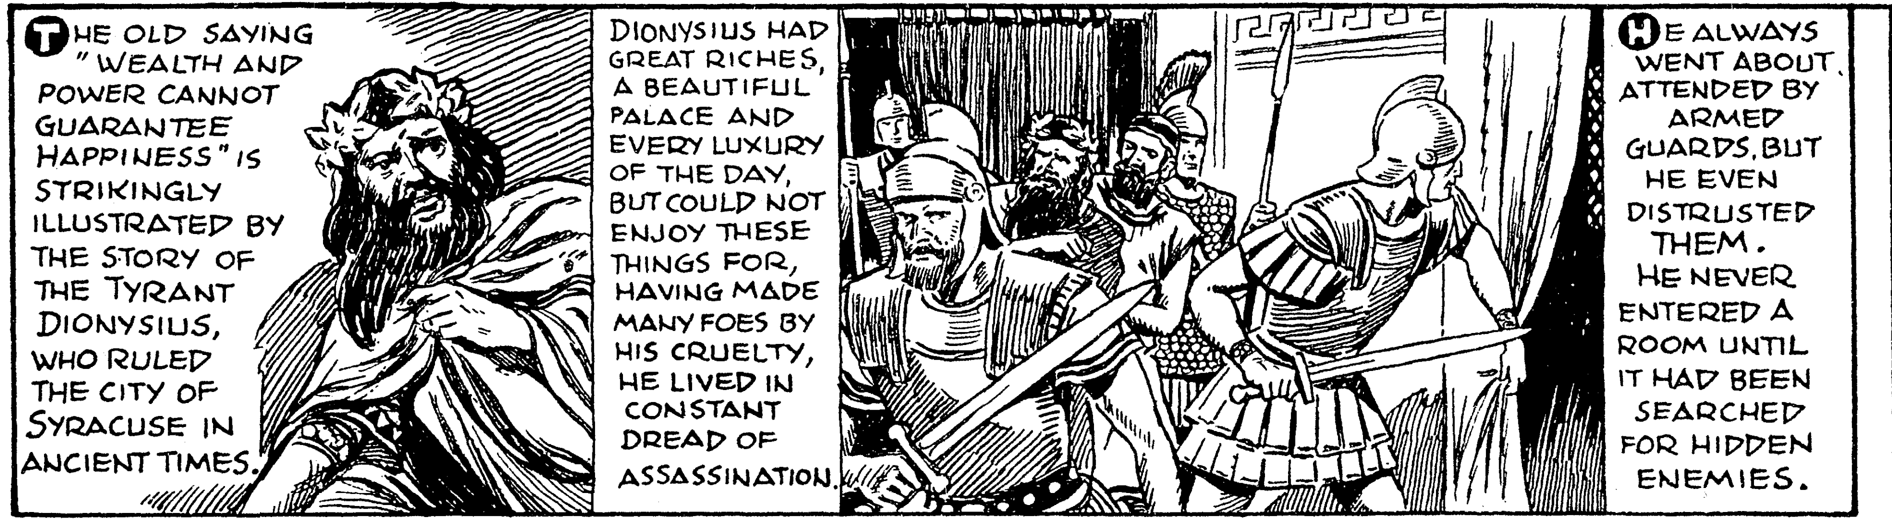
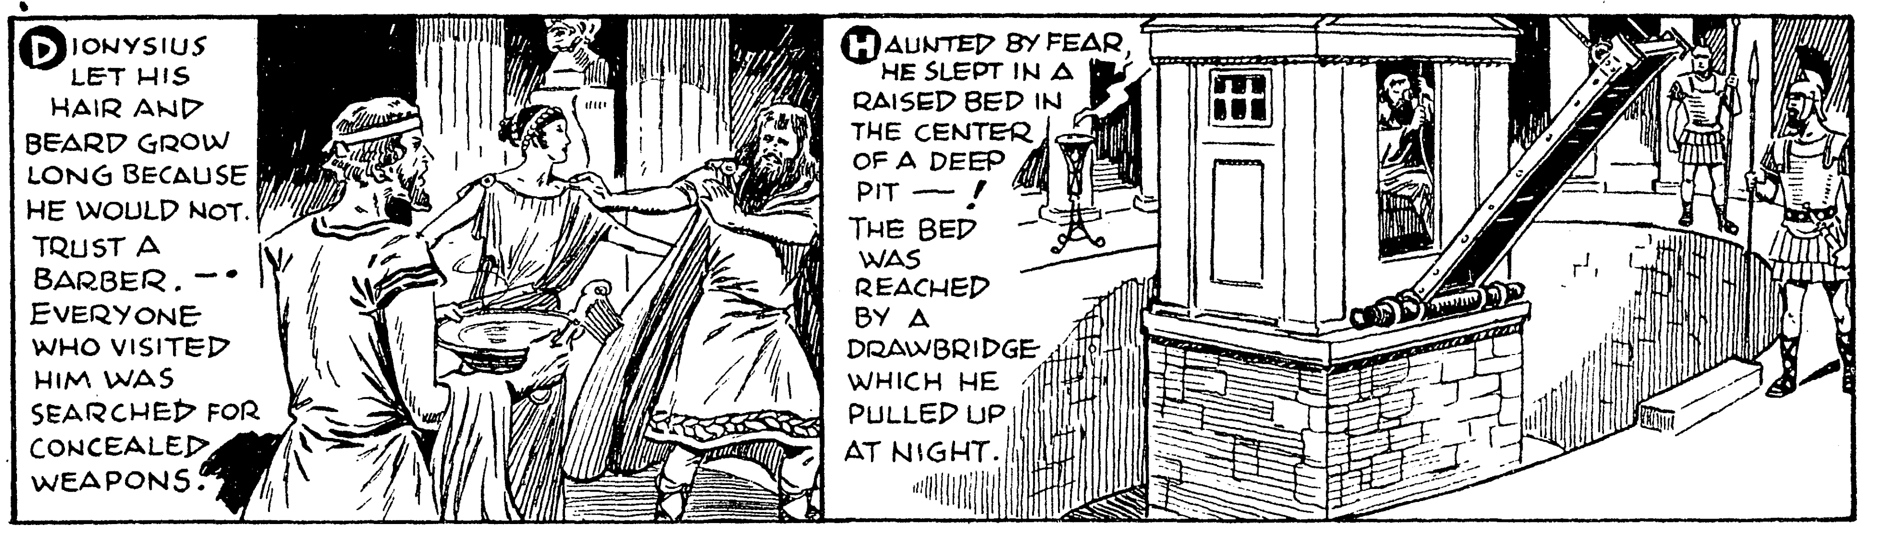
HIGH LIGHTS OF HISTORY -:- The Sword Of Damocles -:- By J. CARROLL MANSFIELD



THE OLD SAYING "WEALTH AND POWER CANNOT GUARANTEE HAPPINESS" IS STRIKINGLY ILLUSTRATED BY THE STORY OF THE TYRANT DIONYSIUS, WHO RULED THE CITY OF SYRACUSE IN ANCIENT TIMES.
DIONYSIUS HAD GREAT RICHES, A BEAUTIFUL PALACE AND EVERY LUXURY OF THE DAY, BUT COULD NOT ENJOY THESE THINGS FOR, HAVING MADE MANY FOES BY HIS CRUELTY, HE LIVED IN CONSTANT DREAD OF ASSASSINATION.
HE ALWAYS WENT ABOUT ATTENDED BY ARMED GUARDS, BUT HE EVEN DISTRUSTED THEM. HE NEVER ENTERED A ROOM UNTIL IT HAD BEEN SEARCHED FOR HIDDEN ENEMIES.



DIONYSIUS LET HIS HAIR AND BEARD GROW LONG BECAUSE HE WOULD NOT TRUST A BARBER.— EVERYONE WHO VISITED HIM WAS SEARCHED FOR CONCEALED WEAPONS.
HAUNTED BY FEAR, HE SLEPT IN A RAISED BED IN THE CENTER OF A DEEP PIT —! THE BED WAS REACHED BY A DRAWBRIDGE WHICH HE PULLED UP AT NIGHT.

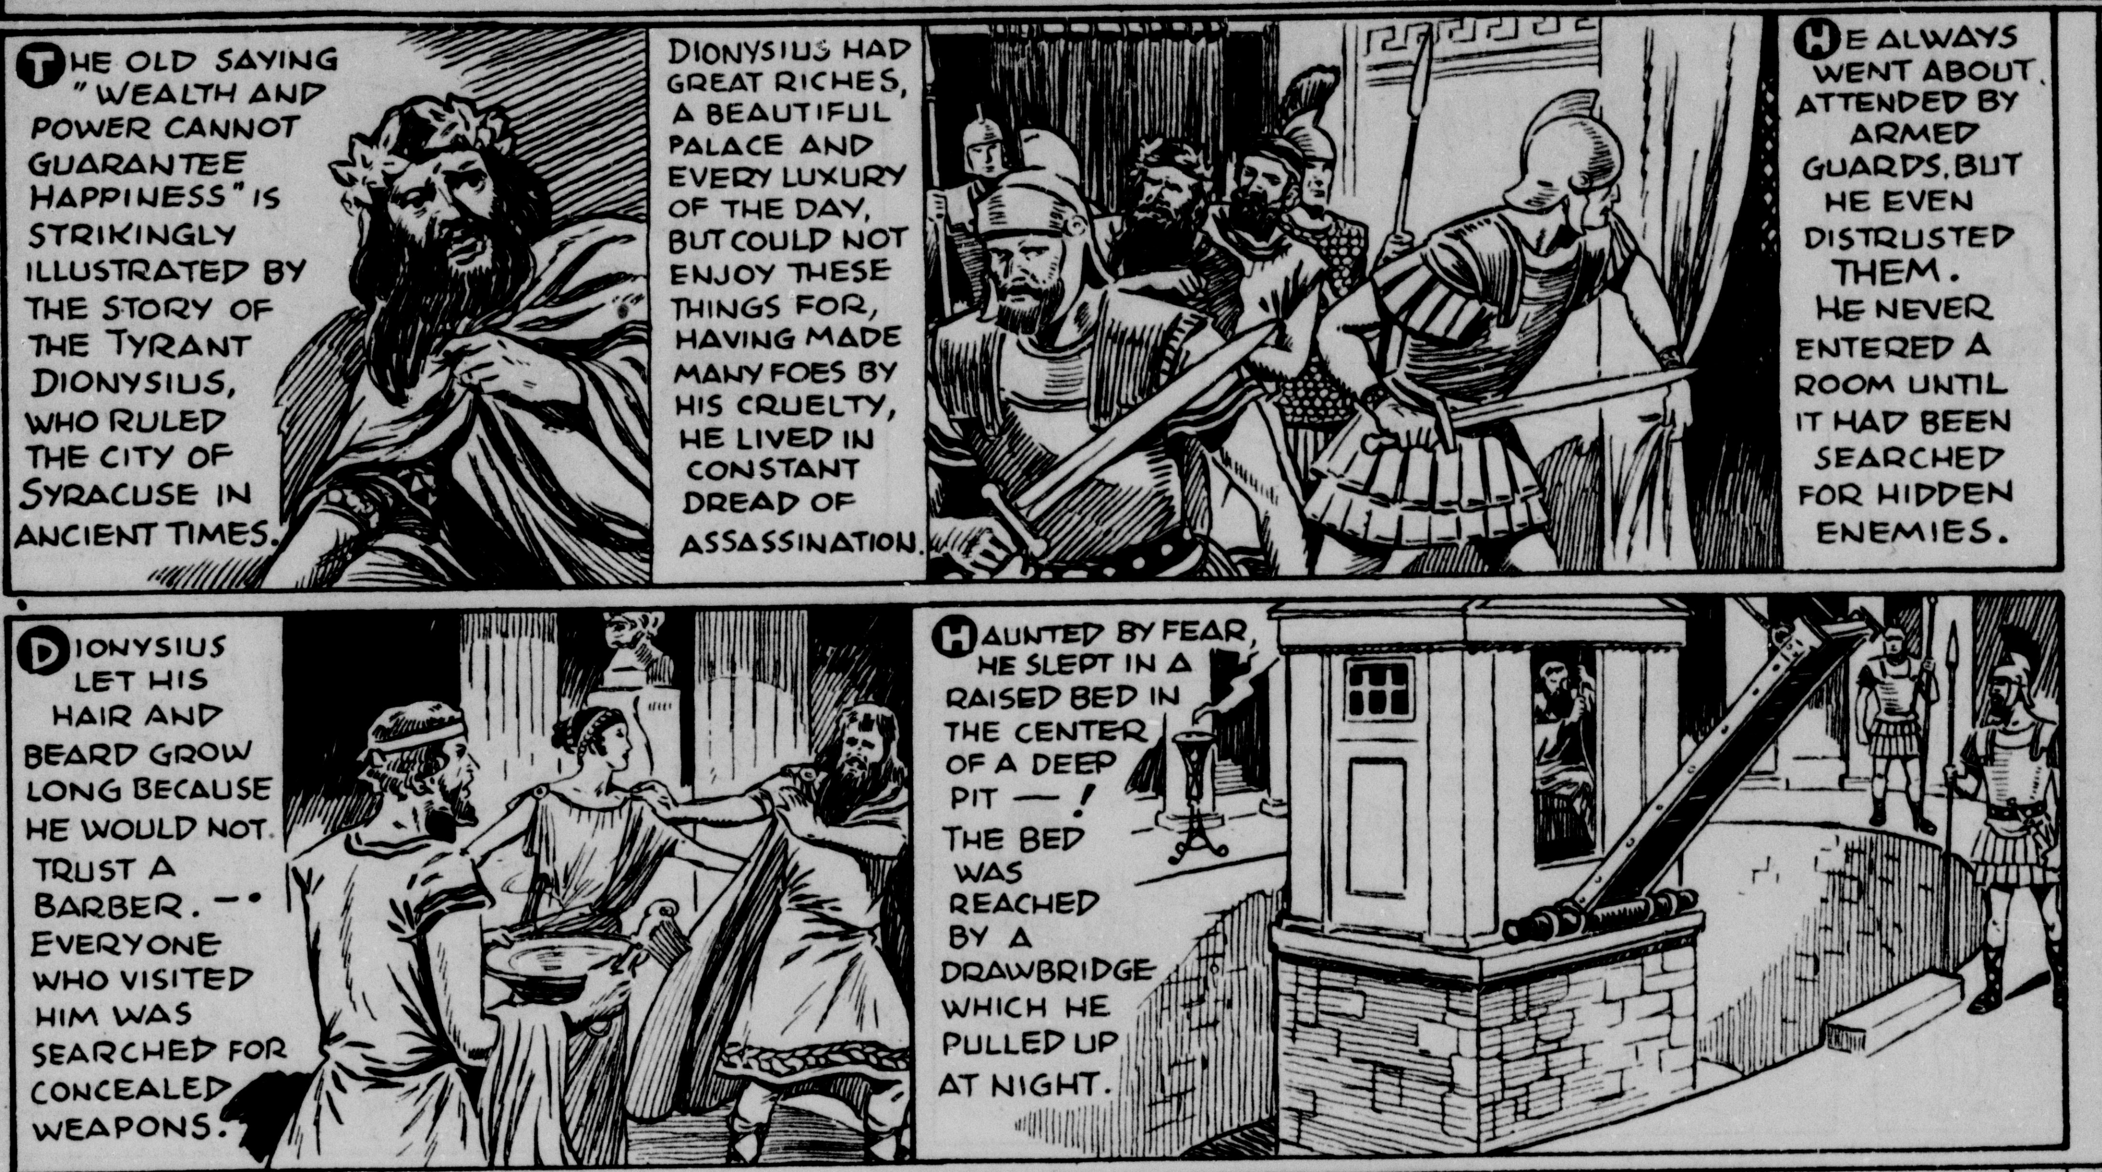
HIGH LIGHTS OF HISTORY -:- The Sword Of Damocles -:- By J. CARROLL MANSFIELD



THE OLD SAYING "WEALTH AND POWER CANNOT GUARANTEE HAPPINESS" IS STRIKINGLY ILLUSTRATED BY THE STORY OF THE TYRANT DIONYSIUS, WHO RULED THE CITY OF SYRACUSE IN ANCIENT TIMES.
DIONYSIUS HAD GREAT RICHES, A BEAUTIFUL PALACE AND EVERY LUXURY OF THE DAY, BUT COULD NOT ENJOY THESE THINGS FOR, HAVING MADE MANY FOES BY HIS CRUELTY, HE LIVED IN CONSTANT DREAD OF ASSASSINATION.
HE ALWAYS WENT ABOUT ATTENDED BY ARMED GUARDS, BUT HE EVEN DISTRUSTED THEM. HE NEVER ENTERED A ROOM UNTIL IT HAD BEEN SEARCHED FOR HIDDEN ENEMIES.
DIONYSIUS LET HIS HAIR AND BEARD GROW LONG BECAUSE HE WOULD NOT TRUST A BARBER. — EVERYONE WHO VISITED HIM WAS SEARCHED FOR CONCEALED WEAPONS.
HAUNTED BY FEAR, HE SLEPT IN A RAISED BED IN THE CENTER OF A DEEP PIT —! THE BED WAS REACHED BY A DRAWBRIDGE WHICH HE PULLED UP AT NIGHT.

Very Curious Link Between Cats and Hallowe'en

Now a Brilliant Scholar Has Uncovered the First Startling Story of the Witches' Midnight Ball

There's Nothing More Spooky Than a Black Cat—on Hallowe'en or Any Other Night. This Purring Lady Pussy Has Posed for Many Posters, Because She's a Perfect Type.

"The witches always held a weird festival on the eve of All Saints' Day. They mounted black, three-legged horses and galloped up through the dark sky to a destination far from human habitation. Here they leaped into frenzied dances—always with cats as their partners."

Reproduction of an Ancient Statue of an Egyptian Cat, Worshipped in the Long Ago by the Fanciful, Fanatical Orientals. Above, in Corner, Notice the Piercing Eyes of This Long-Haired Black Beauty.

BLACK cats, fierce witches, shrieking goblins have stalked abroad every Hallowe'en Night since the world began—or at least little boys and girls have liked to believe they did.

For you see, in recent years October 31—Hallowe'en—was the one night in many communities when the kids could soap windows, tip over fences, tear up doorsteps and do all manner of damage, then very blandly tell papa the next morning:

"The witches and the cats and the goblins must have done it. Honest, it wasn't me!"

Hallowe'en parties are more in order today, with the young guests dressed up in witches' costumes, and the black cats and goblins appearing only in the decorations.

But there never were any parties in the long ago and Hallowe'en was a night of sheer fear. Witches were a reality, or so they thought in those days, and All Saints' Eve (October 31) was a night when danger lurked in every dark corner.

Students of ancient lore have traced the legends which linked black cats with Hallowe'en and have painted a fanciful picture of the connection. But now a famous German scholar, in delving through musty Arabian books, has uncovered what is believed to be the first authentic story upon which all the legends were based.

His findings verify the commonly accepted belief of the source of the Hallowe'en superstitions, and they go much farther in recalling ancient incidents which, repeated a thousand times, grew into the amazing stories.

Most people today believe that the cats were linked with the legend of this Night of Nights because in ancient witchcraft, the sorcerer invariably did her darkest deeds in feline form. This, of course, explains it in part. But now it is proven that the Scottish traditions, handed down through the ages, are nearest correct.

It seems that the witches always held a weird festival on the eve of All Saints' Day. On these nights they would attach their favorite grimalkins to their belts and mount black, three-legged horses.

Then, shrilling the words, "Up and away and nowhere to stop," the decrepit hags would gallop through the dark sky. Their destination was always a spot of wasteland, far from human habitation. Here all the witches would gather and leap into frenzied dances—with cats as partners!

This dance would go on for hours, to the great entertainment of the demon gods. When the first group dropped from exhaustion, others would take their places, chanting the cry: "There is no rest tonight for anyone! When one dance ends another is begun!"

Only streaks of dawn in the sky brought an end to the revelry. As the sun rose, the weary witches mounted their three-legged horses again and rode back to their caves and hideaways.

This legend, as noted above, was frequently told in Scotland. But the recently uncovered books fix the origin at a much earlier date and in the mystic Far East.

The cat, of course, is one of the oldest of household pets. An ancient legend describes its mysterious origin on Noah's Ark. Noah took aboard a pair of mice which he installed with the other animals, so the ancients had it. At once they began to produce scurrying offspring in appalling numbers.

Presently a real danger developed. Noah was afraid the mice would gnaw a leak in the Ark and destroy all surviving life. In desperation he waved his hand three times over the head of a lioness—whereupon the beast sneezed and a cat fell out of her mouth.

In Greek and Roman mythology the cat was considered the favorite of the Goddess Artemis, or Diana. And, of course, the animal's important connection with the history of ancient Egypt, 1600 years before the birth of Christ, is well known.

Bast, the Egyptian cat goddess, was a widely worshipped deity. Her earthly representative, the cat, was always venerated; in fact, religion dictated that upon the death of their cat, the members of an Egyptian household must shave off their eyebrows.

And because the cats played such an important part in the life of that day, many families had their cats mummified. Frequently scientists have run across these mummies while digging on the sites of ancient cities.

However, the worship of cats was not limited to Egypt. During the Middle Ages cat sacrifices became the special event of many European religious festivals. The sprightly little animals were collected in large numbers—and then tossed on top of huge bonfires that had been kindled in the public squares. Superstitious minds soon linked cats with witches, then.

And as though to further strengthen this connection, Seventeenth Century documents tell that Isobel Goudie, frequently called the queen of Scottish witches, "thoroughly established" it.

Isobel, so the legends go, freely admitted that she and her cohorts nightly turned themselves into cats to make easier their ominous raids on the surrounding countryside.

She even handed down the incantation by which she could change herself into a cat and then back into a woman again. It consisted of a magic verse which, translated, reads:

"I shall go into a cat
And I shall go in the Devil's name
Until I come home again!"

To break the spell (so the story goes) it was only necessary for her to repeat three times:

But I shall be a woman's likeness even now;

The application of magical ointment (according to these ancient volumes) was another method used by witches in assuming feline form. In the guise of their animal counterparts, they would brutally victimize their more wholesome neighbors. For instance, it was the nocturnal custom of some witch-cats to prowl around the farmyard fence and fix their yellow eyes on a cow.

Then they would chant: "The cheese to me, the lard to me, the butter to me, the milk to me, but the cowhide to thee." It was a wish which, of course, left practically nothing for the farmer but the hide. And the early writers insisted that immediately after the curse, the unfortunate cow wasted away.

Pierre de Ronsard, famous French poet of the Sixteenth Century, wrote the prevailing sentiments of that day in a verse which frequently has been quoted. It is:

"There is no man living anywhere
Who hates cats with a deeper hate than I;
I hate their eyes, their beads, the way they stare
And when I see one come, I turn out and fly!"

It is little wonder, with all this propaganda, that people learned to distrust the members of the feline family. But there were many stories in praise of cats told and retold, also. Had it not been for the latter, probably these pets would be extinct today.

One story has to do with a merchant at Messina, Italy, who, in 1783, was warned of an approaching earthquake by his faithful cats.

It seems that one evening he noticed his pets were frantically trying to scratch their way through the floor. Taking pity on them, he finally opened an outside door and they scampered straight through the town. For some reason the merchant followed, and when they were all safely outside in a field, a terrific rumbling was heard and all the buildings in the village were demolished by an earthquake.

And so, today—cats are casually petted, avoided, or go unnoticed most of the year, but on Hallowe'en they assume a very significant role in the traditional scheme of things.

An All Hallow's Eve without the personification of cats and witches would be like a stage without a setting. The fateful pair introduce just the correct, sinister note in party decorations and in the traditions we all love so well.

That cats do possess uncanny sensitivity is a well-known fact. Fascinating speculation is open to those who can observe, without resentment, the psychic quality in their pets.

When your sleek friend stops suddenly, in the midst of her washing, to stare fixedly at some apparently imaginary object, she may be seeing the unseen. It's a flair for the occult which has been handed down to her from the far-off nights of the witches' sabbaths—and long before.

DICK TRACY
CHESTER GOULD
YOU SEE, PAT - I FOUND OUT "DOC" HUMP WAS RELEASED FROM JAIL A COUPLE OF DAYS BEFORE JUNIOR AND I SAW HIM DART OUT OF THE DOG HOSPITAL.
ON INQUIRING, I FOUND "DOC" CALLED AT THE DOG HOSPITAL TO PURCHASE A SYRINGE SIMILAR TO THE HYPODERMIC TYPE. FURTHER INVESTIGATION ALSO LED ME TO BELIEVE IT WAS "DOC" HUMP WHO CAUSED THE WOUND ON THE LEG OF JUNIOR'S SCOTCH TERRIER THE WOUND HAVING BEEN MADE IN AN UNSUCCESSFUL ATTEMPT TO CATCH THE DOG.
BUT WHAT'S IT ALL ABOUT? WHAT'S "DOC" TRYING TO DO?
THAT'S WHAT WE'LL HAVE TO FIND OUT. I AM CONVINCED OF ONE THING - "DOC" IS ENGAGED IN SOME SINISTER EXPERIMENTATION WITH DOGS OR HUMANS - OR BOTH!
TRACY! LOOK! LOOK!
MY--!
KEEP QUIET, BIG FELLOW! IN A MOMENT OR TWO YOU MAY RAVE ALL YOU WANT TO.
LOOK, TRACY- HE'S INJECTING SOMETHING INTO THE DOG'S NECK!
WHAT IN THE NAME OF HEAVEN IS HE DOING?
WE'VE NOT A MOMENT TO LOSE! THERE'S A LIFE AT STAKE IN THERE!
ALL RIGHT, LITTLE PRANCER, GO AFTER HIM.
SNIP
MY NAME IS BLAINE - I USED TO BE BUTLER FOR THE DOCTOR. HE PHONED ME TO COME TO SEE HIM AND THEN TOLD ME HE WAS GOING TO USE ME FOR EXPERIMENTATION. AT THE POINT OF A GUN HE STRAPPED ME TO THIS WALL.
THAT ANIMAL YOU KILLED HAD JUST BEEN INOCULATED WITH A HORRIBLE DRUG THE "DOC" DEVISED - WHICH HE BELIEVED WOULD MAKE THE DOG'S BITE INSTANTLY FATAL. HE WAS EXPERIMENTING ON ME!
"DOC'S" MADE A GETAWAY, TRACY.
I SEE! "DOC" HUMP IS APPARENTLY PREPARING TO MURDER BY PROXY! HE'S A MADMAN! A MADMAN WHO MUST BE STOPPED!
